We Evolve
Through Action

We came to high school—young, alone, unsure of ourselves. We were freshmen and active.

And after four years, we see that our actions have changed and have changed us! From awkward freshmen—not child, not adult—we have changed to young adults just by the process of growing.

From naive youth, we have become more sophisticated. The process of change by learning and discovering new ideas, finding out about new possibilities, trying new techniques, perfecting new skills, understanding our own motives and reactions has changed us. Our actions and activities have formed our identities.

Looking back we know that our actions have been working and waiting, dreaming and despairing, aspiring and arguing, griping and grinning. But finally, and most important, we have begun the "maturing process,"—learning from living.
Maturing—bewildering, exhilarating, painful, illuminating, frustrating, confusing and wonderful.
Action—observing, discussing, experimenting, solving, memorizing, discovering, analyzing, inquiring, developing, achieving—maturing.
Mrs. Jared's talent as a teacher was constantly reflected in her moods. If she caught the fact that we were keeping up with her, she was pleased; if she discovered we were not doing our homework, she was hard as granite; if she found one of us who needed a little extra explanation, she offered it gently. But whatever her mood, we learned!
At this "point" in the yearbook we focus on the "uniqueness" of an "absolutely valuable" teacher. Her power of functioning as a teacher, her "degree of understanding", and her "distribution" of her subject matter are proof that she is in her "element.

As a teacher, her "focus" is upon the student. She does her utmost to "communicate" and "distribute" her algebra "principles" and "axioms." With a stroke of a pencil she "solves" formerly unsolvable problems. Mrs. Jared...the Math Wizard.

As a friend, Mrs. Jared listens, laughs and loves. No practical joke phases her and her helping hand is of "infinite length." Concerning her algebra students' "family," she is truly in her "domain." Mrs. Jared...the Concerned Friend.

As a Thinker, Mrs. Jared disciplines young minds, "accelerating and amplifying" their progress. She drills in logic, patience, judgments, "probabilities" and "divergences" which give the "properties" and "variables" necessary to problem-solving, an exercise in preparation for the future. "critical points." Mrs. Jared...the Mind Trainer.

And, finally, Mrs. Jared is known to be challenged and charmed by the capable mathematician. But she knows no "limit" and is "constant" in her efforts to teach "analytical techniques" to students who resist them, "positive proof" of her dedication to teaching and her hold in her subject area.

To you, Mrs. Muriel Jared, we, of the Totem Pole staff, proudly dedicate the 1970-71 yearbook.

Muriel Jared
"Sum Teacher"
The faculty directed our actions. They challenged us, argued with us, directed us, frustrated us, guided us, and taught us. Through them we were introduced to processes, qualities, ideas, values, and solutions. With them we formed a team—of action—mutually interested in our development.

Teachers are special people—not while we are their students so much as later, when we reflect on their untiring efforts, their consistent enthusiasm, and their interest in us individually and as a generation.

The formula is teacher plus student equals action and maturity. We know the formula now better than ever before and we will appreciate it more and more after we leave.
School Board Acts For Our Benefit

These eight men act in our interest. Elected to the school board, these men serve without pay to bring to our district the best facilities and the best policies which the district can afford. Their interest is us; our teachers, our curriculum, our buildings, our equipment and supplies, our transportation. There is no end to the list of things they try to provide for us and no end to the benefit we derive from their work.

Administration

Directs Us

Our school administrators and their "behind the scenes" assistants are the real organizers of our school. Selecting events, compiling data, consulting with departments and keeping track of us are their main objectives but they are always ready to help us, discipline us, advise us and consult with us. There are many of us and few of them and we keep them busy. We can safely say that their abilities are unique and unusual when we realize that our school runs smoothly in spite of us and because of them.

Actions For Beauty

The sound of music and the creation of a wall-hanging or a piece of jewelry give to us the discipline of assembling our abilities and directing them toward a total performance. And this is one of the primary actions of life—assembling our abilities and directing them toward our life goal.
To Guide, To Advise, To Direct Our Actions

Specialists in their respective fields, these people are our guideposts. Their interest in us and our goals is their life's work. Our goals, our actions and our problems become theirs.

Dances, plays, musicals, lyceums, dress down days, assemblies. . . this is where the action is. The satisfaction of extra-curricular activities makes school days "the good ole days" of our youth.

School is supposed to be fun as well as work. BSHS does everything possible to satisfy all student drives—social, athletic, dramatic and just simple fun. All we had to do was participate—ACT! School was fun. And if it wasn't it was our own fault!!
Homecoming. . . .

Homecoming...a very special event, is a ritual so old that no one can remember when it began. Maybe it stems from an old Indian custom. Indeed, with a little imagination, the cheering crowds of students snake-dancing around the age-old bonfire could be a tribe of "braves" performing a war dance. Even our teams' name—BRAVES—contributes to this feeling of the past.

Homecoming is the time to participate, to become involved. The building of the floats, the bonfire, the parade, the football game, the Homecoming dance—a series of events which gather momentum until everyone is completely, happily, dizzily involved. The nights of fun working on the floats, the parade to show them off, the excitement of the football game, the thrill of the victory and the finale—the Homecoming dance—all make the Homecoming Weekend "where it's at."

Carrying his tomahawk, Craig Ward steps out of the tepee to be presented as Injun Joe candidate.

The title of Injun Joe is presented to a senior boy who best represents the “Spirit of the Bonner Braves.” This custom, started by the Totem Pole Staff, is a fitting one for Brave country—for it bestows on a “Brave” an honor for his contribution to school activities and to the image of the Braves. (David Herdman, sixth candidate for the Injun Joe title, was not available to be photographed.)
The Music Man Comes To Bonner High

With double casting and its many necessary crew members, The Music Man included many of the high school student body, with two students, Karl Bricker and Derek Grider, imported from the Junior High to fill the role of Winthrop Paroo!

Set in River City, Iowa, the musical concerns Professor Harold Hill, confidence man par excellence, who arrives in River City supposedly to begin a boys' band, but in reality to get the money for uniforms and instruments and take off on the next train. Instead, he finds himself conned neatly into a love affair with Marian Paroo, the town librarian, which changes his way of life as much as his own optimistic and cheerful attitudes have changed the life of every River City citizen.

The production is replete with characters, Mrs. Shinn, the mayor's jibbery wife, Mrs. Paroo, Marian's all-Irish mother, Marcellus Washburn, the professor's accomplice with a flair, and the mayor himself, River City's own tyrant.

Henry Embree and Brent Fleming ably designed and built the River City set, which included the Paroo's home, the billiard parlor, the general store and the revolving livery stable/library, all of which colorfully set the scene for this most enthusiastic of musicals.

Marian (Suzanne Carbery) just came to the realization that perhaps music lessons from Professor Hill would broaden her horizons.

Jess Herdman works into voice as the "Music Man."
The Mayor of River City (Brent Fleming) is ready to get annoyed.

"O yes, it's you!!"

The reason for his irritation: Tommy Djilas (Randy Day) from the "wrong side of town" is courting his eldest daughter, Zaneeta, (Kay Kitzman).

River Citizens Vanessa Boerner, Mary Schultz and Karl Bricker, as Winthrop, learn that Harold Hill is a flim-flam man.
Marian (Ann Firkins) bursts into song.

Winthrop Paroo (Derek Grider) gets a first look down his solid silver coronet.

Mrs. Paroo (Terry Simmons) is tired of hearing about Marian’s “Dream Man”. She thinks Harold Hill is a fine bet for her daughter. At least he is available.

Mayor Shinn (Brent Fleming) and Mrs. Shinn (Toni Foster) react differently to Harold Hill.
Winthrop and Mrs. Paroo (Diana Miller) at the Ice Cream Sociable.

Since he doesn't believe Marcellus Washburn (Russell Simmons) or Mrs. Squires (Barbara O'Brien) concerning Professor Hill's golden intentions, the Mayor speaks up, constantly!

Harold is convincing Eward Dunlop (Chuck Dratwick) and the other school board members of the wisdom of a school music program.

Mrs. Shinn and Mrs. Paroo prepare a song and dance for the Ice Cream Sociable.

Sports play an important part in the student life at Bonner Springs High School. For the athletes, good sportsmanship, split decision-making, and teamwork teach a practical course in human relations and resources. Everyone participates. Cheering at games until hoarse, the student body participates. Parents and faculty attend. They participate.

The grand family of Bonner forms an invisible bond, generated by the seasonal sports, that will be remembered always. Our Teams!!

Building strong bodies. . .Cross Country never quite gets the credit or glory football, basketball, or wrestling receives, yet it's just as much a part of the total Bonner Action. No cheerleaders, no crowds of spectators. Just a stretch of land, a whistle and they're off—alone. . .muscles straining to get ahead. This year, under Coach Russell, we had an unusually good team. Two boys, Steve Shaad and Dennis Dalsing, became the 1st boys to go to State. One more point and the whole team would have gone. Second in E.K.L. this year, and five boys returning, Bonner can be proud of its Cross Country Team.

This wrestling season proved to be Bonner's most exciting and successful. From EKL to State, we gained momentum and followers. Not rain, nor sleet, nor blizzards kept us from State and our third place with our champ, Frank Gonzalez. The fans followed us and faithfully plowed through the blizzard to watch us. And we made it worth their effort.

Their Finest Records

The 1970-71 Varsity Track Team brought to Bonner its first team trophy ever. It then proceeded to bring home four more including a second place finish in their regional tournament. Steve Shaad broke his own mile and two-mile records while Steve Wheeler set one of his own in the 440. Tim DeGroot set another record in the high hurdles and the Mile Relay team broke the old mark by 2.5 seconds.

Thanks to their new track in the new stadium, Bonner was not only able to host meets, but could also prepare properly for meets. Track can now be ranked with the winning sports at Bonner.

Steve Shaad, Sophomore miler, disciplines himself by running 4 to 8 miles daily and becomes a real contender for the future.

Student Council achieved a great deal this year. The most important thing accomplished was the change in the dress code. With the freedom to dress as they wished, the student body responded by dressing moderately and proved that they could cope sensibly with a new freedom.
Student Council gives students the opportunity to understand the problems of administration. Representatives to Student Council bring student ideas to the meetings and learn that the act of policy-making is not a simple one. Learning how to set up guidelines, learning how to compromise for the benefit of the largest number of students and just learning that representing and speaking for a group of students is an important democratic responsibility is Student Council.

Vocal Music Takes Training

And Becomes Fun

To win honors in every area of high school life is the objective of the student body and honors were won. Valuable scholarships were awarded, new records were set in sports. Junior Classical League, debate team and the dramatics corps set new standards. With this kind of a student body, the days were always active and full.
Class leadership in academic ability is not earned in one year. It is the fruit of twelve years' labor. And these two students were scholars throughout their educational years. But they not only were leaders in scholastic ability, they were also involved in other areas also. Jane took Graphic Arts and became a skilled photographer and while she was a biology assistant, did some interesting organic gardening in the greenhouse. Pam was involved with band for four years and earned the John Philip Sousa award as well as became one of the advanced secretarial training students.
Students Receive Special Recognition

It has become a custom to honor students who have a 3.50 grade average and this year six members of the graduating class were able to finish high school with this high grade average.

Each year the Rotary Club honors students who have shown special interest and ability in a given field.

Students and their sponsors being initiated into the National Honor Society.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society membership is selected from the top twenty-five percent of the class. Students who are finally selected represent high leadership qualities, good character and have made a significant contribution to the school in service. Membership in National Honor Society is coveted and the initiation ceremony is serious and impressive.

Students Earn Special Honors

As the year closed, scholarships were applied for and won. Jane Horvat earned the WRAIN four year nursing scholarship. Debbie Jones won the FTA scholarship and the Rotary scholarship. Henry Embree won the Cohn scholarship to Rice University and Troy Huffman won the Electronic Institute scholarship.

Gary Walton and Kim Stone applied for the student workshop on government and were accepted. They spent a week in Washington, D.C. observing government at work and attending classes and seminars on the role of government in a democratic society.
Pat McGraw receives the trophy which goes with being awarded the "Athlete of the Year" honor.

Mike Woolf hands Coach Richard Burns a certificate.

The Athletic Banquet is an annual event sponsored by the Bonner Boosters. All the athletes are invited and are eager to attend so that they might learn who has been selected "Athlete of the Year." This is just one of the many ways the members of the Bonner Springs community lets us know that they support us.

Debators Display
Mental Agility

Under the expert guidance of Mrs. Vickie May, the debate team showed their ability by winning several tournaments and trophies.

Banquet Honors
Student Pacesetters

Mr. Kenneth Tewell, Superintendent of Schools, welcomes the honor students.

Once a year, a banquet is held to honor the students who have been on the honor roll at least three out of four quarters. These students are called “The Pacesetters”...for they show by their academic interest their strong desire to set a progressive pace.

Tayna Kozelle and Loretta Miller find their places at the banquet.

Debbie Hurst, Cheri Burcham and Sandy Dunn enjoy the dinner and the companionship of other pacesetters.

Hubert Bruce, David Nevils, Troy Stean, Randy Ford, Russell Simmons, Jess Herdman and Sam Nevils provide the entertainment for the honor students.
Students Rewarded For Achievements

Pam Kempfer receives the John Philip Sousa award from Mr. David Bauer.

Doug Clark passes out the National Business Honor Society awards to Margaret May, Pam Dale, Elaine Reiss, Virginia Luttrell, Mary Lou Meier and Ann Firkins.

Mrs. Beulah Brown hands Steve Shaad a certificate of merit for scholastic ability shown on the national test for sophomores.

Mrs. Doris Stith awards members of JCL certificates for winning the state convention. From left to right, Elaine Reiss, Alice Forester, Barbara O'Brien, Ann Ottinger and Doug Clark.
From Graphics To Art

One of the fun courses is Graphic Arts. Under the imaginative instruction of Mr. Mike Bell, students learn the art of photography and printing. From the taking of the picture to the developing and printing, students are introduced to a body of knowledge which may become a life's work or an interesting hobby. Creativity and imagination as well as skills are exercised and hundreds of photos are printed—as evidenced in this yearbook.

Mr. Mike Bell peers at a strip of negatives taken and developed by his photographers.

Watch out, everyone, Steve Fabac is about to take out his camera and shoot you!
In every student body there is a student who is special because of some special characteristic. Charles Dalaba was the “special” student in the class of 1970-71. His courage and determination to earn a high school diploma was an example to all of us. To us in his senior will, he gave thanks for helping him through school. To him we give our deepest admiration and our very best wishes.

Four classes like four fraternal groups have with them—leadership, loyalty, achievements and togetherness. No student is without the feeling of belonging for he belongs to his class, works within his class for the benefit of it, and is proud of the identity of his class and of himself as a part of it. Freshman, sophomore, junior or senior, students wear their class identification with pride and constantly strive to contribute to its glory.

Graduation. . .The End And The Beginning

Pam Kempfer delivers the salutatorian address to her fellow students and guests.

Gary Walton plays in the Bonner High band for the last time.

Jane Horvat trying to look calm as she waits for the graduation march to start.
The evening of May 25 was beautiful and solemn. Before a stadium full of friends and relatives, the graduation exercise made us realize that we had mixed emotions. A week before we just wanted to graduate. But that night we knew that graduating meant something we hadn't bargained for...leaving something that was more important to us than we thought. Being a part of Bonner Springs High school had made its indelible mark on us.

Before All Of Those Who Were Proud Of Us, We Were Proud
Sharon Prier, Bill Miller and Sherry Page look at old yearbooks for ideas in Journalism class.

Kathi Lee Mott getting ready for the important ceremony... graduation.
Students of Bonner High owe much to the business community of Bonner Springs. These men support our academic and athletic activities not only with their enthusiasm and time but also with money. Their interest in making it possible for us to do many things makes us proud to have been a part of the Bonner Springs High School.
Best Wishes To The
1971 Graduates

To end a yearbook is much like ending your high school years...you don't know what you will miss and even though you are glad it is over, you are a little scared. If you are a yearbook editor, you are scared about the way people will receive your efforts for you have recorded for them four years of their lives. If you are a senior, you are scared of the future and the decisions you will have to make.

Whatever happens in the future and however the yearbook turns out, one thing is sure...fond memories are tucked away and though we will never be able to be a part of Bonner Springs High School again, it will always be a part of us.

And So Goodbye...
