Across the nation, there are millions of roads we have all traveled at one time or another. Whether or not we remember each and every one of those roads, no one can be sure. However, there is one common road we all chose, either willfully or by some tragic detour, that we would all travel to bring 1986 to an end and to start off the glorious year of 1987.

To most of us, this road was a journey—a true learning experience. Through the trials and tribulations of the year, we all found that common road led in many different directions and to many different destinations: only to find these destinations reachable by surpassing a long list of common detours.

For those new to BSHS, there was a new type of life to get used to: high school life at BSHS. Unlike the old days, where practice for sports came with the beginning of school, an athlete’s life at BSHS calls for a great deal more dedication. From those grueling 1 p.m. practices in the heat for the greatly manned football team, to the steamy practices for the volleyball team in the gym, many of us wondered if it was worth the time and effort.

As others started the new year in different ways, either with an organization or study in the library, the true test was put before us. August 25 brought the first day of classes, as well as our first bit of numerous mechanical difficulties. Soon we found that each road would become more bumpy as we headed down our own path to success...
Mr. Nelson's physics class, from left, back row, Stephanie Steen, Michelle Raffield, Mr. Nelson, Bill Tinon, Mitch Bernard, and front row, Dawn Pickett, Jerry Dalebout, and Gary Courtney show they're capable of having fun, too!

Wrapping to the beat, senior Maria Brown entertains BSHS at the Senior Assembly while Deann Newton, Steve Saunders, and Shawn Hall look on.
As the year went on, we found that we (as high school students) were not the only Americans detoured by mechanical difficulties.

As the horror of drug abuse swept the nation, mandatory drug tests became a part of everyday life for many Americans.

Admitting herself to a drug rehabilitation clinic, Tammy Fae Bakker made the news as did her husband Jim, head of the PTL (Praise The Lord) ministries. After a sex scandal involving Bakker and a secretary, Bakker resigned from his PTL ministry with bitterness. Blaming Jimmy Swaggart for his scandal being publicized, Bakker and his wife reconciled their differences and fought for their ministry.

Also fighting a battle was Royals manager Dick Howser. Howser, who underwent surgery for a brain tumor, retired from the Royals after beginning the 1987 pre-season.

Another team that faced its share of detours was Congress. Raising the speed limit on rural interstates to 65 mph, the Congress overrode President Reagan's veto.

Closer to our own home street, Republican Mike Hayden cruised into the governor's seat, defeating Tom Docking. Gov. Hayden's attempts to bring the death penalty to Kansas were, however, stopped by the Senate.

As these occurrences overloaded our minds and caused us to ponder the ensuing traffic jams, we began to relate with an understanding only one more year can add.

Growing up both physically and emotionally, our friendships began to mean all the more to us. As we realized these years would not last forever, we found that special memories can be made now—to last us for a lifetime. With these thoughts we found ourselves appreciating the few times we had together, on our road to success.
Ready to rock! Senior members of Legacy, Ryan Hitchcock, Jerry Dalebout, Curtis Nall, and James Franklin entertain BSHS students at the Stuco Punk Rock Mixer held at the start of the school year.

Let me entertain you. Senior Kerry Schif and junior Scott Geary show us their stuff on JCL Slave Day.
September

was a great month to...

Become a JCL slave:

“The only way to describe it is KILL, KILL, KILL!”—referring to Mark Hausner, his slave owner for the day.”

—Chris Thornburgh, sophomore

Find your new locker:

“Finding my locker was like going on an expedition through a jungle of upperclassmen.”

—Steve Klise, sophomore

Get ready for school:

“Coming into BSHS was kind of scary because I’d never been here before. However, working in the library is more interesting than I thought it would be.”

—Dale Rushing, asst. librarian

October

was a great month to...

Decorate for Homecoming:

“Juniors should have won, but the sophomore class really had a better float and class support.”

—Cederic Davis, junior

Study for ACT test:

“Do all of the sample tests available, and time yourself. It helps to discipline your thinking for when you actually take the test.”

—Tim Jones, senior

Go to haunted houses:

“I enjoyed going because last time I went, I was too little to enjoy it.”

—Jamie Hudgens, sophomore

November

was a great month to...

Go to V.B. Sub-state:

“It brought a sense of unity to the girls and to the total team effort because everyone was working to achieve a common goal.”

—Melissa McGraw, sophomore

Learn my lines for the fall play:

“Since I only had 12 lines, I found myself learning everyone else’s lines too!!!”

—SunDee Mills, sophomore

Enjoy Thanksgiving:

“I had to work until noon, but then I went home and pigged out with my family and my boyfriend and his family.”

BSHS spirit soars down

ONE-WAY STREET

to Q-104 seventh place

You may not have realized it, but many people questioned the amount of school spirit BSHS students had. Well, never again will this thought enter anyone’s mind. By participating in the Q-104 Spirit Contest, the students showed pride not only for their school, but for their community.

Throughout the month of September, the Kansas City based radio station, Q-104, sponsored a spirit contest. Approximately 56 schools throughout the metro and surrounding areas participated. The idea behind the contest was to send in 3x5 note cards to the radio station. To win a live concert with the popular rock group, The Jets, each school competed to see which one could send in the most cards.

The whole idea behind the contest here at BSHS was to promote spirit among the students. Despite getting a late start a week before the end of the contest, BSHS students united to finish for a comfortable seventh by place sending in approximately 80,000 cards.

In order to make this tiring task a little more pleasant, card-signing parties were held at the homes of Samantha Aitkens, John Benz, Joe Jenkins, Kathy Roberts, and Sheila Camp. In addition, everywhere you looked—on the bus, in the classrooms, on ten-minute breaks—everyone was signing cards.

Some students, however, felt the contest was unfair to the smaller schools like BSHS. They felt that a percentile system would have worked better.

Seniors John Benz and Melany Allen have fun trying to raise money to purchase index cards for the Q-104 Spirit Contest.
Debate at Regionals:
"It's a wonderful learning experience, and it will take one far in his or her life."
—Matt Jones, sophomore

Participate in the canned food drive:
"I think helping people, especially around the holidays, is a great thing to do because so many people need help."
—Kate Wood, sophomore

Be active in Kayettes:
"For the past three years that I've been in Kayettes, I have always thought that the group was very helpful. It can do a lot of things for many people."
—Barb Knoche, senior

Start the year:
"I think that this year has started off bad. Plus, there are three Friday the 13ths this year!!!"
—Mikki Allen, senior

Sell candy bars:
"The sale went over really well, but I think that it is time for a change. The seniors need to sell something new."
—Kristy Mindedahl, senior

Rehearse for the musical:
"Even though the rehearsals show that everything is coming along smoothly, I think that everything will fall into place during the actual performance."
—Brian Landers, senior

Participate in the Senior Assembly:
"It was so much fun just acting crazy because it's not something we usually get to do. It's the beginning of the end of the year."
—Patti McCoy, senior

Apply for scholarships:
"Writing, rewriting, computers, and the whole process of applying for scholarships drove me crazy!"
—Dawn Pickett, senior

Compete in the Quiz Bowl:
"I thought that these experiences were intellectually stimulating, but they really show you what you don't know!!!"
—Timm Toland, senior

Seniors Carrie Seaton and Angie Laird take time out from their studies to sign cards.

Junior Barbara Behrens on one of the many cards signed to raise spirit at BSHS.
Order my ring:
“Ordering my class ring was really exciting, but the thought of spending all the money wasn’t.”
—Jennifer Goble, sophomore

Go to Sub-State Basketball:
“I noticed that there were many more people attending than other games. Also, everyone was much more spirited which helped the team.”
—Danielle Dingey, senior

Go on the Senior Ski Trip:
“I had a great time!!! I think we should have one next year even though the Class of ‘87 will have graduated by then.”
—Curtis Nail, senior

Enroll for next year:
“I was really afraid that some of the classes I wanted would close before I could get to them, but fortunately they didn’t.”
—Paige Baston, sophomore

Tryout for Bonnerettes:
“I’m really looking forward to camp and being captain. I think making up and teaching the dances will be fun.”
—Carrie Dunston, sophomore

Be Embarrassed at Sr. Dinner:
“I was embarrassed, alright. But I’m glad that Sheryl Vickers didn’t use some stories that were really bad.”
—Mary Brady, senior

Dance at Prom:
“I had a blast! I think it was the best time I’ve had during high school.”
—Becky Holloway, senior

Be in NHS:
“I consider it an honor to be in National Honor Society. I thought the ceremony has nice, but I wished more people would have attended.”
—Lori Delana, senior

Graduate (finally):
“I’m so happy to be graduating, but leaving high school is scary because I’m not sure what I’m going to do next year.”
—Kandi Ford

Styles and fashions
COME AND GO
at Bonner High

Having all the latest styles and being up on the hottest fads is a top priority. Unfortunately, styles come and go so quickly and it is hard to keep up.

The students of BSHS, however, had no problem sticking with the “in” styles of 1986. When the “hot new looks” became “yesterday’s news,” BSHS students adapted with ease.

Over the years, the classic look—comfortable jeans and a big, bulky sweater—has remained mostly the same. This year a few new names have hit the fashion scene with huge success. Guess?®, Union Bay, and Generra jeans caught the eyes of many BSHS students. In addition, ten-button T-shirts and multi-colored Esprit sweaters enhanced the popular classic look.

On the sidewalk scene, many new shoe styles were evident. Although no one had as many pairs as Imelda Marcos, white deck shoes, Reebok high tops, and fringe boots were popular.

Some of the fads that fizzled quickly were multi-layered socks, banana clips, neon colors, plastic bracelets, and flowered jeans.

Despite the present styles, everyone is different and establishes his or her own style. It just takes a little creativity and imagination to create a hot outfit—not necessarily loads of money.

But as long as there is fashion, there will always be a mad rush to be the first with the latest trend!
New to the weekend scene this year was Snow Creek Ski Resort in Weston, Missouri. Now instead of going all the way to Colorado for a ski vacation, students saved time and money at this winter wonderland!

Also, a new teen bar, The Hot Spot, opened its doors for fun and entertainment. Legacy, whose members consist of BSHS students, placed first in one of many “Battle of Bands” taking place at the Hot Spot.

However, some students around BSHS don't always feel up to a weekend on the town. To many, the stress and pressure compiled during a busy school week drain the energy from these prospective “weekend warriors.”

This is where the television set comes into the picture. Sometimes nicknamed “old faithful,” many BSHS students found themselves spending an entire weekend in front of the television with the company of a few important munchies.

Finally, if the stress and pressure from the week totally drained BSHS students of energy for the weekends, many of these “weekend warriors” took a much needed breather by spending the entire weekend in front of the television!

Drug detours of 1987

Throughout the year of 1986 and the beginning of 1987, there has been a major emphasis on the matter of drug abuse across the United States.

In just nine days in June of 1986, there were 149 deaths due to the use of cocaine, alcohol, and other related drugs. Two of these deaths included ex-Maryland star basketball player Len Bias and pro football player Don Rogers; both of whose deaths were caused by over intoxication of cocaine.

Since these men were known in the public eye and popular in the sports circuit across the United States, many Americans began to draw the conclusion that only the rich and those in "high society" become dependent on drugs—mainly cocaine. However, these images were soon shattered.

With the incidence of drug-related deaths increasing all across the United States, Americans found that cocaine was claiming the lives of many children, homeless, and successful Americans who were in desperate need of help for their addictions.

Formed recently in Kansas City and gaining much recognition, are programs such as Channel 9's "Say No To Drugs," and Channel 4's "Just Say No" ad campaign. In addition to this campaign, Channel 4 began to run "Hip To Be Square" commercials that glorified the feeling of not giving into peer pressure and taking drugs.

Without a doubt, 1987 was a year when drug abuse was a topic of wide concern for Americans. Hoping to someday cure this problem of drug dependency all across the nation, drug task forces were formed to combat this problem in hopes of finding some workable solution—searching for the day when society will be drug-free and capable of "Just Saying No!"

Famous "I do's" of 1986-87: Who wed whom

1986 was quite a year to tie the knot. Wedding bells didn't only ring; they never let up! Perhaps the most publicized wedding of the year was between Sarah Ferguson and Prince Andrew. Even though this was a Royal Wedding, they weren't the only two who gave themselves the royal treatment.

Muscleman Arnold Schwarzenegger and morning show host Maria Shriver were married, and Caroline Kennedy tied the knot of wedded bliss with New York City author-artist Edwin Scholssberg. Young lovers said their vows as John McEnroe and Tatum O'Neal and Debra Winger and Timothy Hutton became man and wife.

Also giving up the single life this year were Dynasty's Heather Locklear and Motley Crue's Tommy Lee. Finally, was it seven, or maybe eight? Who knows? Zsa-Zsa Gabor once again entered the world of "holdy matrymony" with hubby Prince Frederik von Anhalt, Duke of Saxony.

So whether these famous newlyweds were truly "newlyweds" or not, 1986 will be remembered as a year to say, "I do."
Sports scene

Road stops '87...

1986 was a year of surprises for the Kansas City sports scene. The normally tough Kansas City Royals had a dismal year, yet the Kansas City Chiefs entered the play-offs for the first time in seventeen years. The Chiefs, however, fell short in the play-offs when they lost to the New York Jets.

Kansas City also had its share in the national spotlight, especially when Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson shocked the sports world by turning down a million-dollar football contract to sign with the Royals.

Yet despite this achievement, the Royals had their down moments when skipper Dick Howser left the team last July due to a brain tumor.

On the other hand, the Chiefs treated K.C. fans to a surprisingly pleasant year when they finished with a winning record. However, despite this success, the Chiefs fired Coach John Mackovic and replaced him with Frank Gansz.

Aside from the Royals and the Chiefs, the Kansas City Comets also made a coaching switch when Rick Benben was fired and was replaced by Dave Clements.

The college sports scene also brought its share of highlights, and many fans were caught up in the NCAA tournament as they rooted for KSU and KU in the early rounds.

Happy Birthday!

Freshened up by a $69 million renovation, Lady Liberty received the biggest bash of the year. Having survived five wars and 18 presidents, Miss Liberty remains America's enduring symbol of idealism, energy, and self-confidence.

The celebration went off without a hitch: four days of gala fireworks and tall ships made the Statue of Liberty's 100th birthday a success. Six million people crowded around New York harbour while millions more watched the extravaganza on television.

Road stops '87...

Voices across America...

"The reality is that what Madonna is suggesting to teenagers is a path to permanent poverty."
—Alfred Moran, of New York City's Planned Parenthood, on the hit record by Madonna, "Papa Don't Preach."

"I like challenge and controversy—I like to tick people off."
—Rock star Madonna

"We did not—repeat, did not—trade weapons or anything else for hostages—nor will we."
—President Reagan, after news reports of arms deals with Iran persisted.

"I guess we've muddled the waters surrounding the question of a person's right to die."
—Rev. Harry Cole, whose comatose wife recovered six days after he was denied permission to turn off her life support system.

Scandal refuses to exit

The Iran-Contra scandal. Perhaps no issue during 1986-87 received more attention than this controversy that arose during President Reagan's term. But what is the truth?

Honestly, the entire story isn't known to the public, but the Iran-Contra scam was an agreement only select White House and military officials knew about. The controversy involves the secret transportation of military arms to Iran in exchange for American hostages. Later, it was learned that money earned from the sales of these arms was diverted to Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

However, these procedures were against the law and someone had to be responsible, but who?

"It's not the most intellectual job in the world, but I do have to know the letters."
—Wheel of Fortune hostess Vanna White, who rose to celebrity status during the year.

"It is wonderful to be back in the West. All I know is that I'm free, in the West and delighted to see you."
—Nicholas Daniloft, U.S. News & World Report correspondent, arrested by the Soviets on spy charges.

"Honey, between you and me, that girl was the least-liked girl around."
—Miss Florida Molly Pescoe on Miss America Kellye Cash

"I wish I had been Superman, so I could have saved them."
—Mario Carrillo, a Dallas fourth-grader on the Challenger explosion.

Many military officials, including former National Security Advisor John Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North, were brought to trial as being involved, but the two were protected by the Fifth Amendment.

After being cited by North as knowing the dealings went on, President Ronald Reagan denied even participating in such a scam and pleaded with the American people to believe that his administration wasn't directly involved.

As more hearings and investigations go on, the public began to learn some parts of the true story, but no one is for sure if the entire controversy will ever be revealed. No matter what, the Iran-Contra scandal was, without a doubt, one of the year's top news stories.
As excitement and anticipation grew within each of us, on the day of Oct. 11, Homecoming 1986, students, friends, and spectators woke up to a cloudy day which later turned into rain.

Beginning at 9 a.m., the parade and festivities went right on schedule although sprinkling rain added a touch of gloom.

Float construction began the week of Homecoming '86 with each class trying its best to create the most original float. When the votes were finally tallied, a group of happy sophomores raised their voices when they heard their float took first. The juniors placed second.

However, the rain never stopped anxious students and spectators from watching the Braves defeat Turner, 14-0, in a soggy Homecoming game.

Finally half-time festivities began as the cheerleaders, Bon-nerettes, and Homecoming candidates made their way down the rain-soaked track.

After waiting for the much-anticipated announcement, Kathleen Stephan, the '85 Homecoming Queen, placed the tiara on Mary Shannon Brady's head.

After the game, going home and stopping off to grab a bite to eat, finishing getting accessories for the dance, and changing into dry clothes, students couldn't wait for the dance which began at 7 p.m.

Music from Sound Design echoed through the commons as students kicked up their heals and boogied until the dance festivities ended at 11 p.m.

BSHS students STOP for archway romance

Twas the dance in December in the commons and hall; all the students were dancing and having a ball.

With the theme "Moonlight and Mistletoe," the night was all set, in hopes the Queen and King soon would be met.

After filling out petitions and getting students to sign, the evening had come; it soon would be time.

The eight were all clapping when she was named, at the same time, the King's name was ex­claimed.

The Queen, her name was Stephanie Stean; The King's name was Bill, he was tall and lean.

The two had a dance as everyone could see; Everyone joined in as happy as could be.

Silver and blue were the colors of the night; The arch added a touch that was simply out of sight.

With places to go and people to see, everyone left by 9:15 p.m.

This story I tell is fiction you see, the attendance was low, including me.

—Melany Allen

Christmas Queen

This year's Christmas Queen was Stephanie Stean, a 5'8" junior with green eyes and blonde hair. As hobbies, Stephanie enjoys classical rock and sports. Stephanie also enjoys staying involved in school activities such as Language Club, volleyball, basketball and track.

Christmas King

The 1986 Christmas King was Bill Downing, a 6'2" junior with blue eyes and blonde hair. He enjoys reading, drawing, and all athletics. His school activities involve Language Club, Pep Club, Stuco, and Junior Class officer.

Seniors Tim Toland and Lisa Pickert enjoy themselves at the annual Christmas Dance assembly. Sponsored by Stuco, this year's assembly was modeled after the game show "Wheel for Fortune." Toland was the master of ceremonies for the assembly.

At Prom 1987, BSHS students MERGED TO THE BEAT of “Stand by Me”

With the pink and silver decorations highlighting the Lake Forest Clubhouse, Prom '87 with the theme “Stand By Me” was a success.

With a large number of students in attendance, the crowd at this year’s Prom was exceptionally good. “Everyone was very well-behaved, and it was the biggest turnout in the 13 years that I have been sponsoring prom,” said Ms. Linda Horvath, who sponsors the Junior Class.

Held May 2, the more than 200 students who attended the Prom were entertained by John Calvin, a disc jockey from Sound Dynamics. Also adding to the atmosphere, were hors d’oeuvres and punch that were catered by Sharrilyn Honacki’s cooking classes.

To finance the Prom, which had an array of decorations, juniors sold magazines and the class dues were put towards the cost.

After paying for dresses, tuxedos, flowers, and pictures, many BSHS couples opted for less-expensive after-Prom activities.

Some couples still continued the tradition of a “night on the town” which included eating out at places such as the Peppercorn Duck Club, The Winds, Plaza III, Skies, or Fedora’s—and maybe even a romantic carriage ride or walk around the Plaza.

Still others closed the evening with a candlelight dinner prepared at home or even prepared at a nice hotel.

One couple even trekked through the grocery store while still in their tuxedo and dress to shop for that special after-Prom meal.

Toasting to the evening, senior Steve Saunders and junior Shannon Matthews enjoy Prom '87.

In ‘Kiss of Death’ BSHS YIELDS to rising stars

As the minutes ticked away, pulses quickened. While the auditorium sprang to life with excitement and chatter, the scene backstage reflected many hours of hard, dedicated efforts. Such was the setting for this year’s fall play, “The Kiss of Death,” performed at BSHS on Friday evening, Nov. 21, and Saturday evening, Nov. 22.

In a set consisting of flats made out to be the insides of saloons and jails, this comedy-oriented western provided numerous funny situations set up to entertain the onlookers.

The play opens with the arrival of Walter Halliday, played by senior Steve Novich, who moves to the small town of Red Butte. While attempting to set up the town’s first newspaper, Halliday arrives by train, receives a passionate kiss the moment he steps off, and is hopelessly doomed with a kiss of death. This scarlet, Nelly Wilkins, portrayed by sophomore Chrissy Isabell, marks Halliday for death at the mercy of Buck, a feared gunman played by sophomore Mike Erskine.

Calling all the shots this year was a new face to the BSHS stage. Mrs. Cindy Peterson shared mixed feelings about this year’s first performance.

“Although there were a lot of younger, inexperienced actors, I was fairly pleased with the overall performance. However, the Saturday evening show went over much better than Friday’s did. Looking ahead, I think that next fall’s play will be much better,” Mrs. Peterson added.

Many long hours and grueling rehearsals finally paid off as the BSHS presentation of "Godspell" entertained audiences on Friday, March 13, and Staurday, March 14. Under direction of Ms. Laurie Brenner and Mrs. Cindy Peterson, the drama and music departments joined forces in this jubilant celebration of the Gospel, as told by St. Matthew.

"Godspell" is a religious experience to be felt joyously. It is a release of one's spirit into the larger heart of mankind. Conceived and directed by John-Michael Tebelak, "Godspell" shows that the passion of Jesus Christ was to teach love and joy in the hearts of people, rather than hate and sadness.

The characters, dressed primarily as clowns in improvised costumes, used many different theatrical devices to express themselves. Pantomime, charades, puppetry, and the use of folk, ballad, pop and rock enhanced the overall effect of presentation.

According to Ms. Laurie Brenner, director, "The performance gave the school the opportunity to see some of our students who are really fine performers. Several students have taken part in community theatre, and 'Godspell' gave them a chance to show the people what they really do well."

Senior Brian Landers, who had a lead role in the play, added, "At first, rehearsals seemed kind of slow, but as soon as everyone got comfortable working with each other, everything fell into place nicely despite a few minor problems in preparation."

KAYETTES

The 1986-87 year of Kayettes was an exciting one. On Oct. 27 the Kayettes sponsored the annual Kayette convention which was held in our auditorium and gymnasium. As part of the day’s busy agenda, our hometown, rock ‘n roll band “Legacy” entertained 200 anxious Kayette guests from across the state.

The Christmas canned food drive was another activity that Kayettes participated in. This year the Kayettes collected a total of 2,500 pounds to donate to the needy.

Another highlight of the year was Val-Pal week. During the week of Feb. 9-13, members drew names and exchanged gifts and candy by leaving clues of themselves. By the end of the week members had a good idea of who was their secret pal, and they also had a mouthful of cavities.

The 1986-87 year for Stuco has been a busy one. A main highlight for Stuco was the sponsorship of the Q104 Spirit Contest. In an effort to win a visit from the Jets, the student body worked together to write an estimated 75,000 index cards.

Stuco also sponsored the Homecoming dance which had the theme “Camelot.” In preparation for the evening dance, the commons area was decorated to resemble the inside of a castle.

Stuco also sponsored the annual Penny Drive. Each class competed to earn the most money in pennies, with all proceeds donated to a worthy cause.

And last but not least, whenever concession stand workers were needed, a Stuco member was always close at hand.

FHA-HERO

From concession stands to dinner theaters, FHA-HERO members kept busy all year.

During football season, FHA-HERO worked concession stands at home games. To raise money for March of Dimes, members hosted a "Turkey Legs" contest. At district elections, Olliea Jarrett received a silver on her illustrated talk, making her eligible to attend State on April 3 in Wichita.

For Valentine's Day members sold heart shaped cakes for $1. As another project, members sold Tom Watt merchandise to raise money for the chapter. To top the year off, FHA-HERO members and their parents attended the production of "Lunch Hour" at Tiffany's dinner theater.

JCL

By starting the year off with the initiation of 18 new members, the 30-member JCL club began their road to a busy year.

To come up with the funds for various activities, the group held a money-raising candle sale. Overall, the club's profits were above $500. In the future, JCL plans to spend the extra money earned on computer software.

A highlight of the year came when the club attended the annual state JCL Convention held in Ellinwood, Kan. While competing at this event, the BSHS group captured the academic sweepstakes.

At this convention, sophomore Terri Siragus was elected state JCL vice president.

Working concessions at home basketball games, among other activities, this 60-member language club managed to keep busy all year with a variety of activities.

One of the more memorable and exciting activities for the group was the field trip to the Nelson Art Gallery in early September. After seeing the Mayan art exhibit, L&C members ventured to Don Chilito's for a meal.

At the end of the year, the group joined JCL and FHA-HERO members for the annual club picnic at the Wyandotte County Park.

With a membership of more than 12 members, the BSHS Thespian troupe had a slightly productive year. Yet, according to sponsor Mrs. Cindy Peterson, she would "like to see the group become more active in the future."

Keeping busy mainly with the activities connected to BSHS dramatic presentations, the group was unable to sponsor many events.

However, the group was able to sponsor one event—the "Mime Mobile," which was a part of the Homecoming celebration.

To become a Thespian, according to Mrs. Peterson, a student must have been "involved in some sort of drama production, either technical work or dramatic."

DEBATE

Seeing the number of debaters increase and doing well at tournaments was the highlight of the year for debate coach Ken Clark. The debate team, consisting of 11 members, finished the season with 51 wins and 71 losses out of the total 122 matches.

The resolution for this year was as follows: "That the Federal Government should implement a comprehensive long-term agriculture policy in the United States."

In addition to competing at various tournaments throughout the area, the squad hosted its own invitational in December. More than 38 teams competed in the tourney.

The debate season ended Jan. 17 with regionals, in which the Bonner debaters placed seventh.

FORENSICS

This year the BSHS forensics team, sponsored by Mrs. Cindy Peterson, was changed to a regular class taught sixth hour, second semester. This class taught students about public speaking and both duet and solo acting.

In addition to classwork, the students also participated in tournaments that were held each Saturday during the spring.

After completing regular competition, Terri Siragusa placed first in poetry and received a gold medal in the state festival.

Overall, the forensics squad had a very prosperous year. Since it was the first time Mrs. Peterson had taught forensics, she commented that it was a learning experience for herself as well as the students.

The group practiced every day during class, perfecting every step, turn, and marching pattern before they showed their stuff to the crowd.

Some of the special events the band participated in were KU Band Day, the American Royal, and EKL Band Festival. This year at contest the band received a III rating.

The band also kept busy in the winter and spring with regular concerts. The BSHS Jazz Band, which met during fifth hour, also had a regular schedule of performances.

From Folk to Contemporary Christian, Classical to Pop, and Spiritual to Country, the BSHS vocal music groups entertained everyone during the 1986-87 school year.

A few highlights of this year were the production of the musical "Godspell," and all the concerts, which were new and exciting because each had a different theme.

BSHS vocal groups also hosted a show choir workshop with the University of Iowa Old Gold Singers. Of course, the vocal music groups performed at a lot of special places. You could see them perform at the Kansas University Show/Jazz Choir Festival, the Pioneer Junior High Awards Assembly, at Oak Park Mall during Christmas, or at any of the local nursing homes.

The 18 staff members of the POW WOW were led by co-editors Patti McCoy and Beth Weir. The paper, which is published every three weeks, is totally produced by the students in the class, with staff members handling all typesetting, photography, and lay-out duties.

Patti McCoy, co-editor, said that this year's staff "tried a new format that connected the newspaper more with the school."

—Debra Green

From drawing layouts to ordering pictures, the yearbook staff worked to make the 1987 Totem Pole the best.

The first STOP for the staff was to choose the theme, which was "On The Road To Success." Next the staff MERGED together to complete the layouts for the yearbook.

After the photographers YIELDED to picture needs, members of the staff took great CAUTION to choose the best ones. Staff members then had to exceed the SPEED LIMIT to meet yearbook deadlines.

This year instead of the yearbook printing company typesetting the captions and stories, the yearbook staff did the work themselves. This pushed staff members to their very limit.

In addition to being a good citizen, Steve has excelled in the classroom, having maintained a perfect 4.0 GPA.

Competing in cross country, track and basketball for three years, Steve has also been one of BSHS's most outstanding athletes. As a senior, Steve placed eighth at the state cross country and also excelled in track.

Not only involved in athletics and his studies, Steve has been active in band, jazz band, and the Junior Classical League.

After life at BSHS, Steve plans to attend Kansas State University, where he will major in engineering.

Marriage and Family: Enjoyable class

Why is it that some people look forward to attending class, but others dread it? It could be the teacher, the subject or the format of the class.

At BSHS, the Marriage and Family class, taught by Ardys Kenyan, studies a variety of things from dating and diseases to marriage and childbirth. When she sees former students, Mrs. Kenyan commented that they often tell her that the advice given in the class was good. This suggests why this popular elective class has lasted as long as it has.

Of the subjects studied in the course, Ms. Kenyan said the students most enjoy planning the wedding, family planning, managing a home and childbirth sections.

Ms. Kenyan added that the childbirth section is very popular because it is something everyone worries about. The films used in class show everything about a birth. Ms. Kenyan said that often times after studying childbirth, girls are shocked by all the pain they will have to go through while the guys are pleased that they don't have to go through such agony. Also, the guys usually learn usually to appreciate women more.

Ms. Kenyan also commented that she enjoys teaching this class. She stated that teaching Marriage and Family “is the highlight of my day.” She is able to talk on the same level with the students, and they really seem interested in the subject.

The English department at BSHS has a majority of left-handed teachers. In fact, we have seven English teachers and five of them are lefties. Does this say something about our high school’s department of English? It could be saying a lot.

“Being left-handed makes me special,” said Chris Wood, chairman of the English department.

Although Mrs. Wood takes pride in being left-handed, she added that lefties have to put up with some tough stereotypes. She explained that in years past lefties were once considered to be close to the devil and were killed as witches.

While today’s lefties are not treated so cruelly, Mrs. Wood added that there is one thing that sets them apart: they are right-brain dominated.

Another lefty, Mrs. Jennifer Gilroy, explained that the right brain controls creativity and artistic ability, while the left brain controls logic and math skills.

This might explain why lefties are often so creative and why English teachers, at least in our department, are left-handed.

Lefties do, however, have to put up with their share of problems. Mrs. Wood said “transposing letters and numbers” was always a problem for her. Mrs. Gilroy added that when she writes on the chalkboard, her sleeve often drags in what has already been written.

Other problems Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Gilroy mentioned that confront lefties include smudging the writing on the paper and writing in a spiral notebook.

Left-handed people do learn to compensate, perhaps they use some of their creativeness in overcoming their problems.

Computer department expands

When students returned to BSHS in the fall of 1986, if they were to look for the computer room upstairs, they would have found themselves lost. Yet, BSHS still did have a computer room, but where? Actually, it had just been moved downstairs during an expansion for the new school year.

Beneficial to the computers' program, the move allowed for more room and less confinement when working with the computers, according to instructor Ken Clark.

Mr. Clark also felt the move has strengthened the department by allowing more students to take computer courses, and by gaining a better learning environment without "everything being piled high in one small area."

In reality, the entire expansion this year revolved around the move to a new, bigger room. In addition to this, computers classes were increased to four levels because of the increased demand for higher classes.

Student enrollment, however, is not the only increase Mr. Clark is looking forward to. In the near future, Mr. Clark is looking to further expand the computers' department by integrating it with classes from other departments.

In addition to this hopeful change, Mr. Clark is looking to expand the department by acquiring more computers and equipment.

Business is a success at BSHS

In Mrs. Deena French's first hour secretarial training class, an actual business is being run as part of the course work. Mrs. French said she got the idea for the business, which is called Serendipity, six years ago after "talking with other business teachers."

Mrs. French, business teacher, stated that this activity "introduces the students to the atmosphere of an actual office." Two of the biggest benefits gained by the students, Mrs. French added, are accepting responsibility and working cooperatively with others.

To begin this activity, the class is split into two parts: employees and customers. The employees take turns rotating among four stations. While at these stations, students act as receptionists, sales managers, shipping clerks, and accountants during the period of the class. The customers place orders with the company. Employees then process the orders and deliver the products.

Mrs. French added that students enrolled in Secretarial Training seem to enjoy this "mock business" section of the class the most, and it appears that "working" for Serendipity is the students' favorite part of the training course.

On the road to success...
Have you ever wondered what it would be like to have your relative work at the school you attend?

"It doesn't bother me, I sort of enjoy being able to go into the office any time to get money," said senior Steve Saunders, whose mother Barbara works as the BSHS registrar.

Does the fact that some students have relatives working here mean that those students are not treated equally? Most of students who fall into this category feel they are treated the same, and the mothers added that they don't feel as if others think they favor their child. In fact, the mothers feel that they hear more about their child's abilities and attitudes.

"I hear about Michelle from her teachers. They comment on different things," said Mary Kimbrough, school secretary.

The parents enjoy working here and the children aren't bothered by their presence. Sophomore Michelle Kimbrough said, "I love my Mom so much that I think it's a privilege for me that she works here."

Registrar Barbara Saunders feels that "working at BSHS has given Steve and I a closer relationship."

Other students who have relatives working at BSHS are Jackie Burns and her father Richard Burns; Kate Wood and her mother Chris Wood; Larry Vitt and his grandfather William Vitt; and Becky Thompson and her mother Gerri Thompson.
"Excuse Me!" comments Mr. Bob Caldwell, mathematics instructor, while returning papers. Senior Gisele Proctor discusses future plans with Mrs. Rosemary Moran, the PEAKE teacher at BSHS.

DOUBLE DUTY

For many teachers, the work day doesn't end at 2:35 p.m.; it only continues. Some teachers head to the practice field, to the auditorium, or to the piano for extra work with students.

One of these teacher, Mrs. Mary Knowles, stays late in the crafts room to work with students sending work to the Scholastic Art Association Art Show. Another such sponsor, Mrs. Cindy Peterson, can be found helping her students to get selections ready for forensics meets.

Although a sponsoring position takes extra time outside of teaching hours, the job is fun for teachers involved. Mrs. Peterson normally spends six or seven Saturdays working with forensics students but added that she doesn't always enjoy working on Saturdays.

Mrs. Knowles is at BSHS many evenings until after 9 p.m. and goes to Wichita four or five weekends a year as part of her sponsorship of crafts work. She enjoys her job, though, because she is "working with the top people in my specialty."

Others sponsors who work with students after school feel that they are closer to students because they are "spending time together in a relaxed atmosphere."

Satisfaction is also a big part of the job. According to Mrs. Knowles, this comes "when the kids do well" and when Mrs. Knowles is able to "bring out a spark of creativity."

SPIRIT!

The 1986-1987 year of cheerleading had many high points. On the overall season, sophomore Michele Kimbrough faintly smiled and commented it was "fun." Yet the fun and glory are only one aspect of life as a BSHS cheerleader.

To begin their year-long season, the cheerleaders marched in the Tiblow Days parade, in addition to the rainy Homecoming parade. However, performances were only one of many duties they performed.

To pay for the camp they attend, the cheerleaders sponsored fund raisers in which they sold suntan lotion, sunglasses, and candles.

After raising the needed money, the cheerleaders placed third in overall competition at the camp. This included the junior varsity and varsity teams.

Another task the varsity completed, was the selling of "Gum-mie Bears" for emblems.

Bonnerettes

This was a year of new beginnings for the Bonnerettes. They returned after a year of absence with a new sponsor, Gretchen Hare, and two co-captains.

Over the summer, the Bonnerettes had a car wash, a booth at Tiblow Days, practiced three days a week, and attended four clinics.

The Bonnerettes had 22 performances at football games, basketball games, and special events. The squad entered the talent show at Tiblow Days and won first place. They also marched in the Tiblow Days parade and Homecoming parade. For the first time, they appeared at some girls' basketball games and performed at Open House. Bonnerettes also performed at the Tonganoxie Tournament and elected squad member Danielle Dingey to be Bonner's queen candidate.

It was one tough year for the BSHS Braves football team, who posted a 2-7 record. Yet despite the record, Coach Joe Mintner said his team “played well” and was led by a group of strong seniors.

The first win of the season for the Braves was a 6-0 victory over Bishop Miege. The Braves had to work hard for this win, as the second half of the game was rained out Friday night, so play was resumed the next Monday. A second victory for the squad came against Turner, 14-0, during the Homecoming game.

The Braves’ leading rusher was junior Arthur Bolton who led the team with 259 yards on 86 carries. The No. 2 rusher was senior Andy Adkins, who picked up 208 yards on 52 carries. In the passing department, senior Ryan Hitchcock threw for 371 yards while senior Jerry Hoffine led the receivers with 12 catches for 142 yards.

At the end of the season, Adkins was named to the all-EKL first team defensive unit.

The 1986 BSHS volleyball squad consisting of 22 girls surprised many this season, according to a two-year letterman Lisa Pickert, senior.

"No one expected us to do very well this season because we lost four starters from last year, but we filled their spots well," Pickert said. "We ended up having a good season and we finished strong."

Coach Shirley Vaughn was also pleased with the season. "The girls worked hard and improved a lot," she said.

Overall, the Bravettes compiled a 13-17 record. In EKL play, they posted an 8-6 mark. The JV squad recorded a 9-5 record.

Highlights for the season included facing Meige three different times and finally winning the last game. Also, beating Blue Valley was a big win for the Bravettes, according to Coach Vaughn.

Individual highlights for the season included the selection of senior Lisa Pickert to the all-EKL squad. Also, senior Mikki Allen was named to the All-Star tournament team at the KCKCC tourney.

Cross country team finds many UPHILL GRADES during 1986 season

1986 was not an ordinary year for the BSHS cross country team as the team was unusually small and consisted of only six varsity members, including two girls.

Nevertheless, dealing with the shortage of people was not a problem.

"The team did quite well," said Coach Alton Morey. "We had a full-strength team, and they used their full potential."

Individually, the team was again led by senior Steve Christensen, who turned in another strong season for BSHS as one of the state's top runners.

Christensen performed well in numerous races throughout the season, with one of his best times recorded at the Bonner Invitational where he repeated as champion by capturing first place with a time of 18:32.

In addition to Christensen's strong finish at this meet, the whole squad also fared well. Junior Richard Brillhart placed 10th in the race while another junior, Kelly Martin, placed 12th in the girls' division.

Finishing out the year at regionals, Christensen advanced to state competition with a second place regional finish while juniors Monty Chayer, Richard Brillhart, Jay Verdict, Kelly Martin, and sophomore Lara Meinke were eliminated by their opponents.

With a time of 16:39 on the 3.1-mile course, Christensen went on to place eighth at the State meet.

Led by the strong singles play of state qualifier Miste Bitner and the surprising start of many newcomers, the BSHS girls' tennis squad put together a fine year and placed fifth in the EKL.

Despite numerous cancellations due to the unusually wet fall, Coach Bill Scott said the squad's best showing came at the Bladwin Tournament where the team took first. This was the first time the girls' squad has ever placed first in a tournament. At this meet, senior Tara McCrink and sophomore Jennie Kirchner placed first in doubles while Bitner captured a first in singles.

At the state meet, Bitner placed fourth, losing eventually to a three-time state champion.

"Miste probably would have taken second if she was in the other bracket," said Coach Scott.

In addition to placing at State, Bitner also captured the EKL singles title.

\textbf{Tennis squad faces ROADBLOCKS during tough season}

The 1987 boys’ tennis season was one that saw many young players and newcomers gaining experience during a season that saw few victories.

Top newcomers of the year were freshman Jerome Girard and sophomore Rob Holland.

Best individual performances were Brian Dolinar, sophomore, who placed second in singles at the Gardner Invitational; and junior Monty Chayer and senior Eric Holland, who placed second in doubles at the Leavenworth Invitational.

With the team losing just one senior, the future is optimistically bright, according to Coach Bill Scott.
Junior Tony Carver, who finished the season with a 10-16 record, wrestles his opponent for a takedown.

Bonner grapplers face STEEP GRADE during '86 season

Led by state champion Jay Verdict, the BSHS wrestling squad enjoyed a successful season. At times, the squad did face some difficult moments when many returning squad members chose not to compete and several key grapplers were forced out of competition due to injury. As a result of these losses, Coach Tim McGinnis said several of the "younger kids started at the varsity level when they really needed to wrestle JV for the experience."

Yet, despite these difficulties, Coach McGinnis was pleased with the season: "I was pleased with the performance of the younger kids and their willingness to work hard and get better."

At this year's EKL meet, Verdict captured a first place while Tony Carver placed third and Scott Geary placed second for the second year in a row. At regionals, which were held at BSHS, Verdict was the only Brave grappler who qualified for State with another first-place finish. Bill Sickman, Brian Denney and Scott Geary all lost in the consolation semi-final matches.

Undoubtedly, the highlight of the year for the squad came when Verdict captured his first state title.

"I wasn't surprised when Jay won," said Coach McGinnis. "He worked hard all year and his goal all season was to win State."

McGinnis said the team was lead this year by Verdict, Geary, and Carver.

Verdict takes State

Determination and hard work helped junior Jay Verdict meet his goal of winning the 132-pound state wrestling title. “I always thought I could win state,” said Verdict, who posted a 28-1 record this season.

In the finals of state, Verdict decisioned Pepe Cabrera of Bishop Ward by a score of 5-2. Verdict advanced to the finals by decisioning Mike Wilson of McPherson, 12-2. Wilson had defeated Verdict last year at state in the consolation semi-finals, making this year’s contest a re-match between the two.

To train for state, Verdict said he “worked hard toward the end of the season.” Throughout the season, Verdict said he felt like he had a “good chance of placing in the top three at State.”

How does it feel to win the State championship? “It feels the same as it did at the beginning of the year. I was actually more happy about winning my semi-final match [against Wilson of McPherson],” said Jay.

With the help of Jay’s strong first-place finish, BSHS placed 18th in state competition.
The 1986-1987 boys’ basketball season was upsetting at times, but one to remember, according to Coach John Heckathorne.

After setting goals early in the year to place first, the squad captured titles at the Tonganoxie and Paola-Ottawa tournaments.

The squad finished the year in strong fashion, losing a heartbreak in the finals of sub-state to Washburn Rural, 46-56.

Leading the team in points, was senior Andy Adkins. Adkins, who scored a total of 325 points, maintained an average of 14.77 points per game.

In addition to Adkin’s leadership and scoring abilities, senior Shawn Hall was second in scoring with 262 points and an average of 11.91 points per game. Sophomore Brian Jackson led the squad in rebounds with 178.

Junior Bill Downing, aided by teammate Shawn Hall, claims the ball after a missed shot against Turner.

Although they had a rough season, the Bravettes pulled out a 3-18 record. Even though their record wasn't very good, Coach Shirley Vaughn felt her squad played "with a lot of spirit and determination."

However, with the help of a tremendous sophomore class and leading scorer Sheila Wilson, the Bravettes are looking forward to next season.

Wilson, who was an all-EKL selection, paced the squad with 259 points for a 12.3 average. The squad's second leading scorer was senior Lisa Pickert, who added 91 points; Pickert also led the team in assists with 46.

The high point of the season for the Bravettes came during their sub-state performance when they lost in double-overtime to Shawnee Heights—the team that went on to eventually win the tournament.

Season Record 3-18

Junior Kelly Martin goes in for two as the Bravettes go on a fast-break.

YIELD to the Bravettes

At the free-throw line, sophomore Courtney Bond adds a point to the Bravettes' totals.

It was an up and down season for the BSHS boys' baseball team, which posted a record of 5-16.

The squad started the season strong, winning their first three games. After that, however, the squad's winning ways began to disappear.

"As a team we should have been more consistent," said head coach John Heckathorne.

Part of the consistency problem for the squad came from the fact that many members were new to the team, including 10 sophomores. However, Coach Heckathorne believes that many of these sophomores received some good playing time and can become more solid players next year.

Individually, the squad was led by two all-EKL performers: seniors Shawn Hall and Jeff Smith. Hall, who pitched and played shortstop, punched out 27 hits in 59 trips to the plate for a .457 batting average. In addition, Hall posted career high school records in runs scored with 60; doubles, 18; and home runs, 13.

Smith, a third baseman, went 28-for-65 on the year for a .430 average. Not far behind was senior pitcher Steve Johnson, who compiled a .357 average for the Braves.
Ready for the out, sophomore Cody Holt awaits the throw to first base.

With a powerful swing, sophomore Derold Fletcher makes contact with the pitch.

Discussing their strategy, seniors Timm Toland and Steve Johnson decide which pitch to throw.

Season Record 5-16

The BSHS Bravettes compiled another winning season, posting an 11-8 mark and placing second in regional play at Spring Hill.

For the second straight year, senior Sheryl Vickers was the team’s leading hitter. Vickers went 23-for-56 at the plate for a .411 average. Not far behind her was sophomore Melissa McGraw, who hit .400 and led the team with 26 hits. Also having a good year at the plate was sophomore Courntey Bond, who hit .321.

All-EKL performer Marla Brown, senior, led the team with 16 RBIs and hit for a .357 average. Brown was also the team leader in home runs with three. Another senior, Kellie Hulsey, paced the squad with 13 stolen bases.

As a team, the Bravettes hit .291, as compared with a .262 average for their opponents.

Leading the way on the pitching mound once again was senior Sue Newton, who posted a 10-8 record with an earned-run average of 2.48. Newton finished the season by striking out 43 batters and walking 37.

The conclusion of the season also meant the end of playing time for numerous seniors on the squad. Said senior squad member Lori Delana: “My high school softball years are the most memorable. Much of the team played together before high school, so we were like sisters.”

With a determined effort, senior infielder Lisa Pickert applies the tag to her opponent.

Awaiting the pitch, senior Miste Bitner is ready to make contact. Bitner compiled a .288 average for the season.

Season Record 11-8
Junior Jackie Burns completes the hand-off to sophomore Tisa Bolton in the 800-meter relay.

Sophomore trackster Chuck Donigan moves down the field in the high hurdles.

Junior Nichole Johnson turns in a strong effort in long jump competition at the Miege Relays.

Giving it her best effort, senior Cindy Munden gets ready to compete in the shot put. During the year, Munden also set a new school record while competing in the discus competition with a toss of 106-2.

Rounding the final curve, senior distance ace Steve Christensen prepares to overtake Miege’s Nick Gomez in the 1,600-meter race at regionals. Christensen won the race with a time of 4:19.
Senior Steve Christensen took two first places in the state track meet at Wichita to highlight a successful year for the Bonner Springs High School track team.

Christensen won both the 1,600-meters and 3,200-meters at the state meet. Throughout the year, Christensen was among the top distance runners in the metropolitan area. He set a new school record in the mile run with a time of 4:17.

There were many highlights during the season. Coach Joe Mintner had a squad of 41 which was nearly double the size of the 1986 team. The team gained strength during the year and competed well at the Ward Relays and at the EKL.

In addition to Christensen, EKL javelin champion Andy Adkins, Bill Downing, one of the league's leading shot putters, and Jesse Freese, long jump and sprints, were among the leaders for the boys. Kelly Martin won the EKL javelin title and took several firsts during the year. Cynthia Munden added points in the discus and qualified for the state meet.
The Bonner Springs High School golf squad, plagued by early bad weather, came back to have a good year.

One of the highlights of the year for the squad came when Richard Laing, junior, and Steve Klise, sophomore, represented Bonner Springs at the state tournament in Wichita. Both had earned the trip to State by placing in the regional meet held at Sunflower Hills.

Laing was medalist in the regional and earlier posted a first at the Maur Hill tournament. He was fourth in the EKL tournament.

Laing shot a 79 to place 12th at the state tournament and Klise had an 84.

The team started the season by taking second in a triple dual and worked hard to show considerable improvement over the season. At the regionals, the team placed fourth and was just one stroke off earning a trip to state.

The BSHS squad placed sixth in the EKL tournament and took fifth in the Wyandotte County tournament. Laing shot a 75 to take second in this meet.

Junior Richard Laing concentrates on his next shot during regional play at Sunflower Hills.

As in most schools, junior varsity players and teams get little or no respect. These players, however, work as hard as any member of the varsity squad. The people who play on these JV teams are the future varsity players and deserve their fair share of respect and support.

The senior Doo-Waps charm Principal Don Stokesbury with their song "You've Lost That Loving Feeling".

SENIOR ASSEMBLY

As the crowd moved into the gym, the seniors prepared for their big day—the senior pep assembly.

With the theme "Pee Wee Herman's Gong Show" (starring Brian Landers as Pee Wee), students as well as faculty enjoyed a variety of acts such as Pee Wee's Aerobics, the Body Rappers, the Doc-Whaps, and the Whistlers. Also included in the fun, were two famous commercials, the Levi's 501 Blues commercial, and the California Raisins in their act, "Heard It Through the Grapevine."

Senior sponsor, Ms. Pat Sheley enjoyed the assembly and the work the Senior Class put into the outcome. "I was pleased because many seniors participated," she said.

Seniors Margarita Davis and David Martin try to catch the beat to the "Pee Wee Herman Rap."

Senior Steve Novich proclaims his desire to leave this country in his song, "America."
“From now on we go on living... separate lives.”

“So much poison in power, Tis done all in haste, So much mind on the matter, It seems all a waste.”

“Love many; trust few; learn to paddle your own canoe.”
Senior Debra Avant distributes candy to a student enrolled in the BSHS Child Development Pre-School.

Seniors Shawn Hall, Andy Adkins, Steve Saunders, John Benz, and junior Tom Mikuls clown it up during sixth hour gym class.

Senior David Cleveland is caught off guard.

Seniors Michelle Ratfield and Debbie Neal enjoy a game of jacks during lunch.

Seniors Julie Laing and Carrie Seaton clown around during ten-minute break.
“Buck up, little camper, things will look better tomorrow.”

“The greatest pleasure in life is accomplishing feats people consider impossible.”

Rushing to complete their pyramid, candidates Melany Allen and Carrie Seaton finish off grapes and marshmallows.

Candidate Shawn Hall evaluates the basketball hoop before dunking his paper airplane.

INJUN JOE

With contests ranging from chariot races to obstacle courses, the 1987 Injun Joe-Injun Jane assembly brought the era of the Greek Olympics alive to BSHS.

Capturing the titles of Injun Joe and Jane were seniors Mikki Allen and John Benz. Chosen by the student body, Mikki and John competed in a number of events to give the students an idea of their personalities.

In keeping with the theme each contestant wore a toga of their own design. Chosen by the journalism department, the senior contestants were voted on from a compiled list of all seniors.

Events included the "discus throw," the singing of "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" in Latin, and the Roman numeral math race.
"God has given me this day to use as I will. I can waste it—or use it for good, but what I do today is important, because I am exchanging a day of my life for it!"

"In everything you do, put God first and he will direct you and crown your efforts with success."

"Good things come in small packages."

Senior Dinner brings carload of memories

Throughout the years, we all do things that we are embarrassed about or take actions we hope no one will ever find out took place. But somehow these stories surface, and as a result, embarrassment filled the air at Senior Dinner 1987.

The dinner, which was catered by Van's, took place Wednesday, April 29. The evening started with a presentation honoring retiring teachers Mr. William Vitt and Mr. Don Craven, making them honorary members of the Class of 1987.

Then as seniors sat nervously awaiting their tales, emcees Melany Allen and Mikki Allen guided those attending through the night.

As embarrassing letters were read, care packages and survival kits handed out, predictions made, and possible future jobs announced, Senior Dinner 1987 became a success. Coming to a close, the seniors attending left laughing and remembering the crazy and bizarre antics of their fellow classmates.

Although the entire class of 1987 didn’t attend, Senior Dinner ’87 was a night to remember the memories of the past while also looking forward to the events of the future.

SENIOR STORY:
Why is it that senior Jerry Dalebout never shows his affection for sweetheart Mrs. Reynolds when they are alone? According to her, she once got Jerry alone in the school laundry room and suddenly he became shy and quiet. She thinks that for some reason Jerry feels better expressing himself in front of an audience.

SENIOR STORY:
As co-tournament director for Bonner’s invitational debate tourney last December, Debbie Neal began to explain all the top jobs that were available to sophomore Matt Jones. Unfortunately, Debbie had trouble with her wording and offered Matt much more than the traditional debater’s head position.

Seniors at work

When the last school bell rings for some BSHS students, for some the only responsibility they have is being sure they close the refrigerator door after grabbing that "after-school snack." But for many other BSHS students, after school time is not for relaxation. It's work time, time to punch in the old time card again.

Depending on the senior's future plans, many work for various reasons. "I like to work so I can have my own spending money and save for college," said senior Cindy Dickens, who works four hours nightly at Stephan Standard in Bonner Springs.

Yet, other employed seniors have responsibilities that require an income. To some, insurance, car payments, and loans are many reasons for an after-school job.

But the money is not the only element involved, some seniors feel a job is a great way to prepare for the future, and gain the needed experience to make it in the world. "The experience of working will have its benefits in years to come," said Jamie Lenz, a crew worker at Bonner's McDonald's, "that's why I work. Starting in high school you can gain that experience."

Experience is great, but what about homework, research papers and seven page exams? When do these busy employees as well as students find time out of their busy schedule to do these? "I get it done," admits senior Charles Antill, "but I cram it in during school."

Although working during the week provides for a bigger paycheck, some seniors are fortunate enough to be able to hold a job that only requires weekend work. This is the case of senior Mitch Ruff, a nursing mental health aide. "I'm glad I have the time during the weekdays to do homework or else I would be worn down," he added.

Risky business: Seniors plan for future

As the Senior Class of '87 graduated, they were faced with making decisions on what they would do with the rest of their lives. Whether it be a decision to attend a four-year university, or a community college, or even working—the decision was an important one.

The graduating class of 1987, according to a questionnaire on future plans, responded that 14 would be working after high school; 11 would enter the Armed Services; 13 would attend the University of Kansas; eight would go to Kansas State University; 28 would study at Kansas City Kansas Community College, and another 13 would further their education at Johnson County Community College.

Other college choices among the graduates included Baker University, Butler County Community College, Drury College, Pittsburg State University, St. Mary's College, UMKC, AVTS, and Kansas Wesleyan College. Also replying to the questionnaire were 22 students who were undecided as to what college they would be attending after graduation.

Throughout the day of May 26, 1987, all those connected with Commencement ceremonies hoped that the predictions of rain would fall through. However, late evening storms did appear and the ceremonies were thus moved to the gymnasium.

Yet the weather outside did not dampen the spirits of the Class of 1987 as members marched into the crowded and stuffy gymnasium with pride.

During the ceremony, valedictorians Angie Laird, Steve Christensen, Leslie Myrick, and Pam Sollner and salutatorian Cynthia Munden addressed their classmates, using the phrase "Step by Step, One by One" as a dominant theme in their message. The class gift, a new card catalogue, was presented to the school by President Lisa Pickert.

The Class of 1987 was presented by Principal Don Stokesbury. Members of the USD 204 Board of Education awarded the long-awaited diplomas to the graduates.

Leisure-time fun

When the 2:35 p.m. bell rings on Fridays, students cannot wait to head out the door and enjoy the weekend. For most, the weekend is a time to work, to relax, to be with friends—or, in some cases, to pursue a favorite hobby.

Two juniors, Becky Franz and Chad Nolting, enjoy spending their free time on hobbies that are a bit different than most.

For the past eight years, Becky’s hobby has been riding and showing horses. Her love for this sport started when her family bought horses and started taking care of them.

Becky has also participated in many horse shows—from those sponsored by 4-H to local clubs. While competing Becky has received numerous awards, including the “Special A,” high point, and year-end for show.

Despite the enjoyment, showing horses is an expensive hobby. Taking care of a horse includes such expenses as food and visits to the veterinarian. Show expenses and lessons are also included for a total of $700 a year.

Another junior, Chad Nolting, enjoys a hobby that can be more dangerous: motorcycle racing. Chad became interested in this hobby after his dad got him started. Chad has been racing for about 11 years and started when he was six years old.

While he is competing, Chad travels anywhere from western Kansas to Minnesota to race and races from one to three times a week. This summer Chad raced on Friday nights at KCIR.

Chad estimates that his costs for his hobby run more than $5,000 a year, including gas, hotel lodging at races, bike repairs, entry fees. Yet despite the cost and the danger of racing, Chad said he enjoys his hobby tremendously and especially enjoys the friends he meets at the track.

—Jackie Neill

The Bonner Springs Rotary Club annually presents awards to juniors who have been named outstanding students in a variety of academic areas. Robert Clark, chairman of the event is shown, left. The winners are as follows, from left: Wesley Alden, industrial arts; Sherri Wise, commerce; Mark Hausner, science; Jackie Burns, language arts; Sheila Wilson, mathematics; Margaret Rickert, social science; Stephanie Stean, foreign language.
Junior Jill Gearheart studies her apple intensely during an exercise in using details in English.

Did you like your lunch? Juniors Wesley Alden and Chari Frentrop enjoy their lunch-time break.
You know you’re a sophomore when...

1. Someone glues a dime to the floor and you bend down to pick it up.
2. You sit down with a Coke and a candy bar after activity period on Tuesday, thinking there is a ten-minute break.
3. During the first pep assembly, the only time your section stood up was to leave after it was over.
4. You think you will get in trouble for eating lunch in the commons.
5. You start walking to class right after the first bell rings during break, thinking you’ll be late for class.
6. You’re walking through the cafeteria and you trip and spill your tray all over a table where ten seniors are sitting.
7. You feel like a seventh grader again!
8. You look forward to your junior year so you can torment the new sophomores!

What will you remember most about your sophomore year?

“Shawna Miller’s driving experiences. She hit a bull and a cock-a-too.”
—Diane Darnell

“Spanish I, the year of Bucky, Gilbobbo, and Shawna’s bull.”
—Lara Meinke

“It was the year of partying and dangerous animals.”
—Shawna Miller

“I know I’ll never forget our trip to D.C. and NYC, and an innocent fast food dinner in New York that turned into a photo session with Andrew McArthy.”
—SunDee Mills

“Day dreaming in class and wishing I was graduating with the class of 1987.”
—Tim Barnes

“For some reason, I don’t remember a thing!”
—Larry Vitt

“When I got caught skipping with a couple of my friends.”
—Mike Strathman

“I remember focusing very hard on poetic effect and universality in Mrs. Wood’s class and Debbie Neal’s foot in the mouth.”
—Steve Klise

“I remember getting my car stuck in three feet of water, the Tongy tournament, and getting busted for my Labor Day weekend party by persons unknown!”
—Chrissy Isabell

“Making one of the top three on the Varsity tennis team.”
—Brian Dolinar

Jennie Kirchner, sophomore, looks over her notes during ten-minute break as she gets ready for a test.
Satisfying her hunger before lunch, soph Suni Mize chomps on a candy bar.

Sitting outside during a break, soph Bill Madl has the munchies for potato chips.

WEEKENDS!
You know what everyone looks forward to on Mondays when they are sitting in first hour? If you guessed weekends, then you are absolutely right! It’s a time for fun, no worries and no school. Here’s a look at the ways some BSHS sophomores spend their weekends.

1. What are your favorite things to do on weekends?

Girls
1. Parties
2. Cruise
3. Movies

Boys
1. Parties
2. Movies
3. Cruise

2. On an average, how much do you spend on weekends?

Girls
$5, 2 percent; $10, 6 percent; $15, 20 percent; $20, 43 percent; over $20, 29 percent.

Boys
$5, 13 percent; $10, 13 percent; $15, 13 percent, $20, 34 percent; over $20, 27 percent.

Which do you do more, go out with friends or date?

"Depends on the people, what my friends and I do, or who the date is." —Holly Tinton

"During the day is the time I usually spend with my friends. At night is usually when I go out on a date—I love to do both." —Melissa McGraw

What is your curfew on weekend?

Girls
10-10:30 p.m., 2 percent; 10:30-11 p.m., 6 percent; 11 p.m. -11:30 p.m., 20 percent; 11:30 p.m. to 12 a.m., 43 percent; after midnight, 29 percent.

Guys
10 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., 0 percent; 10:30 to 11 p.m., 0 percent; 11 p.m. to 11:30 p.m., 13 percent; 11:30 to 12 a.m., 33 percent; after midnight, 54 percent.

Do you do the same thing every weekend or does it vary?

"It varies. Sometimes I go to the movies or play basketball, whatever comes up." —Steve Herring

"I usually party, but sometimes I engage in the ritual of torturing seventh grade children." —Bill Madl

Do you agree with your curfew?

"No! I think it should be later, but there isn’t much I can do about it." —Stacy Palcher

"My Mom doesn’t really set a curfew. She just tells me to use my own judgement. That doesn’t mean I can come in at wee hours of the morning, she said to be reasonable." —Jon Mooney

I could have died when...

Amy Hall: "In basketball practice I hit my lip on the back of Stephanie Stean’s head and it swelled up three times its regular size. The next day it was even worse and I had to go to school."

Julie Owen: "I was staring at this gorgeous guy walking down the street and I drove up on the curb, almost hitting a pedestrian sign in my mom’s S.S. Monte. Yes, my face was red!"

Chuck Donnigan: "The first weekend I was in Bonner a few girls decided to show me around town. We caught a basketball game and ate at Pizza Hut. After we got through eating, Kathy Noble, Kristy Adkins, and Melissa McGraw took me ‘cruising.’ Fifteen minutes later we decided to go to Kristy’s house to get some tapes to listen to. About two blocks from the house, my car died and wouldn’t start for anything. So the four of us jogged up to Kristy’s house in the middle of winter and called Melissa’s mom to take us home."

Stormi Freeman: When I used to drive what some preferred to call the Peachwagon.

What if...

... your parents found out what you really did on Friday and Saturday nights?
“I would be grounded until I graduated. Then I would be sent into the convent.”
—Trista Menningen

“I would be grounded... six feet under to be exact.”
—Terri Siragusa

“Nothing, my mom basically knows what I do. Well... almost.”
—Tina Myers

... you could design the perfect schedule?
“I would take a class on the study of rock-n-roll instead of health!”
—Brian Lee

“Focus on sleeping, lunch, Gossip I and II, and aerobics.”
—Julie Owen

“1st hour, breakfast; 2nd hour, tennis; 3rd hour, nap; 4th hour, lunch; 5th hour, tennis/debate; and 6th hour, social hour.”
—Matt Jones

... you could be anyone in the world, who would you be?
“Eddie Fiola, because he’s the baddest, raddest, and most sano-bozical dude on the earth.”
—Bob Bizzell

“Nobody, I just want to be myself.”
—Traci McDonald

“Whitney Houston because she is pretty, a good Christian, and she sings great!”
—Tisa Bolton

... you won a million dollars?
“I’d go to an island with a bunch of my friends, buy a beach house and have a wild party.”
—Lisa Wells

“I’d invest in something that made more money, buy an Austin-Healy, and party.”
—Carrie Nall

“Buy a traveling trailer and hundreds of pounds of M&M’s, take 15 or 20 of my friends with me on a trip to the ocean where we could rent out a hotel, and party for the whole summer.”
—Suni Mize

... you won a trip for two. Where would you go and whom would you take with you?
“I’d take a cruise around the world and bring my puppy because she appreciates my loving nature.”
—Jennifer Goble

Somewhere with no rules, no problems, no curfews, and I’d take my boyfriend.”

We’re rowdy! Seniors Joe Dodd, Timm Toland, and Paul Berning show their spirit prior to the start of the Senior Assembly.

Concentrated effort. Senior debater Debbie Neal finds some solitude outside Mr. Clark’s room as she prepares for an upcoming meet.

Success.

As time elapsed, the roads we all traveled became bumpy, yet with time they all seemed to work out. With our travels taking us in different directions, we all found our time spent together to be all the more important.

As we gained knowledge that would aid us in the years ahead, our roads to the future began to look all the brighter. Yet, for some of us, the future began to form the element in life we all distrust—uncertainty.

Winding down, the year brought many new challenges for all. To graduating seniors, the future was only a few steps down the track to a diploma. Preparing for scholarship forms.
submitting applications for colleges, and hoping for the best, seniors found the end of the year to be very stressful. Yet with good friends, we always found a way to relieve that stress. Joining in at Prom '87, many BSHS students found the night to be relaxing and greatly enjoyable. Also in the hopes of eliminating that year-end stress, we made pit stops at the local drive-in, the Hot Spot, and of course those early morning breakfasts to put us in the right frame of mind.

The end of a long and winding road finally came to a memorable stop at graduation. Saying goodbye to old friends and teachers, seniors found graduation the final step in their high school career while underclassmen looked forward to their day on the track.

End of the road...

At the end of the 1987 school year, BSHS students and staff said a fond farewell to two long-time educators: Mr. Don Craven and Mr. William Vitt. Both teachers have long records of service to BSHS and their contributions will be missed.

Mr. Vitt, auto mechanics instructor, was a teacher at BSHS for 28 years. Mr. Craven, social science teacher, contributed 19 years in BSHS classrooms. In addition, Mr. Craven was sponsor of the Student Council and will be remembered for his many hours of service to this organization.

Both teachers, through their caring and dedication, traveled down the "road to success" in their careers at BSHS. It is in the spirit of their service, that the 1987 Totem Pole is dedicated to these two fine educators. The Totem Pole staff wishes Mr. Craven and Mr. Vitt all the best as they begin their journeys into the future.

Pictured above, auto mechanics instructor William Vitt assists one of his students, David Hurt, with a project. Pictured right, Mr. Don Craven gives a familiar growl.

Totem Pole 1987

To make the remembrance of this year possible, the BSHS Totem Pole is published by Jill Holder's second hour Book Productions class. Special thanks for their assistance in the production of the Totem Pole goes to Mr. Geri Nible for his cover design; Mr. and Mrs. Clausie Smith for the use of their equipment and supplies; Ms. Linda Horvath for her assistance in photography, and ICP representative Mr. Bob Gadd for his assistance.

Paste-up and typesetting was done by members of the staff, as was the photography and printing of the pictures. Printing and publication of the Totem Pole is done at Inter-Collegiate Press of Shawnee Mission, Kansas.

Editor-in-Chief was Tara McCrink and adviser was Mrs. Jill Holder.
