1994 Totem Pole

Bonner Springs High School

Vol. 52

100 McDanieland

Bonner Springs, Ks. 66012
After the first few years of education, almost all students would agree that wishing upon a star, writing a letter to Santa Claus or even creating a wish list isn’t going to make your biggest dreams, highest ambitions and greatest hopes come true. Of course, all these desires can become realities by establishing some self-confidence, assurance and personal values.

These values come from many different aspects of your life. Most likely the most important source of learning comes from your parents; however, during the course of an education, it is inevitable that each person is exposed to several administrators, teachers and countless unforgettable friends.

This multitude of people has molded you into the person you are today. Because of the impact they had in your life, it is understandable that you would choose never to forget these dear friends.

The best way to capture an unforgettable moment forever is with a photograph. Labeled priceless because of their unique ability to show countless emotion and character, photographs serve as links to the past. Picture this.

Although now it seems impossible, one day in the future there will be a time when you will want to reflect back on the memories of your high school days. This time is most likely to come when you buy your first house, land your first big business deal, get married or accomplish whatever is most important in your life.

That will be the day when you first get a glimpse of the big picture—the picture of your life and what it has become. In this picture, you will not only see your various achievements, but also the people who got you there—your friends. For this reason, you collect pictures to trigger memories.

Summer’s Over!

Fighting the desire to migrate outside in order to escape the August heat of the building, these seniors, nevertheless, get serious and work on one of their first assignments of the year.

Crowd of Choppers

Getting fired up, Braves boosters flail the air with their chops as the band plays the rousing pep song which has made the marching Braves a favorite in area parades since Bonner claims the same fight song as do the KC Chiefs.
Grinning Graduates

• Getting restless, members of the Class of '94 start to reflect on their high school careers and to look forward to the coming hours when they plan to party at Project Graduation.

Candid Reveal

Students' Interests

• Refusing to believe the old adage about a watched pot, juniors Chelsea Kindler and Carley Pierson hope their Latin project doesn't become a Latin ruin.

• Trying to build trust, senior James Beal assures a Child Development trick-or-treater that he does, indeed, have a treat hidden in his pocket.
This is you: eating, talking, MEMORABLE dressing up, playing sports, and MOMENTS occasionally hitting the books.

Powder Puff Power!

- Showing support, senior players shout encouragement while the Class of '94 racks up the points. Shelby Knox and Rachel Sullivan, front, keep track of the play while Laura Whisman, Lisa Tate, Sherrie Palmer, Kathleen Tinberg, Jennifer Vogel, Michelle Bishop and Stephanie Fuller display a variety of styles for cheering their classmates.

- Getting into the spirit, senior guys (yes, guys) lead cheers as their classmates get down and dirty on the field. Yell leaders include, from the back, D. Freeman, C. Russell, B. Miller, P. Morris, M. Malone, G. Tinberg, R. Theno, P. Meinke, C. Braswell, S. Cornley and, in front, M. Starks.
• Experimenting with air pressure, juniors Mike Harvey, Rob Neal, John Casey and senior Roy Musick attempt to use the hovercraft they designed themselves in physics class.

• Acknowledging the crowd's applause, seniors Collin Altieri and Melinda Hilton reign as royalty at the '94 Court Warming.

• Checking their cards, senior Teresa McCracken and sophomore Deana Spartan try to discover who cares enough to send the very best while senior Chad Moobery takes a peek.

• Sharing good news, senior Mary Aros calls a friend to pass on the latest.

• Ready to chow down, seniors dip into treats at the senior picnic.
• As senior Chad Mooberry stares on in wonder, senior Teresa McCracken and sophomore Deana Spartan search for their Valentine's Day bouquets.

• Caught up in the Medieval Magic, Stephanie Fuller and Kyle Powers take their chances with a fire breathing dragon.

• With an unusual sense of fashion, juniors Charlie Hart and Pat Brady astound their English class with some graceful acting.
With some extra time to spare, senior Jeremy Freemire does some last minute homework before going on stage.
Students Under Week-Long Spell of Medieval Magic

Homecoming dwells now in the back of my mind like a hazy childhood dream, bits and pieces forgotten and remembered.

I don't much recall the weather, the people, the day before or after. These were unimportant. These and nearly everything were alien to my world on Homecoming.

It's unfair that no other could have experienced that Saturday in my place, unfair that I could not relive it myself. For what more could one have asked? I was never apart from two things I loved very much—my team and my queen.

--Casey Altieri

Reaction

- Sleepwalking? Juniors Bobbie Jo Higginbotham, Heather Dunn and Paul Tanner wait for Pajama Day judges.
- It's Greg Brady! No, it's senior Sean McGuire in his best Hippie duds.
- Returning to Roman times, senior Desiree Walker is Venus for the day.
- Ready to sleep during class, sophomore Jessica Dressler is comfy in her jammies.
Float Building Promotes Class Unity

• Constructing their first float, sophomores gather at the home of Megan Scheidt. Their efforts were rewarded with a second place finish in the float contest.

• Smoothing out the rough edges, juniors Jessica Shepherd and Amber Wilson prepare the teepee for the junior's first-place float.

• Hammering away, junior Mike Harvey, assisted by classmate Jason Collins, works on the framework of another piece of the prize-winning float.

• Painting the last prop, seniors Kathleen Tinberg and Cari Carpenter join classmates for their third consecutive float-building session at the home of Jodie Caldwell-Bartram.

Seniors Display School Spirit

• Getting down to it, Dawn Hietala works on the streamers for class competition in hall decorations.

• Time to decorate, Lucas Chronister and Kelly Hale make sure that everyone will notice their class.

• Decking the halls, Theresa Owens and Lisa Cunningham decorate the student lockers of the members of the Class of '94.
Traditional Parade
Through Downtown
Bonner Opens
'93 Homecoming
Festivities

• Marching with pride, band members boost community spirit with their rousing sound.

• Whooping it up, the Braves football players get “psyched up” for their confrontation with the Turner bears later that afternoon.

• Spirit by the truckload! Seniors, juniors and sophomores put their class pride on public display as they get in the mood for a fun-filled Homecoming weekend.
Boosting the Braves to Another Homecoming Victory

• Pumping up enthusiasm, the band gets the crowd involved in doing the tomahawk chop.

Homecoming Royalty Reigns!

• '93 King and Queen, Casey Altieri and Lisa Tate are crowned during halftime ceremonies

• Homecoming king candidates: Casey Altieri, Brandon Greer, Adrian Suffren, Ryan Theno, Robbie Reeves.
You Can't take it with you!

Months of rehearsals, endless worry, and paralyzing anxiety all lead to this special night...my night to shine.

Fervently driving me, curtain call instantly erases all memory of hard work, tedious tending to detail, and excruciating stress. The sincerity of the patrons' applause and the feeling of adoration from a standing crowd...this is a feeling You Can Take With You. Ranking at the top of all my high school experiences and accomplishments, this is a moment forever frozen in time. I will cherish this magical memory—always.

--Cara Elmer

-Unaware of why they are being visited by a representative of Uncle Sam, the Sycamore family (Pat Morris, Stephanie Fuller, Cara Elmer and Brian Mikuls) welcome Mrs. Henderson (Michelle Nelson) to their home.

-Rocket scientists, Mr. DePinna (Anthony Springfield) and Paul Sycamore admire their model with which they hope to strike it rich.

-Respecting her grandfather, Alice Sycamore (Cambie Johnson) greets Martin Vanderhoff (Chris Coleman) with a kiss.
In a stupor, Gay Wellington (Diana Platt) tries to make a point.

Arm in arm, Mr. & Mrs. Kerby (Megan Nelson and Paul Meinke) come to meet Alice's family.

Dressed for the evening, Donald (Lorenzo Knight) listens patiently.

On her throne, the Grand Duchess (Rachel Adair) holds court.

Practicing for the big time, Boris Kolenchov (Kyle Powers) encourages Essie.

Responding to the Muse, Penny Sycamore (Cara Elmer) cajoles DePinna into striking a classic Greek pose.

Listening to their hearts, Alice and Tony (Mike Brenneman) fall in love.
The curtain opened and I was in front of a hot, congested crowd which was watching and waiting for entertainment. According to the applause and laughter, they received it. Then anxiety rushed through me as I walked on stage for curtain call. The crowd erupted with applause and standing ovations. That moment was the wood that fueled my fire for acting.

Applause was my payment for the hard work and time put into the toughest production I've done, The Music Man, in which, like a childhood dream, I was the star that shined brighter than the sun—Professor Harold Hill.

—Brian Mikuls

•Trouble! Along with the arrival of Professor Harold Hill comes excitement to the little town of River City. Prof. Hill manages to cause havoc but, eventually, wins the hearts of the townspeople and gives them

•Super salesman Hill makes a dash from the train as as Charlie Cowell (Kyle Powers), a competitor, looks on in disbelief.

•Charming the locals, Prof. Hill convinces River City residents that they have a problem only he can correct.
• Checking out the librarian, Prof. Hill seeks information about Marian (Cara Elmer).

• Proud of his invention, Tommy Djilas (Kyle Powers) shows Zaneeta Shinn (Megan Nelson) how a piccolo player might hold his music.

• Strutting his stuff, Prof. Hill models the uniform that River City band members will eventually wear.

• Gossiping, Eulalie Mackecknie-Shinn (Stephanie Fuller) and the Pickalittles catch up on what's new.

• Celebrating, Eulalie leads the ladies in a dance in honor of the birth of the nation.

• Holding an impromptu meeting, Mayor Shinn (Paul Meinke) instructs the council members to check out Prof. Hill.

What types of problems, trials, and difficulties do lefthanded people face everyday?

- Spiral notebook sore spots develop when lefthanders have to rest their arms on the metal bindings. Sophomore Billy Brock tortures himself to complete a writing assignment for English class.

- Twisting and turning, junior Dani Webb uses her right hand to open her locker. Typical of most lefthanders, Webb has made adjustments to the right-handed world.
What's your problem?

STUDIES SHOW.....

- Left-handers may be more prone to mental lapses than right-handers.
- Southpaws report more accidents than right-handers.
- Not all lefties can be accused of mental lapses. All people react differently to the study.
- The minor mental lapses can account for easy distractibility, which could account for more accidents.
- It is possible, and has been suggested, that accident rates stem from equipment mainly designed for righties, but are operated by lefties.
- Mental lapses are probably not the result of lefthandedness, but, instead, the biological reasons for lefthandedness may cause the lapses.
- A lefty's favorite joke is that a righthanded person is not in his/her right mind.

In a Righthanded World, Lefties Learn to Adjust

- Adapting the keyboard, junior John Casey attaches the mouse to a different port before attacking a computer assignment.
- Pushing his pen, Doug Kapeller fills out an end-of-the-year report.
- Making do, junior Tim Clarrey fights with regular scissors when a lefthanded pair is not available.
- Recording grades, Connie Henry swears that a righthanded person designed the bubble sheet.

Auditorium Gets Updated

*Adjusting the new sound equipment, senior Mac Birzer searches for the just-right mix during a performance of The Music Man. In keeping with its goal of supporting BSHS students in their activities, the Totem Pole, better known as the Booster Club, purchased a complete and portable sound system which, also, allows the music department to record and mix its own numbers. Administrators, also, contributed to the auditorium's new look by installing new seats and curtains and painting doors to match the interior.

Academic Letters

Receiving his letter for his academic achievements, senior Todd Rhodes becomes one of the first students to earn such recognition. The awarding of these letters is the result of a student-driven campaign during which time organizers worked with the Student Council and administrators to establish guidelines.

P.T.A. Workouts

Hanging around after school, junior Aaron Hay pumps up during a new fitness program fondly called P.T.A. or Pain, Torture, Agony by new assistant basketball coach Jim Bonar. Besides conditioning with weights, athletes worked on their agility by jumping back and forth over a bench, jumping rope and, of course, running.

Locker Tops

Testing for strength, junior Charlie Beets pushes on a recently installed locker top made of plywood which administrators and district maintenance workers hope will prove stronger than the original tin tops. So many students had enjoyed proving their prowess by punching in the tops of lockers that repairs were required almost weekly.
Writing Lab Established

- Giving guidance, Kay Smith, writing lab assistant, helps sophomore Mindy Blanz solve the common mystery of disappearing copy. With the reassignment of computer instructor Ken Clark to a district position, principal Don Stokesbury saw the opportunity to attain one of his goals of giving all BSHS students the opportunity to become computer literate and switched the lab from computer lab to writing lab. This first year, the lab was used exclusively by English classes, and each teacher scheduled time for students to work on writing assignments while becoming proficient on the Mac.

Students Adjust to Differences

- According to the wall clock, students have a late start so that teachers can hold an inservice session.
- Checking on colleges, seniors Jennifer Potter and Tracey Clay use the new guidance computer in the library.
- Early arrivals, sophomore LaToya Easterwood and juniors Staci Butler and Anthony Springfield appreciate the before-school breakfast served in the cafeteria as part of a statewide plan.
- Surprised students were pleased to discover that the south lot had been paved.

• With intense concentration, senior Jason Shepherd does his part to entertain the crowd.

• Clearing away the remains of some students' demonstration of Homecoming spirit, custodian Floyd Moran undecorates a campus cedar tree.
Utilizing her artistic ability, senior Megan Rundus brings to life the Beauty and the Beast.
What's it like to share the same hallways, cars, teachers and friends?

• Besides sharing the same school, these students also, share the same families. Back row: Jason and Brad Hewitt, Geoff and Jason Collins, Lionel and Stephanie Groves, Nathan and Jason Bergkamp. Center row: Liz and Stacy Astin, Mike and T.J. Harvey, Rebecca and Phillip Crabtree, Desiree and Sarah Walker. Front row: Jeremy and Wendy Hurst, Shelly and Heather Umbenhower, Darla and D.L. Schierbaum, Mary and Andy Steinbacher.
Supportive Siblings

- Always in each other’s way, senior twins Collin and Casey Altieri, nevertheless, are able to share their space at home and at school, even in the kitchen.

- Able assistants, juniors Branda and Amanda Long time a cross country meet.

- Deadline duty calls for extra help. As the time approaches to send the Pow Wow to the printer, senior Tony Bukaty looks to junior Jake for editing suggestions.

- Selecting Totem Pole pictures can sometimes be difficult, so senior Laura Whisman calls on junior Michelle to help her decide on what shots to order.

All in the Family

Just Like Home

- Requiring no call home, sophomore Megan and senior Michelle Nelson rely on their mother, Marsha Nelson, to help them make decisions. Curious about the day’s menu, senior John Swearingen quizzes his grandmother, Rose Swearingen. Sophomore Joe Wood seeks editing advice from his mom, Chris Wood. On or off the field, Joe Mintner is there for his senior son Pat. Always good for a loan, Linda Orangkhadivi digs deep for sophomore Sam’s lunch.
• Ready to roll! Christi Weir, Laura Whisman, Erica Salazar, Sherrie Palmer, Kathy Manis, Jennifer Vogel, Michelle Bishop and Melissa Frogge are ready to pick up some senior spirit.

• Food for thought as well as for nourishment holds the attention of Jeremy Freemire, Lisa Thom, Stephanie Fuller, Kyle Powers, Jodie Caldwell-Bartram, Kelly Hale and Angie Lynch at the senior picnic as they face the confusion and excitement of their rapidly approaching graduation.
Macho Man! Struttin' his stuff, Ed Budy catches the eye of the Prom crowd as he practices shakin' his booty to the booming beat of the DJ's blaring songs.
• Working to maintain their grade averages, honor students must spend extra time preparing for class and doing assignments. Laura Whisman, above left, and Jamie Thom take advantage of some non-production time during yearbook class to catch up on coursework while Caroline Jenkins, above right, searches the card catalog. Loading up with textbooks before leaving for the day, salutatorian Melissa Hoag reviews her assignments for the day to make sure that she does not neglect any course work or project.

Seniors Vote For The Most....

Some Seniors Considered "The Most" By Classmates

• Most fashionable

Always unique in their sartorial style, Wally Harvey and Arlena Losier lead the way in fashion finery. "Being voted most fashionable is great, but so is being an individual," believes Harvey.

• Most likely to succeed

Considered academic standouts by their classmates, Lindsay Hall and Casey Altieri are expected to do great things. "Oh, the pressure! Now I actually have to do something worthwhile! Really, it's an honor to be voted Most Likely to Succeed," said Hall. "Merely open a thesaurus, and there you will find Altieri the first entry synonymous with success," commented Altieri.

• Most athletic

Having participated in athletics at the varsity level since their sophomore year, Julie Roberts and Brandon Greer have, also, accumulated area-wide recognition. "Being voted most athletic is great, because it shows that my peers think I'm a great athlete," said Greer. "This shows that I have worked hard to get where I am," added Roberts.
•Most humorous
Always surrounded by smiling classmates, Rachel Sullivan and Samad Cornley keep up the Class of '94 spirit. Cornley, in fact, entertained audiences, first, as a cheerleader at the Powder Puff game and, second, as RuPaul during the Injun Joe/Jane assembly. "I like to make people laugh...and so do I," said Rachel Sullivan. "Being voted most humorous just shows how much my fans love me," said Samad Cornley.

•Most Friendly
Three seniors, Jeremy Moulin, Shelby Knox and Eric McReynolds, manage to maintain a friendly atmosphere by simply smiling at their classmates and greeting them with pleasant comments. "It makes me feel good to know that if I smile or say 'Hi' to someone, I might make that person's day a little brighter," said Knox. McReynolds thinks that being friendly requires no special effort. "Being voted most friendly was easy; I was just being myself," he said.

•Most Talented
Maintaining poise while performing before a large audience is a difficult challenge, but two members of the Class of '94, Cara Elmer and Chris Coleman, meet that challenge with ease. Each has accumulated several credits during their high school years in dramatic, comedic and musical productions. "Being voted most talented is an honor because I want to be an actress, and this shows that I'm headed in the right direction," said Elmer. Agreeing that such receiving such a title as Most Talented is an honor, Coleman said, "This gives me what every performer wants--recognition."
Established in the seventies, the Injun Joe and Injun Jane honors recognize those senior gals and guys who best represent the spirit of the Bonner Braves and who have served their classmates in different capacities.

• Showing their feminine side

Keeping the show moving, Dame Edna (Brian Mikuls) and RuPaul (Samad Cornley) exchange quips as they perform the duties of the mistresses of ceremonies for the Injun Joe/Jane Assembly.

• Battle of the sexes

Growing tired of listening to the rantings of Rush Limbaugh (Casey Altieri), Sally Jesse Raphael (Caroline Jenkins) gathers steam for her rebuttal. "The best thing about the skit was that I got to hit Casey on the head," said Jenkins.
Cast Celebrates

Still in character, Joe/Jane candidates bask in the warmth generated by the cheers and applause of their classmates and the underclassmen.

Candidates Assume Personalities from World of Entertainment

•Bringing down the house

Country singers Dolly Parton (Julie Roberts) and Billy Ray Cyrus (Brandon Greer) join forces with Urkel (Michael Hayes) and Lisa Simpson (Stephanie Fuller).

•Giving advice

Perfect role models for parents and best friends, Al Bundy (Mac Birzer) and Roseanne Conner (Jamie Thom) and Screech Powers (Chris Coleman) and Kimmy Gibler (Cara Elmer) respond to questions as they substitute for Dear Abbey.

Soon-to-be Grads Prepare for Future

Majority looking forward to continuing education at college level.

• Basic Training

Planning for a future in the military, Jason Lofton spent eight weeks of his senior summer in basic training. He trained for many events, including war. During his senior year, Jason spends one weekend a month in the National Guard.

• Preparing a layout

Interested in advertising, Jason Shepherd gets acquainted with the skills needed in advertising sales and copy preparation as he works on an edition of the Pow Wow.

• On the job already

Assisting school secretary Mary Kimbrough, Macie Anderson helps with attendance, records phone messages, responds to student requests and, in general, runs the show following regular school hours. Anderson considers her after-school job to be preparation for her future because she hopes to go into the secretarial field eventually.
Is Setting Goals Important?

Yes 83%  No 17%

• Ready to Pursue Their Goals

For years, Michelle Nelson and Kelly Hale have planned to attend Greenville College and the University of Kansas, respectively. "It is important to set goals so that you can accomplish your dreams," said Hale. "If you set goals, you can feel good about accomplishing something when you reach them," agreed Nelson.

---

Some Disagreement Over Benefit of Establishing Goals.

- • Getting started
  "If you don’t set goals, you can’t let yourself down. That’s a cop out! You should set goals and challenge yourself to get the most out of life."
  — Tracey Clay

- • Keeping an open mind
  "No, I don’t think a person needs to set goals because I usually fall short of my goals, and this can be frustrating."
  — Ryan Theno

- • Sharing hopes with friends
  Taking time out from class, Brandon Gerken, Sean McGuire and Trevin Blair dream up some preposterous ideas about what their destiny might be. One does, however, agree that goals are necessary. "Without goals, I would not be able to get anywhere, Dude," said McGuire.

- • Looking forward to June
  For the past two years, Tricia Knight has had her heart set on the goal of exchanging vows soon after graduation. Helping her best friend make selections is Amy Hackney.

- • Getting started
  Setting goals is important because it allows you to go forth with high hopes.
  — Adrienne Brown
  If you don’t think you can do something, you probably won’t achieve it.

- • Sharing hopes with friends
  I think it’s important to set goals. You might as well think big if you’re going to think at all.
  — Laura Whisman

- • Keeping an open mind
  Goals give you direction, and they, also, give you something by which to judge yourself.
  — Kyra Jarrett

- • Ready to Pursue Their Goals
  Goals limit what you do. Something I wanted to do a long time ago may no longer be something I want to do.
  — Chrissie McDowell

Don’t try to be something you’re not.
—Chrissie McDowell

Take it seriously, but not too seriously.
—Lindsay Hall

•Being buddies

Enjoying an autumn outing, Malinda Boro and Kathy Manis participate in Homecoming activities. “Next year is your senior year, so make lots of friends. Hang out with lots of people; don’t have just one certain friend,” suggests Manis.

•Fighting sleep

Working hours can interfere with one’s performance as a student according to Wendy Sands. “Not working long hours is important. I work a lot, get home late and then do my homework. It’s really hard to stay awake in class and make good grades,” comments Sands.
How Would You Evaluate Your Years at Bonner High?

• Quality time with a quality person

After transferring to Bonner, Carlos Jones made adjustments which he feels will serve him well. "This school gave me a good attitude toward school. The staff and the students really helped me," said Jones. Taking advantage of the one-on-one work with Linda Orangkhadivi, Jones attacks a homework assignment with determination.

• Ready to learn

"At first, I didn't care, which made me not care about the teachers, but then I started preparing myself and getting along with everyone," says Steve Aldridge.

• Remembering good times

Sharing a quiet moment during the school day, Julie Roberts and Sherrie Palmer, middle, catch up on "the news." Summing up her high school experiences, Palmer said, "Excellent! I'm going to miss all my friends but not the homework. Now it's time to be really responsible." In agreement with the importance of friends, Anita Randall and Laura Whisman take time out for a chat. "My senior year was a real reality check. I knew every morning that I had to make the most of what I had left and spend time with those people I've become accustomed to seeing everyday," said Randall.

• Ready to move on

"High school was a boring, over-exaggerated experience," observes Megan Rundus.

Local Scholarships

Over the years, area residents and/or organizations have established scholarships for local youth. Some students who received '94 local scholarships are:

- Raymond Mattox Memorial Scholarship. Chris Coleman accepts his check from Beverly Mattox.

- Vivian Westfall Memorial Scholarship. McDaniel principal Dean Biles presents Michelle Nelson with the first Vivian Westfall scholarship.

- Lake Forest Ladies Club. Deena French presents Cole Hunsinger with his scholarship.

- Paul & Grace Mize Memorial Scholarship. Eric McReynolds accepts recognition from Ken Tewell.

• Reviewing instructions, Jennifer Sarras, Holli Sledd, John Swearingen and James Simpson still aren't sure on which side to wear the tassel.

• In alphabetical order, soon-to-be grads start to get a case of last-minutes jitters.

• Breaking away, Mary Haros is eager to take the long walk to the stadium where the ceremonies are held.
• First Truk citizen to get a diploma in the USA. Surely Billimont proudly accepts her folder from Board president Don Craven. Tania Anderson is anxious to get proof of her accomplishments.

• Leading the way, Mike Starks begins the stampede toward the stations to turn in the gowns and pick up the real diplomas.

WE DID IT!!

• New alums, John Freiner, Shane Schneider, Sean McGuire and Brandon Gerken rejoice.
Graduates Celebrate in the Commons

• Good friends for years, Bobbie Jo Linderman and Lisa Cunningham share one more milestone in their lives.

• Showing their pleasure, Erika Salazar, Michelle Bishop and Surely Billimont are ready to hit the road for the after-graduation parties.

• Trading in her gown for the real diploma, Kim Case feels relieved that all those early classes are behind her.
• Wary gamblers! Not trusting the luck of the draw, Angie Lynch contemplates the probabilities of going bust if she asks for another card while Robert Brillhart holds fast. Mac Birzer, Lindsay Hall, K.C. Davis and Buddy Guess watch the wheel spin and try to use their psychic powers to get the ball to drop into the right slot.

• Project Graduation

• On a roll! With winning smiles, Stephanie Groves and Kelly Hale show their appreciation of having gotten a good deal for a change.

• Scooping up her winnings, Laura Whisman adds to her personal treasury while Lucas Chronister and Chris Coleman wonder why their chips disappear so rapidly.

• Midnight mermaids, Adrienne Brown, Sherrie Palmer and Shelby Knox get into the swim of things.

• Checking out, Sharna Cushman finds an empty spot for a quick nap before rejoining the fun and games.

THE CLASS OF '95 HAS GOOD REPS!!!

What would we do without these guys? All these people represent the junior class of '95 pride. Each member of STUCO participates in making our school lives just a little bit easier. Not everyone has the talent to represent our junior class. It takes that special pride, that friendly face, and an outgoing attitude. We have these people to thank...

Juniors on the Job

• Getting a work out at work, Shane Cannon loads sacks at Kaw Valley Feed.

• Ready for rush hour, Teddie Ruth and Danielle Munson prepare a bread stick assembly line.
As a tradition, it's the juniors' responsibility to decorate the Lake of the Forest Clubhouse for Prom, symbolizing their farewell present to the senior class. This year's committee went for the "fairy tale" approach. What started out as an empty clubhouse soon turned into a magical ballroom. Just think, there wouldn't be a Prom if there were no people to put it together. It takes plenty of time, creativity and patience, which is what our junior class is known for (Homecoming float champions!). It's not the decorations that people remember, but the memories that are made.

• Adding the final touches to the Prom scene, Mike Harvey makes certain that the foot bridge is sturdy and safe by pounding in an additional nail.
Attention to Slightest Detail Adds to Effect

• Adorning a pillar, Noelle Barger adds to the special effect workers want for Prom.

• Completing a centerpiece, Amber Wilson adjusts a balloon bouquet.
Juniors Step Out to Prom

• Taking a break in the cool air, Bobbie Jo Higginbotham and David Toland relax on the porch.

• Waiting in line for the official Prom photograph, Shannon Sonnier and Amy Sorensen check out the fashions of Prom goers.

• Not allergic to flowers, Chuck Poling prepares to check the scent of Melanie Wise’s corsage.

• Looking around, Amanda Long and Brian Stout prepare to take in the sights around the Lake of the Forest Clubhouse.
• Collecting memories, juniors and their friends make sure to notice everything and to see everyone. From the top: Jennifer Woodward and Eli High; Teresa Konovalsk and Paul Seaton; Heather Miller, Denise Burris and Jaime McClain.

• Young sophisticates, Quincy Daniels and Kayron Anderson pause to refresh themselves in the evening's cool air.

• Happy together, Andy Thomas and Jamie Holman can't keep from smiling.

• Arriving at Prom, Justin Paradis and Megan McGinnis take in all the impressive decorations.
STAYING FOCUSED

• Taking notes from the overhead, Connie Henry's English 11 class maintains their speed on the ever-increasing traffic on the information highway. Trying to keep up with all available data is a never-ending job, so today's students will be educated in information retrieval via the various technological systems as well as learning the traditional 3 R's.

• Looking good! Jamey Hagerty touches up his blush before sauntering out into the halls between classes.

• Feeling good! Dani Webb is relieved to learn that her hearing is unimpaired during a test administered by Betty Sotomayor, school nurse. Testing the hearing of juniors is just one of the numerous health maintenance records kept by the district.
•The luck of the Irish visited Bryan Plassler while he designed a special greeting for the screens in the IBM lab on St. Patrick's Day. An impish leprechaun cavorted on screen and wished all who signed on a happy St. Pat's Day.

•With confidence, Jake Mayhugh, left, and Jason Collins demonstrate that they, unlike most teenagers, are comfortable being themselves. Always stylish, Mayhugh was one of the first to come to school with spike hair pointing every direction. Collins, an avid Star Trek fan, commemorated the last episode of The Next Generation by attending classes in full uniform.

•On task. Mary Steinbacher, Heather Dunn and Tammy Hadley work on business problems.

•Signing up for government with instructor Bryan Lan- gley, Ben McKee and Jon McKinzie are ready to start their senior classes.
• Checking out their past, sophomores study the fossil remains which a local anthropologist has found along the banks of the Kansas River, known as the Kaw locally.

• Anxious to become upperclassmen, sophomores start scanning the length of the lines at the stations where they want to enroll.
Before joining the rockers and rollers on the dance floor, MORP partygoers, Lisa Quick, (back left) Amy Horton and Angie Moore take advantage of the opportunity to record their participation in the school’s first such event and let Deena French, Kayette sponsor, click away.

Bond Issue Passage Opens Door to New Century Education

Bonner Springs voters approved a $7 million dollar bond issue to improve local schools in a mail-in election, and the high school will be directly affected. Over the coming years, each district attendance center will be changed in some way, including the addition of air conditioning at BSHS, an improvement which residents have long desired.

The major change, however, will involve making BSHS a four-year high school once again and turning Clark junior high into a middle school for grades six through eight. To accommodate such a large enrollment, a building will be erected between the two campuses and will be shared by the two schools.

This new building will be a multi-purpose technology center with a high-tech library. It will, also, house acoustically controlled vocal and instrumental classrooms and additional athletic facilities.

Besides supporting renovation of existing and adding some new facilities, the bond issue takes USD #204 into the new century of education as year-around school is definitely in the immediate future, students will have access to the schools' information networks and they will, also, find individual instruction more readily available.

•Assistant principal Bob VanMaren enjoys becoming acquainted with students even though he must at times deal with disciplinary problems. He strongly believes in the philosophy that all students can learn and tries to emphasize to students the importance of an education.

•Athletic director Len Mohlman must work with sports schedules which includes juggling such schedules when inclement weather causes postponements. He, also, attends most home events and handles unforeseen emergencies, such as being short an official.
A Principal's Farewell

There is a saying that time passes fast when you are having fun. This must be true, for I don’t know where the past 27 years have gone, but I certainly have enjoyed them.

I consider myself to be very fortunate to spend a lifetime in a vocation that surrounded me with such quality people. I could not have wished for finer students and faculty. In all of these 27 years, I have never had to make apologies for the students at BSHS nor excuses for the faculty.

My wife Elizabeth and I, having raised our three children and spending half of our life in the community, will always consider the Bonner Springs-Edwardsville area our hometown.

Staff Members Take Aim on Improvement

As part of a continuing process to upgrade education at BSHS, faculty members work with committees to meet the requirements set forth by the North Central Association (NCA) and Quality Performance Accreditation (QPA).

A member of NCA since 1923, the school must maintain established standards to retain its accredited high school status. In addition, all schools are involved in the QPA process.

District administrators, therefore, established a late-start schedule so that staff members could collaborate on establishing goals and designing assessment tools.

At the high school, the staff works in five groups: Lifelong Learning, Self Efficacy, Critical Thinking, Communication and Technology. Evidence of the committees' efforts was obvious during the school year.

- Communications. Each Wednesday, students participated in a twenty-minute reading period during which time they could read material of their choice and not do homework. Woodworking instructor Tim McGinnis, above, sets an example for his class when he mentions something of interest to senior Carl Braswell. Sophomores Gray VonFriendly, Dan Gonzales and Craig Leach remind each other that it's reading day as they stop before one of the reading posters provided to each teacher by the Communications committee.

- Critical Thinking. Posted in each classroom by the Critical thinking Committee are the six levels of thinking: Knowledge, Comprehension, Application, Analysis, Synthesis, Evaluation. Refreshing his memory on these skills, sophomore Adam McGuire takes time out during study time in Jack Scammahorn's room.

12. 12 A.M. & 12 P.M.

Self-Efficacy. During the year, the Self-Efficacy Committee focused on helping students to gain confidence and to feel valuable. To accomplish this, the committee developed two major projects. First, they had a special bulletin board which introduced a group of BSHS inhabitants by picture and information about each individual. Then, they sponsored a scavenger hunt that had students chasing staff members all over the school in an attempt to get students & staff better acquainted.

On her way to winning the scavenger hunt, junior Jenny Atkins gets Freda Reynolds, physical education instructor to sign her form once she identified Mrs. Reynolds as the staff member who did not have her hair cut until the fourth grade.

Escorting a friend, senior Eric McReynolds steers senior Jamie Thom in the direction of the refreshment table so she can take a rest after donating blood.
Marching to the beat, senior Lucas Chronister and junior Chris Zimmerman are looking sharp in the new BSHS band uniforms.
What would we do without our buddies who listen to us, help us form groups and keep us company day after day?

Forming Friendships While Participating in Class Activities

Working together in a classroom atmosphere can contribute to the development of long-lasting bonds. Students in Lee Mills' junior English classes understand how sharing responsibilities for class projects and collaborating on various assignments allows students to become better acquainted and, therefore, to become more friendly. Teachers traditionally try to get their students to understand that each individual has value, has opinions and has sometimes untapped talents.

• Sharing a meal is a friendly tradition appreciated by Kathy Murray, Heather Palcher, Wally Harvey, Dennie Ruth, Brandi Erwin and Karen Murray.
Kayettes hosted their annual Powder Puff game on September 29. Powder Puff is a chance for the girls of our school to dress up in football pads, play a game of flag football and try to imitate our manly athletes. To be a part of this game, one must be an active member of Kayettes and attend scheduled practices to learn how to avoid injury as well as to learn plays. So that the guys won't feel left out, they get to switch roles with the cheerleaders: skirts, chests and all. Much to the chagrin of some male cheerleaders, spectators are frequently fooled and wonder who some new pretty "girl" is. Most, however, are not nor will ever be mistaken for a member of the fair sex.

This year, members of the Class of '94 upheld tradition and defeated the still struggling underclassmen after a lengthy battle to be able to claim bragging rights.

- Overflowing with spirit, seniors Paul Meinke, Patrick Morris, Brandon Greer, Chris Russell, Samad Cornley and Bub Miller disguise themselves as cheerleaders.
- Awaiting the starting gun, the senior squad prepares to trample the underclassmen while the juniors and sophomores get riled up.
- Taking time out, Brian Langley, senior coach, fires up his team.
On March 22, 1994, the Key Club sponsored its first blood drive, something members hope will become an annual event. The drive was a great success. Out of the sixty students who tried, forty-seven were able to donate their blood. With such a turnout, the goal of thirty pints was shattered. Altogether, fifty-three pints were contributed with relatively few problems. However, three students did pass out. The drive lasted for four hours total, and several members of the community joined in and took advantage of the close location. As a benefit of giving one's blood, the Community Blood Center of Greater Kansas City mailed every participant a result of their blood type and cholesterol count. All in all, the blood drive was a great achievement and will be continued each year as a service to our community.

- Continuing to flex his muscles, junior Charlie Hart tries to regulate the flow of his blood into the bag.

- Waiting to donate their blood, students fill out their paperwork.

- Anticipating the moment, Adrienne Brown, senior, watches as senior Brandon Greer assists in preparing her for the donation.

- Taking a moment to regain her equilibrium, senior Jamie Thom sits at the refreshment table and indulges herself in eating sugar loaded treats to help her system fight the shock of losing a pint of blood.
N.H.S.

With prestige, forty-two seniors on April 25, were inducted into National Honor Society. They shared this special night with their individual sponsors, those who had influenced the inductees' education, whether it be a favorite teacher, parent or friend.

During the induction, NHS members showed principal Don Stokesbury their appreciation for his years of support and hard work by presenting him with a gift to enjoy during his retirement.

After the ceremonial candle lighting, inductees were presented a NHS shield pendant to represent their dedication to the values of NHS.

• Relying on a sponsor, Christi Weir, above left, gets her corsage attached.

• Sharing memories, Mark Shannon and Mike Howe, biology instructor, reminisce.

• Standing tall, Bub Miller and Pat Minter are proud to be with their sponsors, Doug Kapeller and Clausie Smith.

• Proud of each other, Karla Garman and her mother are happy to share such an evening.
Culminating Ceremonies

• Establishing a new tradition, inductees signed the official NHS register before taking their places on the stage. Jodie Caldwell-Bartram, accompanied by her mother, concentrates on writing plainly while Robbie Reeves, with his father, is careful not to smudge the paper.

• Symbolizing NHS values, the candlelighting ceremonies is a highlight of the evening.

MORP

MORP: The opposite of Prom. This year the Bonner Springs High School Kayettes sponsored a new dance on April 29--MORP. MORP is a girls-ask-guys, dress down dance with entertainment by the students. The entertainment this year was by the alternative band, Subtle Rebellion, made up of seniors Dan Mellott, Brian Mikuls, and Greg Bush, plus rappers, Ragin' D, consisting of seniors Dan Mellott, Brandon Gerken, Sean McGuire.

MORP proved popular with the students. In the words of Paul Meinke, senior, "It was a great time just to peace out and get funky!"

*Absorbing the atmosphere, seniors Robbie Reeves, James Berry, Steve Aldridge and Jeremy Moulin model the latest in fun fashion, often called grunge. Yes, they were rather surprised that their mothers let them out of the house looking this way.

* Making use of time they have left together, seniors Laura Whisman, Lucas Chronister, Chris Coleman, Jason Shepherd, and sophomore Tracy Sollner huddle closely for one more memory.
Slammin' Jammin' Rammin'

- Gettin' wild and crazy, guys begin body slamming in their improvised mosh pit until assistant principal Bob VanMaren reminded them to maintain their composure.

- Kicking back and relaxing, juniors Lorenzo Knight, Angie Holliday, senior Samad Comley and junior André Doss, above left, get mellow despite the blasting blare of the band.

- Taking a break, seniors Brian Mikuls, Greg Bush and Dan Mellott, better known as Subtle Rebellion, get in a party mood.

- Leader of the pack, senior Dan Mellott gets his band in gear by setting the pace.

- Blasting on the bass, senior Greg Bush feels the rhythm as he plays.
Demonstrating the effects of drunk driving, 143 students "died" by having their faces painted white and black during a StuCo sponsored activity. Once a student was marked as a victim of a drunk driver, he/she was to maintain silence for the rest of the day. At the end of sixth hour, all “victims” gathered in the Commons so that their classmates could feel the impact of how many teens are killed by drunk drivers on a daily basis.

Getting into Mock Trial character, senior Zack Duncan poses with a bailiff on the courthouse steps in KC, Mo. Duncan, who portrays a bailiff for Mock Trial, received some good tips which helped the trial team move on to the next level of competition.

Plotting strategy, sophomore and junior Powder Puff gridders huddle with their coach, Robert Madison. Despite their occasional display of inspired play, the underclassmen had to deal with defeat at the hands of the seniors.
• Listening intently to instructions, senior Megan Rundus and her mother get ready to participate in the formal induction into National Honor Society.

• Sharing her knowledge, sophomore Tara Spencer tutors students at McDaniel school. To earn NHS points, some members volunteer to help elementary students develop their skills in the basics and listen to them read stories, recite multiplication tables, etc.

• Grading papers, senior Anita Randall works with Carol Duncan’s third graders at McDaniel.

• Helping with induction, Megan McGinnis, junior, entertains the audience before the ceremony.

• Ready to march, seniors Melissa Hoag and Dawn Hietala with their sponsors Marsha Nelson and Carol McGraw get into line.

YOUNG RIDERS

•Hot wheels! Seeking the thrill of speed and danger, junior Chelsea Kindler and senior Bub Miller enjoy taking risks in their individual styles. Kindler takes to the sidewalks and side streets as she goes roller blading and dares not to wear a helmet. Miller, however, schedules time on the track and dares to bump fenders with other stock car racers.

•Up! Up! and Away!

•A soaring senior, Cole Hunsinger thinks of his piloting as a possible career as well as a lifelong hobby as he plans to study aviation in college. Meeting licensing requirements demanded a great amount of Hunsinger's time as well as his concentration. Over the years, Hunsinger has taken classmates up into the sky and enjoys showing them the campus from the air. He even flew a '94 News reporter over the Greater KC area and the Bonner-Edwardsville community for a feature story.
"Football offers a challenge of greatness that few other sports can offer. To achieve this greatness, players must continually challenge themselves to improve, to learn, to communicate, and to lead.

"I feel that the football players on the 1994 team have met that challenge. They represented Bonner Springs High School very well. They played the game for the love of the game and for their teammates."

Receiving Huron League Honorable Mention were Ed Budy, Brian Mikuls, Paul Meinke, Pat Mintner, Scott Shannon, Brandon Greer and Mike Starks.

End-of-the-season honors went to Brandon Greer: co-offensive player of the year and most valuable player; Pat Mintner: co-offensive player of the year; Mike Starks: co-offensive player of the year and most inspirational player; Brian Mikuls: defensive player of the year; Paul Meinke: team leader.

--Joe Mintner
Individual Efforts Highlight Season

• Make way! Slashing through the line of scrimmage, senior Brandon Greer grinds out more yardage to add to his record.

• Beating the rush, junior kicker Michael Wheeler boots a field goal.

• Dodging a would-be tackler, senior Pat Mintner gets rid of the ball right before absorbing the blow.

• Celebrating another touchdown, seniors Dan Mellott and Paul Meinke exchange high fives.

Gridders Gain Ground Despite Logging 2-7 Record

Coach's Comment

"The 1993 volleyball season was a successful one for the BSHS volleyball team. We finished third in the Huron League and first in the Wyandotte County Invitational. Our final record was 21-16, a mighty fine finish for 'Reba and the Punkins!'"

Senior Laura Whisman, a second-year starter, received All-Kansas Honorable Mention and All-Huron League. Whisman recorded 93% setting and 91% serving.

During her second year as a starter, senior Julie Roberts was named to the Louisburg All-Tournament team, All-Huron League and first team All-Kansas. Roberts recorded 95% serving, 84% setting and 87% passing as well as accumulating 31 ace blocks and leading the team with 72 kills.

In her first season, sophomore Carla Knight earned a starting position on the varsity squad. Knight, who recorded 92% serving, 78% spiking and 21 ace serves, was All-Huron League and second team All-Kansas.

--Shirley Vaughn

• Look alive! Seniors Julie Roberts, Jennifer Potter and juniors Rachel Adair and Monica Stinnett anticipate the return of serve and get ready to set a play in motion.

• You got it! Following the path of the ball, Stinnett leaps into the air as she prepares to smash a sizzler across the net while her teammates get ready to offer assistance if needed.
I got it! Senior Laura Whisman reaches to set the ball for the awaiting hitter.

Up and Over! Stretching above the net, senior Julie Roberts leaps high to deliver a charging spike during the Sub-State Tournament.

Up and over! Sophomore Carla Knight delivers a killer spike to the awaiting Turner Bears.

Spikers Claim Wyandotte County Crown

• Varsity Squad Bringing home the trophy from the Wyandotte County Invitational, proved to be the season’s highlight for, from top, Carla Knight, Lindsay Hall, Julie Roberts, Laura Whisman, Jennifer Potter, Liz Spaur, Rachel Adair, Erin Hall, Mindy Brents, Jenny Atkins, Jessica Shepherd, Monica Stinnett, Amanda Coleman and Michelle Whisman.

Coach's Comment

“One of the most important attributes of our team is that we have loyalty—loyalty to the school, the program and to each other. Those individuals who have not been successful have not shared that feeling.

“We want that kind of loyalty from our teammates. This is why we have enjoyed a successful cross country program!”

For the first time in a decade, Bonner runners were selected for the All-Kansan first team. Senior Nathan Bergkamp and junior Rob Neal received this honor.

All-Huron runners were Neal, Bergkamp, senior Chris Russell and sophomore Tanya Brady.

Brady and Russell were, also, honorable mention All-Kansan.

The team earned the title of Wyandotte County Champions. “Earning that title put Bonner cross country on the map to stay.”

--Michael W. Howe

• Attacking the hill! Calling on her reserve as she attacks the hill, sophomore Tanya Brady plots her final lap at the Bonner Invitational.

• Making progress! Challenging himself, junior Jake Mayhugh surges past another competitor as he gains momentum for a strong finish.

Coach's Comment

"A fun bunch of hard working over achievers. We made it to the championship game of the Tonganoxie Tournament for the first time in six years.

"We had some big upset wins over Turner, Sumner Academy, Ottawa and Bishop Ward. Our kids did a great job!

"Adrian Suffren is the best all-around player I've coached in my 11 years of basketball. He has a great future ahead of him."

Senior Adrian Suffren achieved MVP first Team All Huron League, first Team All Kansan, MVP Tonganoxie Tournament and led the Braves in almost every statistical category.

Senior Brandon Greer made All Tonganoxie Tournament Team, Honorable Mention for All Huron League and was the Braves Best Defense Player.

Junior Shannon Sonnier achieved Honorable Mention for All Huron League, and he led the Braves in two-point percentage.

--Steve Ketchum

• Passing through! Driving to the basket, junior Shannon Sonnier slips past the defense.

• Going for two! Ignoring his opponents, junior Steve Egnor seeks an easy bucket.

• Taking aim! Concentrating only on the basket, senior Brandon Greer shoots a free one.

Coach's Comment

"The girls basketball team had a good season, but, with a little luck, it could have been even better. "The team lost four games by one point. Several school records were either broken or tied."

Junior Angelica Suffren was voted to the All Huron League Team. Seniors Nickie McGee and Kyra Jarrett were voted Honorable Mention. The team played hard all year and finished the season just one win away from going to state."

Previously, Bonner Springs High School had an a three-point shooting record of eleven shoots made in one game during a girls basketball season. This year it was shattered by two girls on the Bravettes team.

Sophomore Liz Spaur broke the record with twelve three-point shots and senior Nickie McGee broke it with twenty-four.

--Ron Smith

• Easy shot! Slicing through the opponents, senior Nakenia McGee tosses up a sure swish.

• Air Angelica! Junior Angelica Suffren reaches beyond the limits for a sure two points against the Sumner Sabres.

• Team work! Joining forces, junior Branda Long and Suffren close down an opponent's drive for the basket.

Girls Basketball/121
Coach's Comment

"The 1994 Wrestling Team was a very young team with four outstanding seniors. The team worked together very hard. We will be better next year."

Sophomore Jason Brown at 145 lb. was Huron League Champion.

Senior Ed Budy at 189 lb. won 4th at State, 2nd Team All Kansan, and Honorable Mention All Metro.

Senior Jeremy Orahood at 160 lb. was Huron League Champion, Reg. Champion, Hon. Mention All Kansan, 1st Team All State Academic.

Senior Shawn Schneider was Louisburg Champion, 1st Team All State Academic, and a State Qualifier.

Senior Shane Schneider at 125 lb. was Huron League Champion, and also, a Regional Champion.

—Tim McGinnis

Familiar sight! In total control of his opponent, senior Ed Budy, who represented the Braves at the state meet, patiently waits for the referee to signify the end of the match with a resounding slap of his hand to the mat. Following the victory, Budy is designated the winner of a Bonner Invitational round.
Schneiders=Double Trouble

• Last hurrah! Nearing the end of their high school wrestling careers, seniors Shane Schneider and Shawn Schneider, both of whom represented the Braves at the state meet, go for pins.

• Planning ahead! Waiting for the whistle, junior Jason Bergkamp plots his strategy.

• Applying pressure! Making a pretzel of his opponent, senior Jeremy Orahood, also a state meet representative, wraps up another win.

Coach's Comment

"The Braves baseball team won its third consecutive Regional Championship. It took the Braves all season long to get the three aspects of the game together: hitting, pitching, and fielding. It all came together during the Huron League Games and again in the Regional Tournament. The Braves were co-champions in the Huron League and Regional Champions. Never say die could best describe this team."

— Doug Kapeller

Braves vs. Cyclones

• Ready to attack, the Braves have one last huddle before storming to their positions.

• Swing batter! Senior Dan Mellot gives it his all as he connects for a hit.

• With a twist and a turn, senior Jeremy Moulin lifts a single to left field.

• And away it goes. Senior Paul Meinke scoots his boots and shakes his hips as he winds up his third pitch to foil the batter's attempt to get a hit.

• Ready or not. Senior Steve Aldridge puts fear into the batter's bones as he pulls back to launch a rocket of a pitch.

• Next Victim. Senior Chad Mooberry brings the batter to his knees by hurling a fast pitch.

Coach's Comment

"Progression is the word I'll use to best describe this team. Following outstanding senior leadership of Jennifer Potter and Lindsay Hall, this team gained valuable varsity experience for the upcoming years. We played a very competitive schedule, and we improved all season. We met some individual and team goals, and I measure our success that way. Our win-loss record does not really reflect the type of season we had; seven of our games were one run differences."

— Ann Stengel

Game Time!

• Teamwork! Before the first pitch, Bravettes gather on the mound to offer encouragement and to urge each other to play her best as they pursue another notch in the victory column. Successful play is based on keeping players pumped up and enthusiastic by maintaining a stream of chatter and by hustling in every phase of the game.

• Senior Leaders. Listening for the telling sound of ball meeting bat, Jennifer Potter, left, gets ready to field anything coming her way. Taking a mighty swing, Lindsay Hall realizes she needs to adjust her timing.
- Straining to see, sophomore shortstop Liz Spaur peers toward home plate hoping the awaiting batter will hit a line drive her way.

- Ready for the scoop, sophomore first baseman Erin Hall, is down and ready to grab a loose ball skimming her way.

- Aiming toward another strikeout, junior Rachel Adair prepares to swish a pitch by the batter and add to her impressive statistics.

- Junior Varsity Softball Team. Back row: Heather Lynn, Jessica Dressler, Anna Willman, Jeana Anderson, Kelly Richardson, Amy Surprise, Nancy Yankovich. Front row: Kim Potter, Jenny Coleman, Wendy Cullen, Jessica Caldwell.

Coach's Comment

Entering the spring sporting season, Bill Scott, tennis coach, was looking forward to the boys tennis season as his team included seven returning seniors who had, over the years, posted a series of impressive records. "The '94 season was the most successful tennis season for the varsity boys tennis team.

The varsity was 7-3-1 in duals after playing Blue Valley, Olathe East and Olathe North, and they have first, second and fourth place team finishes in three tournaments."

-- Bill Scott

Concentrating on the flight of the ball, senior James Beal forms a mental image of how he intends to stroke the ball as he plants himself to return a shot.
• With all his might, senior Pat Morris, left, stretches to initiate a powerful serve. Morris, a State contender, plans to continue his tennis career at Barton Community College in Great Bend. Morris ranks number one on the Braves tennis team.

• Right or left? Senior K.C. Davis has to make a split decision about setting up for a forehand or a backhand as the ball flies his direction.

Seniors Serve Notice to Opponents

• In deep concentration, senior James Berry stretches and prepares for the upcoming match.

• Following through, senior Lucas Chronister slices a return to his opponent.

• Just the right spot. Senior Brandon Gerken finds that one special sweet spot so that he can hit the ball to a place his rival can't reach.

Coach's Comment

Fielding a strong team of returning letter winners, the girls tennis team opened the fall season determined to place some players at State.

Hoping to build on this year's success, the team looks forward to the '94 season because they lose only one player, Cara Elmer. "The '93 season was the most successful tennis season in Bonner history, and it ended with two doubles teams at the State Tourney. The team had the best dual record in history with seven wins, two losses and a tie."

--Bill Scott

•Smashing a serve, senior Cara Elmer anticipates another ace as she seeks game, set, match.

•Protecting the net, junior Kelli Courtney edges into position as her partner, junior Noe Barger, serves to their opponents.
Juniors Hold Court!!

• Skipping to the net, Angelica Suffren, top left, dinks the ball over the top of the net so that her challenger will have to hurry towards the net to save a point.

• With a strong backhand, Lana Watkins powers a shot cross court.

• Maintaining balance, Branda Long practices her even swing.

• Concentrating, Kayron Anderson begins her charge toward the ball.

• With a swift move from the right, Noel Barger takes up the challenge against her rival and forces the ball back to the other side or the court.

• Girls Tennis

Coach's Comment

"The 1994 track season was very rewarding. The sophomore class made a definite contribution this season; Karla Knight grabbed a silver medal at State. Two school records were set by sophomores in the javelin and the 1600. Our top two scoring individuals were seniors. We qualified three for the State meet, and the performances of the team the entire season was above average. With the younger runners returning, the future in track looks good."

Never Say Good-Bye

Friends forever is what we all say,
But eventually we'll go our separate ways.
Friendships will come, and friendships will go,
But those who stay are the ones that care the most.
We've had a lot of laughs, and we've had a lot of tears.
We've been there for each other to calm away our fears.
We've shared our clothes, and we've shared our trust,
And the times we've had together have been the best.
We'll hold all the memories dear to our heart,
And we'll never forget each other even though we'll be apart.
Graduation is near, but there's no need to cry,
Because no matter what happens, we'll never say good-bye.

Colophon

Working again this year with Herff Jones' Pagemaster, the Totem Pole staff submitted the entire 160 pages on disk. The 355 copies were printed on 80 lb. 7 3/4" X 10 1/2" enamel paper.

The offset lithography cover was printed with a four color process plus one spot color. Machine font was used for the title, and the background was a Herff Jones chromagraphic.

Inside, we used one flat of full color. Story text was printed in 9 pt. times and the captions used 8 pt. times. Everything was designed and written by students.

Thanks....Thanks....Thanks.... Thanks!!!!

Throughout the year, the following people have given continuing support and assistance. We, the members of the Totem Pole staff, would like to extend a heartfelt thanks for their help in the production of this edition.

Jill Holder for taking club and graduation pictures; Lee Mills for helping us with all sorts of odd jobs, including touching up photos; Ken Clark and Kay Smith for assisting with the many mishaps in the lab; Clausie Smith, editor/publisher of the Bonner Springs-Edwardsville Chieftain, for providing us with numerous pictures; Nancy Hall, Herff Jones representative, for helping work out problems, and, perhaps most importantly, calm our nerves.

The entire BSHS staff for being so supportive and cooperative. The English teachers for letting us use their class time to run surveys. Everyone for notifying us of photo opportunities.
