Homecoming ’84

Although an overcast sky dulled the morning of Homecoming ’84, the spirits of many Bonner supporters were not dampened. The rain began shortly before game time, showering the loyal supporters who watched the Braves demolish the Turner Bears, 40-9.

Soaked but excited, Jill Jenkins was crowned the 1984 Homecoming Queen with her court including seniors Michelle McTaggart and Nicki Barger; junior Bridgette Greer; and sophomore Lisa Pickert.

The evening came to a close with the annual dance, featuring the theme “When You Wish Upon A Star.”

Officially, Homecoming ’84 began with many students participating in Spirit Week. Students dressed up according to themes ranging from Sweat Day to Beach Bum Day.

A Friday evening pep rally brought a week of float construction to a close. The Junior Class won the float competition, with the Senior Class capturing second place.

Senior Jill Jenkins’ wish came true when she was crowned the 1984 Homecoming Queen. Sophia DeLeon, last year’s queen, placed the sparkling tiara on Jill’s head during the half-time festivities in the game against Turner.

Jill has participated in many activities throughout high school, including: Kayettes, three years; cheerleading, two years; basketball, two years, track, one year, Forensics, one year; Powder Puff football, two years; Pow Wow, three years; B-Club, three years; and JCL, one year.

She had also served as Stuco secretary and president and Totem Pole editor.

Emotional medley

Once again, director Bari Foote and the theatrical department of BSHS captured our emotions Nov. 15, 16 & 17 with their production of "Potpourri—An Evening of Theatre."

"Potpourri" was a first for the BSHS stage, containing three one-act plays. The evening was probably summed up best by Ms. Foote when she referred to it as an "emotional medley."

The evening started off light-heartedly with "Bernice Bobs Her Hair," staged in the 1920's, with one adolescent crisis after another. Then, "In Act Without Words" junior Randy Freeman single-handedly kept the audience captivated with his mime presentation.

When the curtains opened for the final act, the mood on stage had changed and the cast of "I Never Saw Another Butterfly" thrust the audience into the nightmare of Auschwitz.

Throughout the evening, the talent of the BSHS Drama Department become more evident. "This was the largest cast we've ever had. Kids were double cast and triple cast; it was a great showcase for our talents," said Ms. Foote.

Play/13
"Rodgers and Hammerstein's 'The Sound of Music,' has a universal appeal that transcends the passage of time. Its touching combination of humor, drama and warmth melts even the most cynical audiences," said Miss Laurie Brenner, vocal music director.

On April 19, 20 and 21, the BSHS vocal music department, drama department, and concert band, touched the hearts of the audience by displaying their talent in the musical "The Sound of Music." A large cast was needed for the production, with the actors ranging from six-year-olds to high school age.

The musical's plot exemplifies every day life by stressing the point that even though there will be some tough mountains to climb, we must never lose sight of our dreams. The actors in the musical made the audience feel as if they were part of the play themselves, by bringing tears to their eyes and joy to their heart.

Jingle bell rock

"It's Beginning to Look A Lot Like Christmas" was the hit theme for the 1984 Christmas Dance.

Rock videos, a new attraction, provided the entertainment for the dance throughout the evening. A large screen was set up so that the students were able to dance to the popular music or to sit and enjoy the videos.

The dance drew a large crowd with many saying it was the best dance this year. Along with the videos, there were outstanding decorations prepared by Stuco. Helium balloons covered the ceiling and lined the entrance while streamers and curly ribbons highlighted the tables and the dance floor, creating a festive atmosphere.

This year, the procedure of selecting the royalty was different, with senior Bill Frentrop being elected as the first Christmas King. Also honored were Robin Roberts, who was elected Queen, while junior Pat Pickert and sophomore Julie Laing were named prince and princess.

Festive affair

"Don’t Let It End” was selected as the 1985 smash hit theme by the Junior Class officers for Prom, which was held May 4.

For most, the evening started out by getting ready early enough to have pictures taken at home, then advancing to the Lake Forest Clubhouse, where the majority of the evening was spent. Through the course of the night, the disc jockey, from Sound Dynamics, played an array of music. Also adding excitement, taped dedications could be played over a video screen set up for viewing by all attending.

All in all, this year's event attracted 185 people, which was “the most ever in five years,” according to Ms. Linda Horvath, Junior Class sponsor.

Superior Season

The goal of the 1984 Bonner Bravettes’ volleyball team was the chance to get to play at State. This went hand in hand with their motto, “If you can dream it, you can do it.”

At Tonganoxie, the squad was highly motivated and captured the first-place title. Highlighting this victory was the selection of senior Jean Mills as most valuable player. Mills was also named to the all-tourney team along with junior Kathy Bates.

At the KCKCC tourney, the Bravettes met Ward in the finals and lost a close one. The second-place medal, and the many accomplishments, boosted their confidence and made them strive for greater success.

Coach Shirley Vaughn said that seniors Kerri Jennings and Pompi Miller, and junior Amy Smith were consistent through the year and added to the team’s depth.

With a first-place finish in the EKL, and with three members—junior Kristi Finley, Mills, and Bates—selected to the all-EKL team, the Bravettes were now ready for post-season action.

A victory over Washburn Rural in sub-state play boosted the team to achieving their season long goal of going to State.

Girls Take State

Some goals are set higher than others, some may be more important than others, but the realization of any goal—no matter what it is—produces the highest feeling imaginable.

One enormous goal was reached Nov. 3 by the BSHS girls' volleyball team. These girls, Kristi Finley, Amy Smith, Jean Mills, Kathy Bates, Pompi Miller, Kerri Jennings, Mikki Allen, Tammy Bates, Marla Brown, Shawna Fisher, Jill Jenkins, Suzette Hutchinson, and assistant coach Hatsie Lawrence and head coach Shirley Vaughn, set a goal of going to the State tournament when the season began. The squad then went on to exceed this goal when they became the 1984 Kansas Class 5-A State Volleyball champs.

"The Saturday at State was the first time the team really realized that they could win it all," said Coach Vaughn.

The tournament was set up in a pool-play format, and the Bravettes were matched to play Goddard in the opening round. The Bravettes won the match easily, but then lost a game to McPherson.

"They (the Bravettes) didn't play up to their capabilities, but they vowed that if there was a rematch, they would win it!" said Coach Vaughn.

The girls weren't down after the loss, and bounced back to win their second game against a team from Altamont-Labette.

The perfect game of the season was played against Salina Central, where the squad performed flawlessly on their way to a 15-0 blowout.

"The girls did everything right, nothing could go wrong," commented Coach Vaughn.

This win vaulted the girls into the finals with a rematch against McPherson for the State crown.

Coming out with a newfound look of intensity, the Bravettes got their revenge, 15-11, and claimed the state championship.

"Playing volleyball at State this year was an unforgettable experience. It was the highlight of my high school years. The feeling was so incredible when they handed us our medals," said senior Jean Mills, one of the Bravettes' top competitors.

The win against McPherson made the title of "State Champs" a reality for the Bravettes, and it also meant that these girls were the best in the whole state, a feat they can be proud of!

—Jeff Brizendine

We're Number One! The entire BSHS volleyball team shows their togetherness in a celebration held before the state tournament.

Spike that ball! The Bravettes watch senior Jean Mills as she gets ready for a spike at the state championship in Newton.

Now listen to this. Coach Shirley Vaughn encourages her team to victory.

On the mark. Senior Jean Mills sets the ball up while Kathy Bates and Pompi Miller look on.

Sports/31
The 1984 Bonner Braves football team season was filled with victories, excellent stats, and awards. The season was filled with many highlights throughout the year, including the posting of a 6-3 record. The squad placed 5-1 in the EKL, making them tri-champs with Olathe North and Olathe South.

A victory over Olathe South would have given the Braves a shot at the State playoffs, but the squad fell short of this goal, losing 16-7 in the last game of the season.

The Braves had many things to be proud of during the 1984 season. Several Bonner players were named to all-EKL squad at the end of the year: senior Joe Sechrist, lineman; and junior Rodney McConico, running back. First-team defense selections included junior Greg Cop, nose guard; and senior, Dan Burns, linebacker. Receiving all-EKL honorable mentions were junior Mike Means, senior Stan Harden, junior Bill Kelly, senior Brad Palmberg, senior James Ogilvie, senior Bret Hitchcock, junior Jerold Fletcher, and senior Dana Nelson.

The Braves also led the league in rushing offense. Rodney McConico led the squad with 758 yards. To top it off, the Braves allowed the least number of rushing yards in the EKL.

—Jeff Brizendine
Who has the ball? Both Bonner and Miege players look confused as they search for the ball. The Braves went on to defeat the Stags, 14-3.

1985 was no ordinary year for the Bonner Springs wrestling team. It was a season of realistic goals that were set and ultimately achieved by the squad. One important goal the squad set was to place in the top two in every tournament. The squad more than met this goal, with the Braves winning every dual match they were entered in. Another goal the squad set was to win the EKL title. The Braves also thought they could go to State competition, and they set a goal that was reasonable—bringing home a trophy from State. And, since the Braves sent ten wrestlers to State this year, they thought they could place at least third. Although the Braves didn't fare as well as predicted and eventually placed eighth in the state, the season was successful overall.

New head coach Tim McGinnis said that BSHS had more athletes come out and compete in wrestling than in previous years. "It was a well-disciplined team that gave 100 percent effort every time they stepped out on the mat," said McGinnis. "Dan Burns, Ryan Smith, Stan Harden, David Blackwell and Jeff Holloway were my picks to go to State from the start, but Tim Ballou, Curt Mauk, Eric Bauswell, Mark Tinberg, and Jay Verdict came through at the end of the year," McGinnis added. "We were a powerful team, we weren't afraid of anybody."

The big wins of the season came when the grapplers captured the Park Hill tournament and when they took the EKL crown, with six of seven wrestlers entering the finals claiming championships. In winning the EKL, the Braves captured the first wrestling championship for BSHS since 1977.

Teamwork helps

"The team set realistic goals for themselves, and they met them," commented Al Morey, who coached the 1984 boys’ cross country team.

An unusual quality of cohesiveness and team unity were shown by this year’s squad, with the Braves finishing in the top 50 percentile in all regular season meets. In EKL competition, the squad finished fourth.

The squad’s highest finish came at the Paola Invitational where they placed second.

At their own invitational, the Braves finished with 170 total points, placing eighth out of the ten teams attending. Sophomore Steve Christensen brought home the only medal for the squad.

Bonner just missed the chance of having the team compete at State as senior Tim Ballou and sophomore Steve Christensen fared well in the regional meet. Christensen did move on to state competition and exceeded his personal goal, placing 19th with a time of 10:28.

Next year’s team appears to be even stronger with returning lettermen Steve Christensen, Bill Downing, and Aaron Brizendine forming the nucleus.

Records fall in '85

The 1984-85 season for the Bravettes was filled with many records. First, the squad posted their best season record — a 15-6 mark. The Bravettes also set a new team scoring mark, netting 1,150 points for a 54.76 points per game average.

In other record-setting areas, the squad recorded 325 assists. The solid Bravette team was led by senior Jean Mills, who established a new school record by scoring 343 points for a 16.3 points per game average. Junior Kathy Bates was second in scoring with a 14.4 average.

Junior Kristi Finley dished out a team-leading 109 assists and set a new school mark with 72 steals.

In addition to posting their best record ever, the Bravettes finished second in the DeSoto tournament. In EKL play, the Bravettes had a 9-3 mark. In non-league action, a season highlight for the Bravettes came when they defeated highly-touted Bishop Ward, 66-61.

The heart-breaker of the season came at Washburn Rural, where the Bravettes fell just seconds short of moving to the state tournament. Coach Shirley Vaughn’s squad commanded the game for 2½ quarters, but that lead diminished when the Junior Blues dished out 14 unanswered points in the third period and forced numerous turnovers.

Let me shoot it! Junior Kristi Finley shows her opponent how to put one in from long range.

Season of learning

The 1984-85 boys' basketball season was not just another season for first year coach John Heckathorne and the Bonner Braves. The team knew they had the difficult task of following a state championship season, but felt they could win most of their ball games with some hard work and determination.

Finishing with a 11-10 record, 1984-85 was a learning year for Bonner. "I enjoyed my first year as coach; I learned more than anyone else," commented Coach John Heckathorne.

Bonner's season

Driving to the goal. Bonner's leading scorer, Mike Martin, scores another basket.

Bonner's season started out with a third place finish at the Paola- Ottawa tournament, and the ever tough EKL season was next for the Braves. With the likes of teams such as Olathe South and North, and Blue Valley, Bonner had a rough road ahead of them.

Coach Heckathorne's team played well against league opponents, and they placed third in the EKL.

The Braves were led by senior co-captain Mike Martin, who netted 389 points for a 18.5 average. Co-captain James Downing paced the Braves in rebounding with 174. In the assists department, Brad Palmberg dished out a team high 72.

Going in for two. Senior James Downing moves in for a bucket against Olathe South.

Six qualify for State

Led by six state qualifiers, the BSHS track squad enjoyed a successful season. Although the number of athletes participating in track this year was down due to the addition of softball and baseball, the squad was highly competitive.

"The 1985 track season was one of surprise and great success," said Coach Joe Mintner. "In every track meet, both the boys and girls squads performed well."

The season was noted for many accomplishments. Junior Kathy Bates set a new mark in the high jump and junior javelin thrower Bill Kelly; and senior discus thrower James Downing were regional and EKL champions.

One of the highlights of the season came when six tracksters qualified for the state meet at Wichita. The squad was led by Downing, who qualified in the discus and shot put, and sophomore Steve Christensen, who qualified in the 1,600 and 3,200-meter runs.

Also qualifying were junior Bridgette Greer (100-yard dash), Bates (high jump), Kelly (javelin), and Cynthia Munden (shot put.)

The only Braves to place at state were Christensen, who recorded a fifth in the 3,200-meter run, and Kelly, who placed third in the javelin.

Netters improve

With two new tennis courts right outside the door, the season began well for the BSHS tennis squad.

It was a young team for Coach Bill Scott, with only two lettermen—Jeff Brizendine and Jeff Dolinar—leading the squad.

The squad fared better than expected, with good doubles play from Dolinar and Brizendine and from Al Cummings and Shawn Walker.

At the EKL meet held at Olathe North, the Braves finished fourth. In regional play, all of the netters lost in the first round.

Returning the serves

An inexperienced squad of one senior, one junior, eight sophomores and two freshmen were what tennis Coach Bill Scott faced in 1984. Despite their inexperience and harsh weather conditions, the young squad performed well.

A big plus for the team was the addition of transfer sophomore Miste Bitner. Bitner held down the No. 1 singles position and was the only Bravette to advance to state competition, where she lost in the second round of the tourney. Bitner finished second in the EKL tournament.

A big victory for the squad came at the Baldwin Invitational, where they placed third and earned nine medals. At the annual EKL meet, the Bravettes placed fourth.
Spring sports added

1985 was the year that saw the addition of softball and baseball to the offering of spring sports at BSHS. Both squads fared well in their initial seasons, with the Braves posting a 9-10 mark and the girls concluding with a 14-8 overall record and a 10-8 varsity record.

Senior Brad Palmberg led the Braves in hitting with a .389 average and 23 hits. Palmberg, junior Greg Cop, and sophomore Shawn Hall each had two home runs. Hall was the squad's top RBI man with 23.

Senior Kerri Jennings paced the Bravettes with 29 hits and a .475 batting average. Junior Kristi Finley batted .436 and had the team's only home run. Marla Brown knocked in a team high 23 RBI's.

Sophomore Kandi Ford had a 7-1 pitching record while sophomore Susie Newton recorded a 7-7 mark.

Season Record 14-8
Paced by a corps of three juniors, two sophomores, and a freshman, the 1985 golf team "improved as the season progressed," according to Coach Bob Chatterton.

The highlight for the squad came in their final match, regionals, where they shot their best score of the season, a 366.

Junior David Stephan and frosh Richard Laing led the team by averaging 92 throughout the season. In addition, juniors Pat Pickert and Eric Reynolds and sophomores Mitch Bernard and Gary Courtney averaged in the 90's for the squad.

The outlook for next year is bright considering the progress the team made this season. All members of the squad will be returning to the golf program next year.

A year of success

BSHS Student Council began their busy year with a new president, Jill Jenkins. Jill and other officers brought many new ideas to the 1984-85 student body.

The year started off with a very successful Homecoming schedule. The theme this year was “When You Wish Upon a Star.” The dance was rolled with a disc jockey from Topeka.

The Christmas dance was even more of a success with the introduction of a new kind of entertainment, music videos. Balloons and snowflakes complemented the theme, “It’s Beginning to Look A Lot Like Christmas.”

For one of their many projects, Stuco adopted grandparents from Bonner Health Center. Not only were major holidays celebrated with our elderly friends, but Stuco members also helped them celebrate their birthdays and decorated accordingly.

Other events sponsored by Stuco this year included concession stands, penny drives, and community service projects. Stuco also introduced a SADD program, which is Students Against Driving Drunk.

In all, Stuco had a very successful and rewarding year.

Super squad

The 1985 BSHS cheerleaders won a variety of awards throughout the summer and school year. Some of these included the "Best Skit" award, which they won at Emporia State while attending camp. Also, the squad helped BSHS win the "Best Pep Section" award at the Tonganoxie Tournament. Overall, the cheerleaders had a successful year.

Dance, dance, dance

Entertaining the crowds at home ball games was busy yet rewarding job for the Bonnerettes, the BSHS pompon squad. During the summer, the Bonnerettes attended camp at Ottawa University, where they took second place overall. This gave the Bonnerettes a chance to compete nationally. However, because the national competition was held in Missouri, the Bonnerettes couldn’t compete under Kansas rules.

Under the leadership of captains Robin Roberts and Michelle McTaggart, the squad entertained the crowd with one outstanding performance after another. In one of their more popular routines, the Bonnerettes strutted their stuff by using chairs and dancing to Madonna’s “Strut.”

Captain Robin Roberts said “the squad had lots of good times” and “it took a lot of practice since the home games were so close together.”

Music makers

Directing the year with a special touch, BSHS band director Lorrie Brown helped individuals throughout the year to improve their understanding of music. In addition, 1984-85 was noted with several accomplishments for the band and its members. Among these achievements, Drum Major Shelly Eickhoff was honored with the John Phillip Sousa award — presented annually to an outstanding senior.

A brand-new instrument, a tuba, was added to the band during the year. The band members raised half the money for the instrument by selling house supplies, and the other half was given to the band by the school district.

A festive time...

In merry olde England

The evening of Nov. 29 was filled with entertainment and feasting in the tradition of "Merry Olde England" as the vocal music department presented its annual Madrigal Feast.

This evening recreated a festive dinner in a Renaissance Royal Court, with members of the vocal music department portraying peasants, beggers, the Royal Guard, and other characters. Members of the Ebony and Rust singers acted as the Royal Court.

A special beverage, wassail, was served to the guests as they enjoyed pork and other dishes. As an introduction, an actual boar's head was served.

After the meal, those attending were treated to a variety of musical numbers. Although the crowd was not up to standards, vocal music director Laurie Brenner said the event was a success.

Likewise, students who participated in the feast enjoyed the performance. "It was fun to turn the tables back around to the Medieval time," said senior Victor Ayers.

Junior Lisa Nevius, who portrayed a tourbador, added: "I enjoyed the Renaissance spirit, and it was fun to work with the singers."

A similar event is planned for next year.

Under the direction of a new instructor, Ms. Laurie Brenner, the vocal music department enjoyed an exciting and eventful year. The vocal music groups stayed busy throughout the year as they prepared for four concerts, a Madrigal Feaste, state and regional contests, community performances, and a spring musical. As an additional activity, some of the groups attended a workshop with professional conductor Roger Wagner.

In state and regional contests, senior Jean Mills, juniors Tonya Ferrell and Kristina Lenz, and the Girls' Triple Trio Ensemble all received I ratings. These same performers also competed at State and earned II's.

The highlight of the year for the department came in the spring when they joined the music and drama departments for the production of "The Sound of Music."

A little Latin ...

Who says Latin is dead? It is alive and well at BSHS. The 1984-85 year started out with a bang for the BSHS Junior Classical League, as 15 new members were initiated.

The 25-member club kept busy throughout the year, decorating a float for Homecoming and running concession stands during basketball season.

Of course, the highlight of the year for the BSHS JCL'ers was hosting the Kansas State Junior Classical League Convention, where Mark Kuehn, state JCL president, presided.

This was an eventful day, with students from all over Kansas sharing in their recognition of the Classics. More than 100 students attended the event and participated in academic and athletic competition.

BSHS President, John Kuehn, summed it up, "Our club showed overwhelming spirit in preparation for the JCL convention this year."

International Dinner highlights year

Language and Culture Club members began their year with new officers. Those elected included James Downing, president; Tammy Burnam, vice president; Brian Tieman, secretary; and Patty Burns, treasurer. Throughout the year, L & C members sold candy bars and worked the concession stand at home basketball games.

To conclude the year, the L & C Club joined the Junior Classical League and FHA-HERO for a picnic at the Wyandotte County Park.

One of the highlights of the year for the club came in February when they joined JCL for the International Dinner. A variety of international dishes were served at the annual event, with prize awards to the most appetizing entrees and desserts.
Productive year

"The 84-85 year for FHA-HERO went really well," said Tara McCrink, FHA president.

Under advisers Sharri lyn Honacki and Martha Chandley, the club was represented at a summer camp where president Tara McCrink and vice president Beth Weir attended an FHA workshop in Sterling, Kansas. Throughout the year, FHA-HERO hosted numerous activities for members. Some of these events included a membership breakfast, selling Valentine's cakes, holding football concessions stands, and attending the District E-East and State Meetings.

At the District meeting, the BSHS chapter received a silver award and first place in the chapter display contest.

Arguing the topic

"For doing it all after school and dealing with all the conflicts we had, we finished out a good year. I'm hoping that we'll have returning debaters and do better next year," said Ken Clark, debate coach.

Twelve debaters rounded out the season, including two seniors (Winston Jimenez and Linda Lundblade), and five juniors (Patricia Neal, Cathy Jennings, Al Cummings, Shawn Walker, and Tonya Ferrell).

Building a future team, four sophomores contributed to the squad (Debbie Neal, Johnna Matthews, Cindy Munden and Tara McCrink).

State spirit

Strong performances throughout the year led to a very successful season for the BSHS forensics squad. Most notably, the squad had two groups place in state competition: Mikki Allen and Kelly Burton posted a fifth place in duet acting while Tonya Ferrell and Brian Landers earned a sixth in the same category.

Coach Bari Foote felt the squad's performance this year was "fantastic." She added that this was the first year in the history of BSHS that students had placed in a state meet. "This year couldn't have been better. It was the best squad I have coached in four years, and next year's group looks even more promising," she concluded.

Supporting the arts

A variety of activities filled the 1984-85 school year for members of Thespians Troupe No. 1742.

To begin their year, members rode in a MemeMobile during the annual Homecoming parade.

Later in the year, members sold candy as a fund-raising activity. Members also supported the BSHS fall play and spring musical.

To close out the year, the Thespians hosted an awards banquet with the vocal music department. At this event, Oscarettes were presented for outstanding performances and for top technical work. The theme of this year’s banquet was “Bonner on Broadway.”

Oscarettes were presented to many outstanding drama and music students at the annual Speech and Drama Banquet held May 23. This year’s theme was “Bonner on Broadway.” Held at the Gold Buffet, entertainment during the evening was provided by forensics members and by vocal music students, who offered a variety of Broadway tunes.

During the presentation of the Oscarettes, Randy Freeman and Lisa Jordan were named best actor and actress. Best supporting actor and actress were Greg Mies and Kelly Burton; best character actor and actress were Brian Landers and Erin Phillips.

Mrs. Bari Foote commented on the evening, "It took a great deal of work designing programs, place cards, and centerpieces. But, all in all, 'Bonner on Broadway' was the most successful and enjoyable awards banquet to date."

Is it Friday yet?

With a deadline always on the horizon, the Pow Wow staff stayed busy producing an eight-page newspaper every three weeks.

Under the editorship of senior Javan Owens, a staff of 15 re-designed the newspaper for a more modern look and reported in-depth on issues such as drunken driving, working students, and VCR purchases.

At the end of the year, editor Javan Owens was named the outstanding student journalist in Wyandotte County during the Excellence in Journalism competition sponsored by the Kansas City Star/Times.

Deadline??

It started with a theme. Throughout the year, classmates shared ideas and opinions on how to make a yearbook that would flow around the theme — "A Special Spirit."

During the year, the staff worked hard to produce the 152-page book, with students handling all phases of the book's production. Staffers were responsible for a wide range of tasks such as designing pages, taking photographs, typesetting stories, and pasting up pages.

Advisor Jill Smith commented on the effort shown by students: "This was a very enjoyable group to work with. I think they made a strong effort to produce a yearbook students would enjoy."

Jill Jenkins, editor, added: "The Totem Pole class worked extremely well together to produce a yearbook that Bonner High students can be proud to reflect upon for years to come."

All in all, with staff members sharing ideas and helping each other, the individual sections reflected the efforts. Not only did staff members work in class, but after school and evening work sessions at the Chieftain office proved even more successful.

With over 100 active members, the Kayettes stayed busy throughout year. President Nicki Barger started off the year by hosting a welcome stand during enrollment. This year, for the first time, males were encouraged to join Kayettes and to participate in the various activities. One such activity was the annual Powder Puff game. This event netted more than $300 for the Kayette organization.

Due to the overwhelming size of this group, activities were limited. This year, however, everyone enjoyed Val Pals, an exchange of gifts with other members during the week of Valentine's Day. Doughnut parties were also held on various occasions during activity periods. At such meetings, members enjoyed “pigging out” on doughnuts and socializing.

Powder Puff '84

The lights turned on the football field, while the cheerleaders provoked the overconfident seniors at the Kayettes' annual Powder Puff game held in November.

The game began with the seniors clutching the ball. Finally reaching the two-yard line, the Seniors committed two errors which allowed the Junior-Sophomore team to take control of the ball. While a slight mist coated the field, the game was tied 14-14 in the fourth quarter, with a few minutes remaining. The score stayed the same until the final buzzer. Everyone was in good spirits when the night ended.

Adding to the excitement, Coach Tim McGinnis assisted the Junior-Sophomore team while Tom DeGroot led the Seniors.

Concluding as a success, the game earned more than $325 for the Kayettes.

BSHS undergoes evaluation

Bonner Springs High School prepared this year for a self-study and North Central Association Evaluation. Under the direction of Mr. Al Morey and a steering committee, the faculty and staff spent more than 1,100 hours preparing for the April evaluation.

North Central Association membership requires that a school undergo a self-study and an evaluation once in every seven-year cycle. It is the responsibility of the school’s steering committee to establish the school’s self-study, to coordinate a time schedule for the self-study and the visiting team, to combine all reports from various staff subcommittees, and to make necessary preparations for the visit by the outside team of educators.

Since April of 1984, members of the staff have been preparing for the evaluation. Mr. Morey explained that the faculty and staff spent approximately 28 hours each on the evaluation work. The evaluation has been coordinated by a steering committee which included the following: Deena French, Sharrilyn Honacki, Linda Horvath, Ar dys Kenyan, Tim McGinnis, Dick Nelson, and Chris Wood.

Mr. Morey commented that the staff had much help from the students and patrons. He also said “by having a thorough review of the high school curriculum program and operation, the self-evaluation determines the extent to which the teaching and learning activities within the school carry out.”

Bonner Springs High School was last evaluated in 1978. The school has maintained North Central Association (NCA) membership since 1923.

The visiting team was headed by Bruce Fredrick, a prominent educator associated with the Topeka school district. NCA teams are composed of educators who volunteer their time to evaluate member schools. The team visited BSHS April 10-12.

Despite the hard work and long hours, Mr. Morey said there were many rewards from the evaluation: “The committee members learned to appreciate the other departments and the diverse learning and teaching in the school. In many cases, this was enlightening to the members of the faculty. Moreover, the faculty found that BSHS is an excellent place to teach.”

Faculty/83

Glad to be a part of NHS. Seniors Javan Owens and Michelle McTaggart enjoy the reception for new NHS members.

Standing casual. Joe Sechrist and his sponsor, James Sechrist, strike a quick pose.

Surprise. Kerri Jennings gives her sponsor, Mrs. Freda Reynolds, a gift.
Although continuation of National Honor Society at BSHS came under scrutiny this year, the group initiated 31 new members in May. Because of changes in NHS national guidelines, Principal Don Stokesbury and NHS sponsor Mary Knowles proposed to the USD 204 Board of Education that NHS be discontinued. In place of NHS, they proposed a new 3.5 Honors Group.

The board, however, voted to continue the organization. In the past, NHS members had been selected by a faculty vote, with only 15 percent of the class chosen. Under the new system, the 1984-85 NHS members were selected by a five-member faculty council.

After the board voted to continue NHS, Mrs. Knowles hurried to make preparations for the ceremony. This year’s initiation of 31 members was the largest group ever. “It was bigger and better than ever,” she said.

Super sponsor. Retiring math teacher Muriel Jared is all smiles at the National Honor Society initiation. Mrs. Jared has sponsored students in the ceremony for the past 17 years.

Valedictorian

At the top of his class. Senior Bret Hitchcock, valedictorian, has received many honors throughout high school, including: second-team all-EKL honorable mention in football, all-metro second-team all-state in football. He was also active in clubs such as B-Club, Stuco, JCL, and Statesman Club. Bret plans to attend the University of Kansas, where he has received a scholarship from the Electrical Engineering Department.

Salutatorian

85 Salutatorian. Honored as salutatorian, Kerri Jennings has been on the honor roll each nine weeks, and has received the following awards: Rotary Award for Commerce, Who's Who Among American High School students, Kansas Honor Student, U.S. Army Scholar/Athlete, Governor's Scholar. She has also been active in these clubs: Kayettes, Stuco, JCL, and B-Club. Kerri plans to attend Pittsburg State University or the University of Arizona, where she will major in Sports Medicine or Business Administration. During college, Kerri would like to play softball competitively and other sports.

Citizenship Award

Twice as nice. For the first time in the history of the BSHS, two students, Mark and John Kuehn, received the Citizenship Award. The Kuehns have been involved in several activities. Mark was a member of the Junior Classical League and served as state JCL president his senior year. John has been active in JCL, band, debate, and Scouts.

The Kuehns plan to attend Johnson County Community College. John would like to go on to KU and study accounting, and Mark would like to find a job in either computer programming or data processing.
Scholastic Art Winners

Scholastic Art Winners. The following art students received high honors this year during various competitions. From left, Steve Church received a regional honorable mention in 3-D silversmithing; Rick Schadegg received a national New York honorable mention in jewelry, Rick also received the highest honor, a Gold Key at regionals in jewelry; and Julie Kramer, received a regional honorable mention in 3-D design. They are pictured with Mrs. Mary Knowles, crafts instructor.

National Business Honor Society

Adjusting to high school

Re-adapting to a new school takes time, especially when you have upperclassmen to deal with and being a sophomore isn’t easy! Just ask any underclassmen trying to cope with the adventurous trials of high school. Adjusting to new classes, new teachers, and (most important) new faces, takes an effort that’s not always easy for all.

Whether it be making you feel like high school is a home away from home, or showing you the corner of the commons personally during ten-minute breaks, or acquainting you with a chair and duct tape, upperclassmen aid in making you feel like “one of the guys.”

Being a sophomore also has its advantages also. For instance, no one blames you if your float is crummy, because you’ve never made one before! Responsibility—that says it right there! There is little responsibility at the age of 16, because your parents don’t trust you enough. And the future, you still have time to plan your future with care.

So, there it is! Being a sophomore is an experience we all must encounter at some time, and the class of ’87 has been lucky enough to share the excitement with the class of ’85.

Scurrying around from house to house, from relative to relative, and from friend to friend, the Junior Class had a lot of fun selling magazine subscriptions as a fund-raising activity for the 1985 Prom.

Although sales started out slow, by the end of designated sales period the class had earned approximately $1,500. This year’s top salesmen were Mike Means and Bobbie Ross, who each sold 20 orders. Robin Roberts was close behind with 15 orders.

To encourage sales, a $50 drawing was held, with Mark Watkins taking the prize. Juniors selling a certain amount of magazine subscriptions also had the chance to choose prizes.

Class of 1986!
Describe the spirit of the Class of 1985.

"I think it was pretty good, but I don't have anything to compare it with. However, I like it and that is the only thing that is important for me."—Jocke Schlyter.

"The Class of '85 has many groups. We have the partiers, the athletes, the brains, and then the group that is a little bit of everything. Even though we don't all get along all the time, we love each other and we try to help each other out. I'm gonna miss you all!"—Candy Anderson.

"Not too bad, but it could be a lot better if everyone acted like my brother Bill."—Eddie Fretrop.

"I feel that different groups in our class offer different types of spirit. The class is a close one."—Patty Albertson.
"Although our class has not been as active as I expected, I still believe the Class of '85 is very spirited and enthusiastic." — Michelle McTaggart.

"Very outgoing and ready to support each other in all activities." — Erin Phillips.

"The class spirit doesn't reach its peak until the word "party" is brought up." — Steve Brady.

"Close, togetherness, good times, very outgoing! Caring about one another and about helping others, and having respect for the underclassman." — Lisa Liston.

"It's okay. Not very many people go to breakfasts and we don't have many parties, but one thing the Class of '85 has is a sense of humor." — Angie Nunn

"I'll never forget the spirit of the Class of 85... it is a spirit that is truly undefinable." — Jill Jenkins.

There are so many memories; so many events to reflect on. The past is so safe for we know what it held for us. Yet the future is waiting. Its door is wide open. Though we will not forget what the past means to us, we will go forward, hesitant yet thankful for the knowledge we have attained and the companions who have become part of our lives.
It is so very hard to move forward when what lies ahead is so mysterious, but we will take our own steps in our own directions and years later reflect on the tears and laughter of the Class of '83 once shared together.

The wild life

Many seniors find the only way to make it through a week is to look forward to the weekend. What is there to do on weekends? Need you even ask! This year's Senior Class always had some place to go and many things to do. Parties, poker games, athletic events, and weekend visits to prospective colleges filled many of the weekends. The Plaza seemed to be a great place to just relax and take things easy. Snowy Christmas-time carriage rides in the winter and cruisin' with the top down in the hot summer are just a few of the many things that are enjoyed by this year's Senior Class.

Finally, turning the big 18 also brought the bar scene to many seniors. Dancing the night away seemed a good way to end a week of school and to start a weekend of fun. We were also entertained by local events, such as Braves' sporting events, hitting the local Micky D's, and the ultimate partying place—Archer Road and Price's Bridge. Many of us also found that the high school parking lot becomes a canvas for inspiring artists after dark.

Seniors recall past escapades

The night was April 29th in the commons area of BSHS. As the seniors began to arrive at the annual Senior Dinner, memories of good times throughout their four years of high school flowed through their minds.

The evening began with a meal catered by the Porter's. Shortly after, the entertainment began, and everyone there was anxiously wondering if they had done anything embarrassing enough to be announced to the whole Senior Class. Sure enough, many seniors were jokingly reminded of their past escapades. With Jill Jenkins and Erin Phillips serving as emcees for the annual roast, the night was filled with laughter and fun as memories (never to be forgotten) filled the minds of the Class of '85.

All Smiles. Julia Clarrey is all smiles while is roasted by the Senior Class.

Rah! Rah! Jill Jenkins reminds Mike Zaring of his junior high cheerleading try-outs.

Clowning around. Clay Mauk and Mark Keuhn joke around before the real fun begins.

Chatting. Curt Mauk and Kelly Bergstrom reminisce about their high school days.

Waiting anxiously. Pictured center, Amy Miller, Angie Siragusa, and Geri Neal all wait for the escapades to be revealed.
Class of '85

Poor Sandy! Pictured center, Sandy Toland can't believe they actually told the entire Senior Class.

Embarrassed? Not Ryan Smith, who stands waiting for his story to be told.

Shades. Loretta Howe is caught unexpectedly while she waits for the program to begin.

Silly girls. Jenny Hasvold tries to dance in her seat while Gini Mostar makes fish faces.

Not that story! Regina Fein's memory is jogged by her classmates.

Say Cheese. Pictured center, Melisa Bolton and Evie Thompson enjoy themselves before the roast begins.
Best Smile — John O’Brien and Pompi Miller.
Most Intelligent — Kerri Jennings and Bret Hitchcock.

Most Talented — Loretta Howe and Rick Schadegg.
Most Spirited — Bill Frentrop and Kim Beatty.
Best Dressed — Carlos Williams and Nicki Barger.

Most Likely To Succeed — Greg Mies and Shelly Elckhoff.

Most Athletic — Brad Palmberg and Jean Mills.
Senior Spirit. Enthusiasm was soaring at the close of the senior pep assembly.

Senior Gals. Angie Siragusa, Lisa Liston, Tammy Burnam, Jill Jenkins, and Patty Albertson get ready for the assembly.

Taking a break. Various seniors watch as others prepare for the four-wheel drive race.

Hawaiian Style. James Ogilvie shows his senior spirit.

Leader of the Gang. Andre Oden leads the senior guys in a break dance contest.

Laid Back. Senior Brad Mills takes a minute for a snapshot.
Top seniors honored

On Tuesday, March 25, the journalism department hosted the annual Injun Jane and Joe contest to honor two outstanding seniors.

This year, Dan Burns was selected as Injun Joe by the student body. Over the years, Dan has been actively involved in sports, participating in football, wrestling, golf, and track.

Erin Phillips was selected as Injun Jane. Erin has been active in BSHS activities throughout her high school years and has participated in the following: Kayettes, B-Club, Band, Stuco, Class Vice President, Senior Class President, tennis, track, basketball, A Cappella, and Junior Classical League.
A Toast! Bret Hitchcock and Kerri Jennings believe no wine should be served before its time.

Attention! Pictured center, Suann Chayer tells the audience what it's like to be a part of the Army.

Announcing! Lisa Liston announces the contestants of the feud.

Guy or girl? Pictured above, center, James Downing acts out an Army commercial.

Richard Dawson? Javan Owens was the host for the Injun Joe feud.

Play or pass on? Pictured center, Bill Frentrop contemplates the question.
Class of '85 moves on

The Class of '85 held their commencement exercises on May 21. In the middle of the ceremony, Salutatorian Kerri Jennings and Valedictorian, Bret Hitchcock presented speeches on their past and present experiences.

Preceeding the speeches, class president Erin Phillips announced that the senior gift of approximately $1,000 would be given to the Alumni Fund for audio visual purposes. Diplomas were presented by USD 204 Board President Ted Stolfus. Mrs. Muriel Jared, who retired from the district at the end of the year, was also honored for her years of service.

Top students. Bret Hitchcock, left, and Kerri Jennings, right, present their speeches.

Thank you. John Kuehn receives his diploma from Dr. Ted Stolfus.

Waiting their turn. 1985 graduates look on as they watch their classmates receive their diplomas.

Congratulations. Tracy Blanchard receives her long-awaited diploma from Dr. Ted Stolfus.

Special teacher. Mrs. Muriel Jared receives a plaque from Dr. Stolfus for her years in teaching.

It's almost over. Members of the Class of '85 are ready for the ceremony to begin.

Waiting for their diplomas. Anxious seniors wait for their names to be called.
Final farewell. Senior girls gather together after Baccalaureate to discuss after graduation plans.

Standing proud. Graduates Jeff Foster and Kerry Baker take their hats off to the occasion.

Single file. 1985 graduates enter the stadium while many memories they have treasured throughout high school travel with them.

Defining the spirit of ’85

-A-A-A-
Archer Road: A true party spot.
After school: Let loose!
A.C.T.: Yuck!
Assemblies: Spirit raisers.
Awake: The state you should be in during class. (No, it’s not a state like Kansas!)
Amadeus: the year’s best movie.
Awkward: How you feel on a first date.

-D-D-D-
Delirious: What you are the day after Prom.
Destroy: What you do to hotel rooms.
Disgusted: What you were when you found out Prince cancelled his concert after you waited three hours in line for tickets.
Dominate: What seniors do to underclassmen.

-B-B-B-
Bonner High: Memories!
Baseball (and softball): New to Bonner High in ’85.
Breakfasts: Class “get-togethers” that often result in shaving cream fights.
Braves: Mighty and fierce!
Budweiser: The Clydesdales, of course!
Bruce Springsteen: Married?
Beach bums: Description of Bonner High students during Spring Break.
Backfire: What some alibis do.
Braves: Mighty and fierce!

-E-E-E-
Eddie Murphy: The most ‘delirious’ man that ever ate ‘ice cream’.
Eighteen: Just another year in your life?!?
Essays (preferably five paragraphs): Mrs. Wood’s unbelievable means of torture!
Empty: What your stomach shouldn’t be when you go out on Friday nights.
Eighty-five: Seniors!
Excuses: Something you have to be able to come up with FAST when you come home late.
Ethiopia: “We are the World”

-C-C-C-
Cluttered: Most BSHS lockers.
Cramming: What ten-minute breaks were made for.
Carriage rides: A stylish means of travel.
Carefree: How Seniors feel the last week of school!
Coke. The real thing! New?

-F-F-F-
Forty-niners: Super Bowl heroes!
Fake I.D.’s: Plastic cards to fun!
Farewell: Underclassmen’s last words to seniors.
Fiero: Car of your dreams.

-G-G-G-
Grad Night (at World’s of Fun): Unattended by most Seniors!
Gentlemen: Where?
Gremlins: Don’t feed them after midnight.
Gizmo: A Gremlin (see above) that captured the hearts of America.

-H-H-H-
Hung-over: What some students are every Saturday morning.
Ham and Cheese: Snack that ties you over for lunch.

-I-I-I-
Ice Cream: Eddie Murphy style.
Inaccessible: What cars are to sophomores.
Intellectual: What you pretend you are from 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.
“I’m up, mom”: Your first words of the morning.
Intoxicated: More intellectual label for “wasted.”

-J-J-J-
Jackson’s: Victory Tour!
Jocke: Swedish exchange student.
K-K-K

Kings: Left K.C. in 1985, oh darn!
K.U.: Rival of K.S.U.
K.S.U.: Rival of K.U.
Keys: Always locked in cars!
Knots Landing: The show you don’t dare miss an episode of.

L-L-L

Love: What you think you’re in during high school.
Lockers: Home away from home.
Loafers: A word to describe both a style of shoes and some Seniors!

M-M-M

McDonald’s: Newest hotspot in Bonner.
Memories: Times cherished at BSHS
“Moi”: A term used often by Senior girls.

O-O-O

Obnoxious: Sophomore girls “trying” to pick up Senior guys!
Obvious: The “F” you changed to “B” on your report card.
Olympics: Victories in ‘84!

P-P-P

Price’s Bridge: Another fun spot!
Presidential Election: Reagan victorious!
Paper: Can I borrow some?
Proud: The feeling you have after winning State.
Polo: The cologne that sends vibes.
Pop quizzes: Nasty tests given only on the days you had no time to study!
Prince: Never arrived in K.C.

Q-Q-Q

Quick: How you sneak inside when you realize your parents are waiting up for you.
Quarters: A game of skill?

R-R-R

Rain (as in Purple): Prince downpour!
Road trips: Senior excursions!
Ready: Juniors to become Seniors!

S-S-S

Sandstone: “The” place to make new friends.
State Champs: Volleyball fanatics!
Senioritis: Contagious epidemic with Graduation as the only remedy.
Spray paint: Used to “decorate” parking lots, bridges, etc...
Skipping school: Who would?!?
Special Spirit: Yearbook inspiration!
Seniors: Need we say more?

T-T-T

Team: Special group of friends working together.
Teddy bear: Squeezable, huggable necessity!
Trivial Pursuit: The only game around where you have to know who played 2,130 consecutive baseball games for the New York Yankees (by the way, it was Lou Gehrig).

U-U-U

Ugh!: Sound heard during Powder Puff game.
Uh-huh: I like it!
Ultimate: Senior Class!
Unavoidable: Trouble.
Under pressure: What you are during finals week.

Y-Y-Y

Yellow light: Close your eyes and gun it!
You’ll never forget: The Class of 1985!
Yesterday: Memories of days gone by Yawn: What you shouldn’t do during class.

Z-Z-Z

Zoo: Commons area during breaks!
Zonked: How you feel on Monday mornings.
Zero: Scores on tests (often caused by being “zonked”-see above.)

It was a special spirit ...
a very special spirit ...

Grief and sorrow filled the hearts of Americans when news of the Ethiopian famine was released. Soon, however, the American spirit of giving really increased.

Although this was a sad time, our compassion swirled as our top musicians brought us “We Are the World.”

It was a special spirit ...
a very special spirit ...
The spirit of Bonner High ... is working together yet growing as individuals.

When does this have to be done? Junior Burt Tabor works on the set for "The Sound of Music."

M-m-good! Vice Principal Alton Morey dines with students during a meal prepared by a Foods' class.

Vita dura est? Pictured right, JCL'ers take a break from their busy day at the State Convention hosted at BSHS.

Give me a B! An excited Bonner Springs football team rides atop the traditional homecoming fire engine.
It was a special spirit ...

In politics, Fritz picked Ferraro as his running mate, and K.C. hosted the second presidential debate.

Once again, Reagan won with praise, and along with him came a drinking age raise.

It was a year of excitement, good times, and friends; a year to attain knowledge — a year of new trends.

School's out, school's out, teacher let...? Several students show their excitement that 2:35 has finally rolled around!

Are you sure, Mrs. Wood? Sophomore Tim Toland questions Mrs. Wood's advice that the answer lies within the pages of "American Crime."

Love that smile! Junior Mark Tinberg flashes one of his wonderful smiles.

The spirit of Bonner High ... is getting involved and learning from experiences.

Mix-mix-mix! Stuco President and vice president, Jill Jenkins and Jean Mills, get a head start on decorating for the "Aloha" mixer.
The spirit of Bonner High ... is supporting the home team, whether it be football or forensics.

SP·IR·IT! Varsity cheerleaders, Julie Laing, Barbara Knoche and Kim Klise, march with smiles during the annual Homecoming parade.
