DEVELOPING FRIENDSHIPS

Livin' It Up

• Peppy People
  Intently watching the spring pep assembly, members of the student body observe the happenings surrounding them.

• United Underclassmen
  Waiting for kick-off, members of the sophomore and junior Powder Puff team huddle together for pre-game planning.
TIES THAT BIND

• Methodically Marching
Braving the heat and the crowd, the Bonner Springs Band performs their tunes while stepping to the beat.

• Awaiting Arrivals
Sitting patiently in the stands, students gaze toward the entrance to learn the identity of the “Kiss the Pig” contest winner.

• Hog Wild
Winning the “Kiss the Pig” contest, Jane McGraw hams it up.

• Mousin’ Around
Receiving all sorts of going-away presents, retiree Freda Reynolds skeptically plays with her favorite, Freda the Mouse.

• Hungry Men
Anticipating Pizza Day, students catch their breath after their sprint to the cafeteria door.
Recording History: Waiting for that special moment to occur during dress rehearsal for the spring play, senior Jason Wilhite volunteers one more evening to preserving events reflecting BSHS '95 for the video yearbook.
FAITHFUL FANS Spirited supporters create a line of encouragement while waiting for a Brave breakthrough.

BEHIND THE SCENES Ready to put someone in the spotlight, sophomore Alex Chisholm, junior Cody Snowberg and sophomore Brian Shatto supervise all technical toys during the fall play.
Friends, classes, meetings, parties, homework, exams, hanging out.

Students Keep Busy with Class, Activities

Get Charged!
Some fans get into the spirit as the pep band strikes up another version of the pep song.

MEMORABLE

Band Buddies
In the Rockies, sophomores Holli Taylor, Shannon Loncar, Rebecca Erickson, Jenné DeLeon and Annie Mintner hit the slopes with senior Paul Huebner during the band's trip.

Acrobatic Activities
With a little jiggle and a juggle, seniors Kayron Anderson and Branda Long prove that senioritis has overtaken their bodies as well as their minds.

Hopping to Help
Assisting in the Easter egg hunt for child development class, senior Heather Dunn lends a helping hand to Kacey Cook.
SCHOOL ISN'T ALL WORK!

• ARTISTIC ACCOMPLISHMENT
Achieving the Silver Key award at the 1995 Regional State Art Contest, junior Diana Platt stands proudly beside her winning oil painting.

• MACHO MEN
Utilizing the chance to show the Powder Puff fans their stuff, seniors Mike Harvey and Ben McKee pump up their chests to pump up the crowd.

• Z Z Z Z Z Z Z Z
Having completed his work for Mr. Mauldin, junior aide T.J. Harvey drifts off for a nifty nap.

• ROYAL FAMILY
Class Competitions Crown the Class of 1995

• Practice Makes Perfect
Putting the finishing touches on another winning creation, seniors Mike Harvey and John Casey prepare their float for the Homecoming parade.

• Working Hard
Determined to do well in the float competition, junior Megan Scheidt contributes her artistic skills.

• Boldly Beginning
Practicing papier-mâché, sophomores Neil Waechter and Amanda Horton carefully mold their model Bonner Brave to perfection.

•Homecoming King Candidates
• Keeping the Rhythm
Senior Monica Stinnett proudly shows off the flag team's new uniforms.

• First Impressions
After being late due to a cross-country meet, senior Rob Neal takes his place beside Amy Sorensen and her father Mark.

• Marching to the Beat
Joining in the Homecoming spirit, the band entertains the community.

• Reigning Champs
Slaughtering the competition, the Class of '95 wins for the third year in a row with their final float, "Bomb the Bears."

• Ready for Kickoff
Pumped for the big game, the football team encourages the crowd to share their excitement.
Melodrama
Hits BSHS

• Show Time!
Twenty-eight rising stars are ready to take the stage to perform "Dirty Work in High Places."

• Good vs. Evil
Attempting to corrupt Little Saccharine (junior Megan Nelson), Gentle Grimes (senior Lorenzo Knight) exemplifies the villain as he seduces the lady fair.

• Hooray!
The play's brave hero, Dauntless Crusader (senior Anthony Springfield) steals the hearts of the audience in his fifth production.
LET'S CONGA!
With fruit on her head and a wiggle in her walk, Madame Presidente (junior Diana Platt) shows her dancing skills to Ms. Shabby (senior Rachel Adair) and all other spectators.

HOME SWEET HOME
Baby Bob (freshman Tad Schneider), Baby Alice (senior Edith Richards), Grandma (junior Jessica Dressler), and Grandpa (senior Mike Breneman) take time out of their busy day to sit and chat as a happy family.

RESCUER!
Gentle Grimes takes Saccharine's breath away while portraying the villain of this melodrama.

PROTEST RALLY TONIGHT!
Angry, senior citizens (juniors LaTricia Nelson, Kim Orahood, freshman Jenny Wilhite, and sophomore Annie Mintner) demonstrate

THE ROOT OF ALL EVIL
Waiting in anticipation for orders from their boss, Gentle Grimes' able assistants (freshmen Joel Mackey and Candice Springfield, and junior Joseph Wood) anxiously imagine the future.
A Little Song and Dance

• SHOW TIME!
After many long hours of practicing, the cast is ready for the final production of 42nd Street.

• HAVE ANOTHER
Absorbing the atmosphere, sophomore Carrie Bush, a Pretty Lady dancer, observes the locals.

• ROLE CALL
Anxiously awaiting the director’s arrival, Mac (senior Andre Doss) and Andy (freshman Tad Schneider) discuss the day’s agenda.
• People Behind the Music
Carefully following all on-stage activities, Director Johnny Matlock and sound technician Angie Catron finalize the musical.

• Business As Always
As Dylan (freshman John Mackey) tries to carry on a conversation with Maggie Jones (junior Megan Nelson), he is distracted by two Pretty Lady dancers (sophomore Nicole Perica and freshman Megan Hewitt).

• Pla ces E v eryone!
Inspiring the ladies to do their best, director Julian Marsh (senior Anthony Springfield) provides last minute advice.

• Choir Ensemble
Ready to harmonize, the quartet of Pretty Lady dancers (sophomores Angela Arnett, Annie Mintner, freshman Candice Springfield, and sophomore Rebecca Erickson) watch the director for their cue.

• All Aboard!
Sneaking in one last number, performers prepare to depart for Philadelphia.
Tuxedos, limos, long dresses, corsages, Prom photos, lavish dinners and excitement make Prom night memorable.

REVELERS

PARTY ON

• Enjoying the Evening
By the fireplace, Maurice Greene, Tynisha Watson, Alisha Tucker and Leon Jarrett feel right at home as they go about the business of celebrating Prom Night.

• On the Boardwalk
Seeking a breath of fresh air, Michael Breneman, Shannon Loncar, Jason Spalding and Hollie Taylor, above left, discover that a walk on the porch is refreshing.

• Stepping Out
Pausing on the entry steps, Darren Nickolett, Cody Snowberg, Jason Indorf, Corey Johnson, Fran Hinsley and Sarah Laymiller, above, are amused to discover that the guys' bow ties and Indorf's hair match the bright Kelly green decorations.

• All Smiles
Aaron Rose and Tanya Brady, middle left, are happy that they have finally reached their destination and that they can stop worrying about whether or not they'll get caught in a storm.

• Slowing Down
Accustomed to running with the wind, Jake Mayhugh sets a slower pace to enjoy a special time with Amy Caster.

• The Gang's All Here
• Sheer Delight

• Happy Together

Upon arrival, Shannon Felix, Nikki Burnam, Melonie Turner and Earl Huffman check out the surroundings.

• Popular Pillar

Chad Spencer and Jody Souders, Sandra Vardijan and Mark Cosgrove, Jim Hunsinger and Megan Nelson pick the same spot to pose.

• Happiness Reigns

In good moods, Jamic Rowland, John Casey, Diana Platt and Shad Rowland, above left, look forward to having even more moments to share a good guffaw.

• Excitement Grows

Brian Clark, Katherine Shields and Stacy Astin, front row, with Liz Astin and David Colston come to collect memories as well as mementoes.

• Best Friends

Throughout high school, Megan McGinnis, Kelly Claxton and Kelli Courtney shared special moments; Prom '95 was no exception.
• Tasty Treats
  Jennifer Hodgson and Shawn Lasley relax beside the popular refreshment table.

• Looking for Fun
  In the mood for something special, Chrissy Lee, Michael O'Leary, Lynn Paul Shatto, Jenny Bissey and Brad Hewitt arrive at the clubhouse.

• Let's Dance
  Anson Arnett and Carla Knight, Tony Brown and Kelli Richardson, Brian Underwood and LaLinda Fairfield dance to the music.

• Back for One More Prom
  Knowing a good thing when he participates in one, alum Chris Faircloth returns to attend another BSHS prom with Theresa Culter.

• Attracting Attention
  Demonstrating their expertise in selecting fashionable finery, Tresie Foster and Ginger Davis step out in lace and beads.

• Being Formal
  Striking a traditional pose before the fireplace, Tom Edmondson, Lisa Thom, Marcus Birzer and Edith Richards hold tight to their souvenir champagne glasses.
Partygoers Gather

Arm in Arm

Giving his support, Josh White escorts Tara Spencer, middle left, as he carefully watches his step. Pausing for a photo, Brian Randall and Staci Butler finally reach their destination.

Personal Design

Adding her special touch to her Prom night, Tera Crumrine proudly wears a dress of her own creation, for which alum André Oden has great admiration.

Seeking some cool air, Kim Orahhood and Bill Stephens enjoy a pleasant breeze off the lake.
Good Times,
Great Fun!

• Dressed for Success
With plans to gather special memories, LaSonya Easterwood, Nakenia McGee, Krashinda McGee and Diandra Greer drop by to participate in another school activity.

• Couples Congregate
All thoughts are on Prom as Erin Hall and Patrick Brady, middle left, rest between songs. In the meantime, Shane Westrup and Michelle Whisman pause by the balloon gate. Amy Sorenson and Chris Springer, however, get a late start from home.

• Double Dates
Longtime friends, Theresa Konovaltske and Mike Harvey, left, join Biff Blankenship and Noelle Barger. A frolicsome foursome, Ian Schaben and Darla Schierbaum share the special evening with Jamie Holman and Andy Thomas.

-Tuned In-
Beginning each morning with an update on events of national and international impact is approved of by 71% of the student body. For some, however, that is time to catch up on sleep or homework. Miss Sheley's first hour English 10 class usually stays alert and even competes to answer the quiz questions correctly.

Channel I Proves Popular with Students

Students have varying opinions on using part of the school day to air Channel I. Most, however, do approve of having the program as part of their school day.

"I enjoy Channel I for its information, its on-the-spot reporting and its allowance of time to finish homework." —Joe Wood

"I don't enjoy Channel I. It's commercialized, and we have no choice as to whether we want to watch it or not." —Bryan Mosher

"I enjoy Lisa Ling!" —Shane Westrup

"I like watching when it's not about political things or when Anderson Cooper is in another country to report on a civil war everyday for a month." —Steven Bloomer

"It keeps us up-to-date, but, since I usually fall asleep that early in the day, they should play Channel I in the afternoon." —Jim Wainwright

-Helping Hands-
Confined to a wheelchair for several weeks due to a football injury, junior Jason Harrington relies on his friends and classmates to assist him.
Pets Sometimes Are Good Friends

UNUSUAL PETS
Proving that not all pets are dogs and/or cats, Brian Clark tends to his “chores” after school and feeds his pet ducks. Clark knows them by name and has a story to tell about most of them.

80% of Students Own Pets...Dog Is Favorite, Cat #2

Most B.S.H.S. pet owners consider their pets friends and, sometimes, admit to being nicer to their canine and feline buddies than to their human honchos.

“How many friends do you have who will bite on command?” —Geoff Collins

“He always listens to me when I have problems and never tries to butt in with what he thinks is right.” —Megan Herring

“I guess I consider my dog a friend because I treat him better than I treat my brother.” —Aña Duran

“She can’t talk, so if I say something stupid, she can’t correct me.” —Amy Donahue

“He never talks behind my back, and he’s the best listener I’ve ever met in my life.” —Carley Pierson.

• Hitting the Books—1%
Taking advantage of the extra time offered by the lunch schedule, sophomore Mary Sweet catches up on her fifth hour class. Even though Sweet opts to use the floor in front of her locker for a study spot, several students actually think of lunch time as library time.

• Making Connections—2%
More concerned with having a few words with someone special than with gulping a fast meal, some students spend their 25 minutes waiting for an open phone and, then, sharing a short conversation while others call in to check on their work schedule. Theresa Culter and Kelly Claxton, above right, don’t get a busy signal.

• Picnic in the Commons
Besides eating in the cafeteria with friends, standing in line, talking on the phone and studying, 6% of the students do something else. Sometimes a student might work on a special project, do some makeup work, complete a test, take a walk, enjoy the sunshine on the patio, decorate a friend’s locker or, as the students above, take advantage of having a friend who has recently graduated and have him/her bring them some fast food.

Ardys Kenyan Honored for 25 Years As Kayette Sponsor

Kenyan Has Silver Anniversary

During her career at BSHS, Ardys Kenyan has been Kayette sponsor and, therefore, has worked with hundreds of students in a capacity other than her usual teaching and counseling positions. To help her celebrate such a history, the Kayettes had a surprise party for her during one of the club’s last meetings of the school year. She was joined by former co-sponsor Georgia Pettis and current co-sponsor Deena French. To commerate the event, offices put together a poster featuring pictures of Mrs. Kenyan through the years. With the poster are Mrs. Pettis, Mrs. French, Heather Dunn, Kim Orahood and Mrs. Kenyan.
CLAY CREATIONS Molding a masterpiece, senior Sarah Malec creates another work of art.
•EXCUSE ME? Staring in disbelief and amazement, Steve Cook's chemistry class seriously attempts to comprehend the day's lesson.

•FAMILY TIES Caring enough to send the very best, Linda Orangkhadivi greets her son Sammy, junior, with birthday wishes.
"My student aide is a capable math student who can do a variety of tasks that make my life easier."

--Bob Caldwell

"I have found student aides most helpful with the day-to-day computer work and bulletin board cut-outs which are very time consuming. My aides are, also, friends with whom I can chat when there is down time."

--Jane McGraw

Willing to Help

Even though B.A. Mauldin, above, finds getting down on bended knee an increasingly difficult job, he, nevertheless, pitches in to help senior Tim Clarrey store math books for the summer. Clarrey did more than manual labor for Mr. Mauldin as he would, also, grade papers and, on occasion, help a struggling student.

Giving Instructions

Before senior Calvin Bibbs starts to grade some math papers, Bob Caldwell can't resist making a few comments to get Bibbs off to a good start. Working with Brother Bob frequently proves to be a challenge for Bibbs as, is widely known, Mr. Caldwell sometimes likes to lead a student on a merry chase.
AIDES’ ASSIGNMENTS

DEMAND DIFFERENT SKILLS

To be an aide, a student must have teacher permission to enroll in a given hour with that instructor. The student, then, receives 1/4 credit per semester in return.

For the most part, however, student aides will admit that they feel that they get more than credit in return for helping a teacher. Not only do they gain a sense of responsibility, but they usually gain the teacher’s respect and friendship as well.

Teachers rely on aides to assist them with the mundane, routine chores of teaching while the aides rely on teachers to trust them, share knowledge with them, offer advice when needed, teach them some of the “tricks of the trade.”

• Going High Tech
Working with Doug Kapeller in the tech lab, senior Theresa Culter gets the opportunity to work with a variety of hardware and software.

• Word Processing
Preparing assignment sheets, reports, etc. for Jane McGraw requires that junior Jennifer Howard demonstrate proficiency in using the MicroSoft Word program. Suffering from a degree of computer phobia, Mrs. McGraw relies heavily on Howard.

• Creating Plans
To be of service to instructor Jim Bonar, senior Charlie Beets has to hone his computer-aided drawing skills.

• Digging in
Not all work done by aides is mental as senior Kendra Deeter has learned. During her hour with Martha Chandley, she helps collect cans for FHA, the club Mrs. Chandley sponsors.
• One Last Hangin' Out Time!

Ready to take that final walk, a group of good friends gather to exchange plans for the evening, including Project Grad.

• Making a Mess

Rolling out her clay, Rachel DeLeon completes step #1 of her pottery project.

Selecting the '95 Joe & Jane

Candidates Return to Childhood

Mr. Rogers helps reveal reasons for Joe/Jane candidates' history of achievements in all-school assembly.

• Spirited Joe & Jane
  Full of pep, Patrick Brady and Chelsea Kindler earn the 1995 honor with their amusing antics.

• Mighty Morphin Masters of Ceremonies
  TeePee Talker Jason Wilhite interviews Mr. Rogers (Shane Westrup) and Prof. Brainwave (Michael Breneman). After Brainwave says that to understand why these nominees are so talented, one must seek information from the past, Mr. Rogers takes everyone back to the early elementary years.
Outstanding Seniors Take Center Stage

- Demonstrating Stage Presence
  Bursting forth with a rendition of Itsy, Bitsy Spider, Lorenzo Knight and Edith Richards, left, truly feel young again.

- Knowing the Answer
  Reaching for the sky, Amy Sorensen is excited to know the answers to all of the complicated first-grade questions.

- Willing to Help
  Quick to come to the aid of Miss Ding Dong (Rachel Adair), Amber Wilson and Anthony Springfield deliver the milk.

- Reviewing Strategy
  Angelica Suffren and Scott Mathia, below left, go over their game plan.

Members of KCK Police Explorer Post 2318, Chris Scholtz and Jason Closser, above right, often spend their weekends getting practical experience in law enforcement. At the All Care Animal Hospital, Amy Burns assists Dr. Verona Chaffin during an examination of Buttons. Hoping to enter the field of sports medicine, trainer Jenny Atkins takes advantage of the opportunity to perfect her ankle-wrapping technique as she prepares Kayron Anderson for a practice session.
Class of '95 Advises Juniors:
Prepare for Sr. Year!

“Understanding that money is needed your senior year, I agree that many students need a job, yet the advice I offer is—Do not work late or long hours. It is extremely hard to keep up with school when you can’t stay awake.”

--Maria Murphy

“It’ll get tough, but that’s life. Whatever you do, don’t give up; that’s just a cop-out. You owe it to yourself to be stronger than that.”

--Angelica Suffren

“Start filling out applications for college and scholarships EARLY and take it seriously.”

--Chelsea Kindler

“Make everything be your choice; don’t let someone else make your decisions.”

--Charlie Beets

“If you plan to go to college, do all you can to research them and find out all you can. Above all, keep your options open”

--Lorenzo Knight

“Put more effort into your Float!”

--Branda Long

• Ahead of Time
Following her own advice, Heather Dunn, above left, tends to the task of collecting attendance cards soon after the bell rings. “Don’t save everything for the last minute. Do things as they come up.”

• Reviewing Early Lessons
“That poster is right. All you really need to know, you learned in kindergarten,” observes Joshua Luke as he suggests that juniors put those lessons to good use next year.

• Fighting Temptation
Michael O’Leary talks with senior sponsor Roger Mignot about the cost of senior novelty items. “Get a job! Save plenty of money! Lots of things will come your way, and you’ll need lots of money to pay for them,” he urges.

• Honoring Friendship
“Don’t wait until the end to tell your friends what you should have told them a long time ago,” states Rachel Adair. Below, Adair, Michelle Whisman, Amber Wilson and Amy Sorensen take a break.

Survey Results Reveal Strong Attitudes

Seniors hold back little as they respond to questions about wide range of BSHS-related subjects.

What Message to Be Read in Ten Years Would You Leave Yourself?

BAD HAIR DAY

Having a truly hair-raising experience, Branda Long holds tight to a Van DeGraaf generator as she contemplates her message, “Just answer me! Did I ever really need physics?”

DETERMINED

Looking forward to coming years, Tera Crumrine promises to remember her advice, “Don’t change for ANYONE!”
Expressing Themselves with Candor

• Favorable Toward Progress Reports
Only 23% of the seniors consider progress reports a bad idea while 33% view them as a good idea and 39% think of them as OK. "It's nice to know what you're making half way through the quarter, but very few of the reports get to the parents," said Bryan Passler, left with business instructor John Heckathorne. Expressing the minority opinion, Amber Wilson states, "Part of what high school is supposed to teach is responsibility. Having progress reports fails to teach us that."

• Conferences Rapped
Over half of the Class of '95 do not favor the newly-initiated parent-teacher conferences. "We are too old for our parents to visit with our teachers," commented Carl Schulte. On the other hand, Bobbie Jo Higginbotham doesn't mind the conference. "They're OK, but only when your teacher says good things about you," states Higginbotham, left with science instructor Steve Cook and her mother, Glenda Higginbotham. Most seniors, however, do see one positive about the conference. "It's nice to get out of school," concended Michael Wheeler as he expressed the main positive registered by his classmates.

• Boring!
Unappreciative of anything which bores them, seniors have negative reactions to the hour-long classes and twice-weekly reading periods. When asked to list the most boring thing about high school, the majority of seniors mentioned the long classes. "When I have nothing to do in class, I can't find things to keep me busy," said Mary Steinbacher, left. In the minority about reading period, members of Nancy Yankovich's English class settle in for a literary adventure. Jamie Holman, however, reflected the most popular view of 52% when she said, "All we do is look at magazines for 15 minutes or listen to gossip."

Out the Door... to Return No More!

Ready for a change of routine, members of the Class of '95 banged close their lockers on Thursday, May 11, and, with arms full of mementoes, fled to freedom from the rigors of the public school system. Looking forward to attending college, learning a trade or starting a job, they bid BSHS friends farewell.

Final Gathering
Checking out with each other, Tynisha Watson, Calvin Bibbs and Kelvin Venerable exchange fond farewells.

Patiently Waiting
After waiting thirteen years, Michael Crooks, below, is more than happy to wait just a few more minutes to check out his cap and gown.

Cleaning Out
Cramming the remains of their senior year into bags and recycling bins, seniors leave little behind. Ignoring the kibitzing of Howie Stanley and Bryan Mosher, Rob Neal, above left, fills his back pack.

Gathering the Gang
Flashing their pearly whites, Branda Long, Amanda Long, Marla Murphy, Jenny Atkins and Edith Richards, far left, think ahead to their Las Vegas trip.

Look at Me!
Excited to be graduating at last, Melissa Canfield is bursting with pride.

Loaded with Memories
With their minds full of memories, Megan McGinnis, Theresa Konoval ski and Kelly Claxton end their final day at BSHS.
May 14 is Night to Remember!

Soon-to-Be Grads Gather
Anxious to get the proceedings started, Chris Zimmerman, Jason Bergkamp, Michael O'Leary, Paul Shatto, Patricia O'Hare, Michael Breneman and Grant Generaux arrive early so that they can make sure on which side to wear their tassels.

Good Guys Wear Black
Decked out in their graduation gowns, Andy Grudniewski, Chris Scholtz, Jason Closser and Kendall Payne wish that the school were already air conditioned.

Classmates & Chums
Friends for years, Theresa Culter, Chris Cunningham, Tera Crumrine, Donna Drydale, Rachel DeLeon and Andre Doss feel mixed emotions as they anticipate breaking up the old gang.
THE END OF AN ERA
As the procession begins, Mary Steinbacher, Tim Starks and Howie Stanley, left, can't resist a grin. A more somber, Angelica Suffren and Courtney Stubbs keep the pace. Wishing for sunglasses, Jenny Woodward, Melanie Wise and Amber Wilson battle the glare.

ENTERING THE STADIUM
Looking for friends and relatives, Grant Generaux, Diandra Greer, Andy Grudniewski, Jamey Hagerty and Charlie Hart approach their assigned seats.

ON THE LAST LAP
Coming into the final turn of the track, Staci Butler, Aaron Caldwell, Melissa Canfield, Shane Cannon, John Casey and Brian Clark hope that the formal ceremony goes quickly so that the real celebrating can begin.

RESPECTFULLY LISTENING
Members of the Class of '95 give their full attention to the Commencement speakers.
• CHECKING OUT
Trading their robes for their diplomas, Michael Newton and Pat Brady, above left, watch Deena French find their documents while Chuck Poling, right, neatly folds his gown.

• GOOD JOB!
As senior sponsor and guidance counselor, Roger Mignot is especially happy to see students successfully complete their high school careers. He offers his best wishes to Tim Wyrick, left, and Mauletha Reiss, right.
Delighted by the idea that he no longer has to worry about the attendance policy, Aaron Caldwell looks for his station. Thinking he's making a pretty good trade, Grant Generaux swaps a piece of synthetic cloth for a real "sheepskin." No longer BSHS students, Andy Grudniweski and Chris Zimmerman happily look forward to moving onward and upward.

Project Graduation

• Free at Last!

• Placing Their Bets
Choosing between the black and the red numbers can sometimes prove a difficult choice, but Sean Bell and Monica Stinnett seem confident in their selections.

• In the Chips
While Jaime Kernaghan looks doubtful, Charlie Beets shows Shane Westrub his winnings and gets ready to beat the dealer one more time.

• Garbed in Goggles
Following the rules of safety, Amber Wilson and Amy Sorensen protect their eyes before taking to the racket ball court.
Learning By Osmosis

Testing the theory that one truly can learn while sleeping, Mitch Jones, above, stretches his imagination during his own version of individual study.

Testing a Theory

Beginning their unit on the algebraic concept of inverse and direct variation, Tim Johnson, Gray VonFriedley and Ricky McMurtrey participate in an introductory "spring" project.

Juniors proudly display their work before the Homecoming parade. They are ready to Shiska-Bear!
Prize-Winning Homecoming Float

- Number One
  Raising spirit down Oak Street, a truckload of juniors shout chants about their class to anyone who will listen. Jery Salb, Amy Surprise, Megan Scheidt, Shana Forrest, Amanda Coleman and Diana Platt scream from the spirit truck.

- Flag Corp Friends
  After the parade, Lynceyta Diggs and LaTricia Nelson make a bright day brighter with their smiles.
Juniors Participate in Classes, Activities

Tea Time
During his Child Development class, D.L. Schierbaum plays dishes with two of his visitors.

Butterflies
Prior to their trying out for Channel 1, Tricia Sellers, Diana Platt and Bryce Puntenney try to calm their nerves and remember their lines.
Accompanied by Aaron Rose, Tanya Brady replenishes herself with a thirst-quenching slice of watermelon.

Jennifer Luttrell escorts Erin Hall, who has just donated a pint of blood, to the recovery station.

Adding a feather to his masque, Shad Rowland completes his costume for the French class Mardi Gras celebration.
• WAITING FOR INSPIRATION
While classmate Jim Wainwright draws diligently, Anson Arnett contemplates how to make his air-brush project uniquely his.

• BUSTING WITH PRIDE
Waiting for their cues, Kelli "Dolly" Richardson and Carla Day prepare to give the performance of their lives in a skit for Connie Henry's English class.
Juniors Express Their Individual Personalities

• Picture of Patience
Enthralled with the action during the Powder Puff game, Nathan Hylton and Wesley Uhl pay close attention to every move on the field.

• Statue of Liberty Wannabe?
With his crown of spiked hair, Cody Snowberg leaves a lasting impression on his classmates the final day of the '94-'95 school year.

• Leader of the People
At the Homecoming pep rally, Kelly Day steps forward to encourage the crowd to let the team hear their cheers.
• MAKING THEIR MARK
Preparing a time line for "Contents of the Dead Man's Pockets," Amy Donahue, Christina Fry, Shawn Cunliffe, Sunshine Peterman and Mary Sweet provide evidence that collaborative learning is truly interesting.

• SEEKING KNOWLEDGE
Searching for scientific answers to everyday problems, David Freiner, Aaron Meier, Sean Sells, Chris Elliott, Rory McConnell and Brandon Fisher combine their efforts in Chuck Davis's biology class.
Dumping out end-of-the-year trash into the recycling bin, Justin Starnes demonstrates that students are becoming more resourceful.

Participating in Their First Homecoming Festivities

• Keep on Truckin'
Getting into the spirit of Homecoming, sophomores cheer the class of '97 as they travel down Oak Street. Cambrey Cushman, Chrisie Smith, Erica Anderson, Kim Potter and Heather Lynn get pumped up.

• Post-Parade Break
After walking a couple of miles, Holli Taylor and Shannon Loncar welcome the opportunity to catch their breath.
Sophomores Explore Different Subjects

Six Trait Time
Besides doing other assignments, Chris Wood's English students spend hours in the Mac lab as they prepare to submit their papers for a six-trait writing assessment.

Metal Work
In crafts class, Linda Horvath helps Kristie Sellers and Angie Wheeler with the bracelets they are making.
• Getting Down to the Bare Bones of the Matter
Practicing tactile learning, Michael Nelson and Scott Jackson discover what man is really made of as Jamie Rowland and Amy Ashford stand ready to pick up the pieces should disaster strike.

• Fossils from the Kaw
Examining a collection of fossils and bones discovered along the banks of the Kansas River, Anna Willmon, Marcus Birzer, Ginger Zaring, Amanda Wilcox and Shannon Trowbridge get in touch with the past.

Group Work
Combining their skills, Erica Anderson, Josh Thompson, Josh Moulin and Chrissy Smith list descriptive details from a short story which they read in English class. Students frequently work in groups to complete an assignment so that they can experience the benefits of sharing ideas.
Sophos Adapt to BSHS Life

• Friends & Food
Using their lunch period as a time to catch up on the latest as well as time to ingest nourishment, Bryan Wise and Chris Elliott, above left, find a quiet spot away from the noisy cafeteria.

• Snack Time
Amazed that the snack machines are so accessible, Kim Brown, above right, tells Claudia Luna all about her favorite junk foods.

• Bright Student
While decorating Mrs. Jacobs' classroom, Annie Mintner gets carried away and lights up John Carter.

• Class Pride
Following his Bonner Invitational race, Doug Landrum accepts congratulations from classmates Tyler Scott and Neil Wachter.
• Faculty Meeting
At least twice a month, staffers gather to receive instructions about new policies, current problems, etc. Ted Stephens, Jane McGraw, Jim Bonar, Chip Ahern, Bob Caldwell, Elsie Hughes and Chuck Davis listen to the latest information.

• Staying Focused
Despite the "late" hour, Connie Henry, Patsy Melius and Marsha Nelson muster up sufficient energy to remain mentally alert during another after-school meeting.
A MAN OF ACTION

Getting into his lectures, first-year teacher Tony Helfrich illustrates the meaning of his lessons by sharing some real-life stories with his students.
Board of Education

Ready to monitor the implementation of the building improvements made possible by the '94 bond issue, members of the USD #204 Board of Education look forward to providing better learning facilities for the district's students. Front row: John Marxen, Alice Jenkins, Judy Pickell and Jim Finley. Back row: Don Craven, Lewis Wood, Pat Wheeler, Cliff Brents and Jim Shepherd.

New Leaders Guide B.S.H.S.

Taking over the leadership of BSHS, former assistant principal Bob VanMaren wasted no time in moving forward. During his first year as principal, VanMaren was instrumental in working with the faculty to design a new schedule and to create new classes for the coming school year.

Coming from the Shawnee Mission system, Rick Lander stepped in to the assistant principal position and spent his first year gathering data to support revising the attendance policy and establishing an alternative-learning situation for next year.

FACULTY FUN TIME
Following a special faculty meeting to honor the '95 retirees, physical education instructor Freda Reynolds, business teacher Ted Stephens and secretary Mary Kimbrough smile as they remember being roasted by their peers.

Three Staff Members Anticipate Relaxing, Being with Family During Retirement Years

Freda Reynolds
Physical Education

Just as the members of the Class of '95 went on to different places and different activities, so did three favorite staff members move onward. Freda Reynolds, Ted Stephens and Mary Kimbrough took early retirement to pursue their dreams, relax a little and be with family.

After 32 years at BSHS and 33 years of teaching physical education, Mrs. Reynolds said she looks forward to doing LOTS of fishing and traveling with her husband John. They have purchased a new truck to haul their new trailer so that they can be on the road as much as they choose.

Even though she is looking forward to seeking new horizons, Mrs. Reynolds will, naturally, miss being at her desk when next year’s school bell rings. Working with students has been the focus of her life for so long that she will find it difficult to adjust to not dealing with kids.

Although he may be in the halls as an occasional substitute, Mr. Stephens, a business teacher for 32 years, plans to hit the road and attend as many auctions and garage sales as he can find. Collecting has been a longtime hobby of his, and he looks forward to adding to the assortment of interesting articles he has gathered over the years.

Besides working with students in the classroom, Mr. Stephens attended most of the school events as he was the extra-duty coordinator and had to be on hand to make sure that all the gates were covered, tickets were available, etc. He firmly believes that the greatest reward of teaching is getting to know so many young men and women.

Announcements will sound different next year because Mrs. Kimbrough, secretary for 16 years, will be working with younger children next year, her grandchildren for whom she will be caring.

Every student who has passed through these halls at one time or another became acquainted with Mrs. Kimbrough, so she has become a well-known person in the Bonner-Edwardsville community.

All three retirees mentioned that they will miss the BSHS family and that they take with them many fond memories.

Focus on Learning Styles

Teachers Recognize Need for Variety

MATHEMATICS IN MOTION
During Ann Decker’s geometry class, Josh Thompson, Jim Hunsinger, Carie Bush and Brian Randall become acquainted with inscribed angles and intercepted arcs of circles by using twine to create their own examples of those circle components.

The Brain Functions in Mysterious Ways

Linguistic
The linguistic learner likes words and can argue, persuade, entertain or instruct through the use of language, written or spoken, and tends to learn by taking notes. Such a learner is likely to become a journalist, storyteller, poet, lawyer or novelist.

Logical-Mathematical
This style of learner likes numbers and logic and can reason, sequence, think in terms of cause-effect, look for conceptual regularities or numerical patterns and frequently makes charts of assigned material. The logical-mathematical learner is likely to become a scientist, accountant or computer programmer.

Spatial
Someone who learns spatially thinks in pictures and images and can visualize vivid details, sketch ideas graphically and become oriented in three-dimensional space easily. The spatial learner might become an architect, photographer, artist, pilot, engineer or designer.

Musical
One with musical intelligence feels the beat and has a good ear, can sing in tune, keeps time, likes to listen to different kinds of music and likes to learn by creating rhythmical memory aids. He/she might become a composer, singer, pianist, orchestra conductor or disk jockey.

Bodily-Kinesthetic
This type of learner likes to move and is a hands-on person. He/she might become an athlete, craftsman, mechanic or carpenter.

Interpersonal
An interpersonal learner is a people person and is compassionate, socially responsible but may also, be manipulative. Such a person may become an administrator or a social director.

Intrapersonal
A loner, the intrapersonal learner is independent, goal directed, intensely self-disciplined and can easily understand various emotional states. Such a learner may become a counselor, self-employed businessman, theologian.
THERE'S MORE THAN ONE WAY TO LEARN

• SPATIALLY TALENTED
Filling a void with illustrative figures, junior Giordana Rock works on her masking airbrush assignment.

• DEEP IN THOUGHT
Taking notes, junior Jessica Dressler, below left, uses the linguistic approach to sorting and storing information.

• ON HIS OWN
Amid the scientific paraphernalia in Steve Cook's chemistry classroom, junior David Espinoza, below right, works intrapersonally to unlock some of the mysteries of complex solutions.

• CHARTING A COURSE
Relying on the logical-mathematical approach to committing data to memory, sophomore Heather Delladio, above left, reviews her chart for Chuck Davis's biology class.

• KEEPING THE BEAT
While working on a project in Linda Horvath's art class, sophomore Rick Harvey lets some music help him get the rhythm of drawing.

• SHARING THE LOAD
Sophomores Brandy Coonce and Rashell Ridenour find it easier to work with someone while examining slides in biology and, therefore, take the interpersonal approach to learning.
Classwork
Focuses on Special Assignments.

Research Proves Change in Approach Increases Learning

• RESEARCHING AT KCKCC
At the invitation of the KCKCC library, social studies teacher Jane McGraw and English teacher Nancy Yankovich took their classes to the campus to use the more advanced research facilities. Even though the BSHS library is online with ShareNet and has other research-ready resources, students were able to tap into even more services during their information highway field trip.

• ABOUT TO EXPLODE!
Curious to discover the mysteries of a volcano, sophomores Brian Shatto and Brian Randall work with Pam Schultz to build a working model. Built to scale, the volcano in its final stages represented a work of art as well as a science project. In Mrs. Schultz's classes, students have a variety of hand-on assignments during the year, including a major undertaking when they repainted her classroom with information about the planets.

• FEEL LIKE WALKING ON AIR
To develop a better understanding of the laws of physics, seniors Pat Brady and Travis Morgan prepare to test their version of a hydroplane. Morgan, anxious to zip across the Commons, adjusts the air flow direction as Brady gets the "plane" in position for lift off.
Creative Craftsmen

On Target

Aiming spray at his patterns, junior John Hadley works on his airbrush project while senior Michael O’Leary gets some pointers.

Snake Charmers

Checking on the condition of the biology reptilian resident, juniors Dennis Engler and Rocky Davis let a garter snake slide and slither.

Chemical Cleanliness

Seniors Michael Wheeler and Michelle Whisman ply their trade of making soap in chemistry class.

Photo Finish

Educators Choose Teaching for One Main Reason

Obviously, it's not for money. It's not for public praise. It's not for short hours. It's not even for prestige.

Teachers teach because they want to help kids succeed!

Teachers spend summers taking workshops, attending college classes, preparing lesson plans and establishing outcomes in order to improve their teaching talents.

Teachers sacrifice their personal time to help their students succeed.

A student's success is a teacher's greatest reward!

• Captive Audience
Math instructor Bob Caldwell guides his students to an understanding of the magic of numbers on a variety of levels from basic math to calculus.

• Enhancing Learning
Preparing her class to take note of certain changes in the story's content, English instructor Nancy Yankovich starts a video version of a work of literature the students have read in class.

• One-on-One Instruction
Working with the home ec department's computer equipment, Martha Chandley gives Liz Asten pointers on using a new program.
A TEACHER'S TARGET IS ESTABLISHING LIFE SKILLS

Integrity...Common Sense...Organization...Effort...Responsibility...Caring...Friendship...Cooperation...Patience...Flexibility...Sense of Humor

• WORKING TOGETHER
Sometimes an instructor learns from a student, especially in the growing field of technology. Trying to meet a deadline, Pow Wow adviser Jill Holder and senior Grant Generaux combine efforts to design a graphic by using new software program purchased for the Macintosh lab. Such cooperation serves students in later life.

• PROM PRACTICE
Former BSHS home economics teacher and current USD #204 director of inservice, Sharrilyn Ronacki maintains an interest in classroom activities and, therefore, returns each year to talk with Ardy's Kenan's classes about the manners of dining out. Her instruction emphasizes caring not only for one's dinner partner but for the other patrons as well.

• ONE-ON-ONE
The theory of one-on-one works as well in the classroom as it does on the basketball court, so John Heckathorne frequently singles out a student to give individual instruction during a class period. He encourages his students to practice patience and not to give up on a program without trying all alternatives.

• A TEACHER'S REWARD
One of the favorite times for BSHS staff members is the night of graduation, and those teachers who help distribute diplomas feel a certain sense of accomplishment as they congratulate former students on their success. Mike Howe is pleased to offer his best wishes to BSHS alum Bryan Passler and to recognize how well Passler's effort paid off during his years at the high school.

ONE GENERATION'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS IS REFLECTED IN THE NEXT GENERATION.
DEMANDING RESPECT  Demonstrating his strength, senior Tim "Moose" Wyrick rips down a rebound.
Demonstrating their versatility, senior Jake Mayhugh and junior Lionel Groves display their love for athletics.

Strike a Pose Entertaining the student body, the Dance Team makes a captivating comeback to Bonner Springs High School.
Coaches' Comment

Beginning of an Era
The first girls cross country team served notice that they intend to make their mark. Front row: H. Wheeler, M. Howe, H. Rainbolt
Back row: K. Oldham, T. Brady, R. Ridenour.
One Step Ahead.

DEDICATED COMPETITORS
Cross country runners must rise early for before-school practice and stay late for after-school sessions, no matter the weather. Willing to meet that challenge are junior Wes Uhl, above left, seniors Jake Mayhugh and Rob Neal, sophomore Doug Landrum, and juniors Tom Edmondson, Joe Wood and Brad Hewitt.

GETTING IN STRIDE
The Men’s Cross Country Team continually contributes a spirit of pride to the fall sports program.

Coach's Comments

"Great Year!" It was a lot of fun and I'm very proud of what our kids accomplished. I will miss the excitement of the games & the individual work with each kid. I hope the program will continue to improve as it has for the past four years, and with Coach Bonar at the helm, I'm sure it will.

A Good Exchange
With his lay-ups, jump shots, and high-flying slam dunks, foreign exchange student Philipp Römer, became a welcome addition to the Braves Basketball team during their 1994-1995 season.
• Seniors Leaders
Many Braves stood out as leaders, but Shannon Sonnier, Tim "Moose" Wyrick, Paul Huebner, and Steven Egnor rose to the challenge of Braves Basketball.

• Most Inspirational Player
Accepting his plaque for the most inspirational player of the Tonganoxie Tournament, Calvin Bibbs realizes that as a senior, he must pass the torch on.

• Getting Some Air
As if he had wings, sophomore Corey Doss jumps high and scores another basket for the Braves.

• He Can't Be Held Back
Not even with an opponent's arm trying to pull him down, Jason Wilhite still fights through and makes the shot.

Braves will return next year without the leadership of Coach K.

Coach's Comments

"Several players were injured during the season which hurt the team's chemistry. Each girl always played hard when called upon to play in a game. The team's record of wins and losses will not show how hard the girls practiced and played. I'm proud of the way the team gave their all to each game."

Coach's Comments

"We had a fantastic season!! This is the first team in school history to win their regional and advance to the state tournament. Making it to the state tournament was an accomplishment in itself, but this team went farther—they placed fourth. Bonner Springs has a lot to be proud of for the efforts and desire this team had. Bonner Track Team Takes Great Strides

Coach's Comments

"I felt my rookie season as a head coach was very enjoyable. We had an excellent coaching staff, and the kids, for the most part, were very capable and coachable. The excitement was due to the fact that the numbers were higher than they had been before. Both the men's and women's teams were great, and I was enthralled to see both the men's and women's team finish third at the Huron League Meet."

• Giving It Her Best Shot
Aiming far down the field, sophomore Jennifer Craven loads up for a mighty toss.

• In Perfect Stance
With arched back and solid grip, junior Carla Knight is on target for another chance at placing in a meet. Knight, also, made the trip to State.
In her first season as a member of the track team, Angelica Suffren made her mark in the record books and, also, qualified for State. Ranking high in the area, Kendall Payne's javelin throws improved throughout the season. Working with the weights, Howie Stanley and John Casey established good shotput marks.

Cross-country training pays off for junior Tanya Brady, who competes in the distance events. Never one to give in, Brady holds her own against oncoming competitors.

Getting to rest a foot on a hurdle is one of the few advantages of competing in the steeplechase. Sophomore Doug Landrum, a distance runner, qualified for State in the 3200 meter event.

Fire Drill--an Exercise in Safety

IN ALL KINDS OF WEATHER

Just as the mailmen of the postal service, BSHS students must go forward through rain, sleet, snow or Kansas tornadoes whenever the bell rings to evacuate the building. If the weather isn't too uncomfortable, students enjoy the break from the day's routine to catch up on chatting with friends.
On the last day that the teachers were on duty, May 30, news spread quickly that the chillers, the main elements of the air-conditioning system, had arrived. Until that delivery, staff members had remained skeptical that the '95-'96 school year would find BSHS bathed in cool air.
CONGRATULATIONS,

SON!

Shane Westrup
Class of 1995

Shane,

There are many ways we could say how proud
we are of you, but you already know that, and we love you.

Study hard and have some fun, too.

Love, Dad, Ann & Shelly

Rose Barger

Noey,

Keep your standards high and your inner strength intact, and you can be or do anything you want!

You’ve been an inspiration and a joy as a daughter and a sister.

We wish you the very best in life. The house will be empty without your smiling face.

We love your very much,

Mom, Nick & Jeff
What happened to our "little girl"?

Kindergarten

Inexpensive, obedient, courteous, easygoing, simple needs.

Senior Year

Expensive, argumentative, emotional, moody, endless needs!

We wouldn't have it any other way, Monica!

With love from: Mom & Dad, Megan & Trevor

Class of '95

Anthony,

You are the type of son and brother that others would love to have. You are so kind and caring; there is never a moment when you aren't putting everyone before yourself. We (your family) just want you to know how proud you make us to have you in our lives. You have grown up to be an exceptional young man.

With the Lord's blessings & our love, may you exceed all your goals and live your life to the fullest. Love always,

Mom & Dad
Bernard & Candice

May God be with you on your journey of life!
Congratulations, Megan “Stumper”!

We believe, as written in Psalm 139, that God carefully and intricately designed everything about you. Not one detail was left to chance. You are so important to your Creator that His thoughts concerning you “outnumber the grains of sand.” Our prayer for you is that you will always chase your dreams and follow your heart. In everything you do or become, we will always love and cherish you.

Marla Murphy

Marla,

You have an angel in Heaven whose halo is spinning and wings are fluttering over your accomplishments.

Here on Earth, your family is just as proud of you.

May you always continue to strive for excellence.

Love,

Aunt Geri & a host of family and friends
Edith,
We love you very much, and we are very proud of you.

Outstanding Athlete, Outstanding Son!

Calvin,

You were the first of three bright stars to shine in our life.

We prayed to the Lord your light would shine bright.

He let us plant the seeds that grew a strong black man.

All of these things were in the Lord's master plan.

You showed us you could succeed!

You know success. You have the power and strength to surpass the rest.

And with our love to see you through, your life will turn out the way you want it to....

Love, Mama & Daddy
Milestones

It was a cold January in seventy-seven
When we received our second little piece of heaven.
Eighteen of those anniversaries have past.

And, for you, high school graduation is here at last.
It marks a time for looking back,
At lessons learned, fond memories and things like that.
It offers you new opportunities, and we are glad.

TERESA KONOVALSKE 1995

Congratulations, Jamie!

We've watched you grow from a little girl into a young woman.

All of your accomplishments along the way have been a source of pride and happiness.

You've made a difference in the lives of those around you.

AUTOCARDS
AUTographs
Working again this year with Herff Jones' PageMaster, the Totem Pole staff submitted the entire 160 pages on disk. The 315 copies were printed on 80 lb. 7 3/4" X 10 1/2" enamel paper.

The embossed cover was etched with silver base material, printed with Cadmium Red and White silk screen of a brush grain and featured a brave head developed by a company artist.

Inside, we used one flat of four color portraits with four color paper for background and one flat of Midnight Blue spot color. Story text was printed in 9 pt. Times, and the captions used 8 pt. Times. All graphics, text and page designs created by staff on MacIntosh computers using Page Maker 4.2 and 5.0 and Aldus Free Hand 3.1.

THANKS...THANKS...THANKS...THANKS...THANKS...THANKS...THANKS... AGAIN!

Throughout the year, the following people have given continuous support and assistance. We, the members of the Totem Pole staff, would like to extend a heartfelt thanks for their help in the production of this edition.

Jill Holder for taking club and numerous other pictures this year; Ken Clark and Kay Smith for assisting with many odd jobs and mishaps in the computer lab; Clausie Smith and Bill Downing for providing us with more pictures than we could ever ask for; Nancy Hall, Herff Jones representative, for helping work out problems and develop new ideas.

The entire BSHS staff for being so cooperative and supportive. The English teachers for letting us use their class time to run surveys. Everyone for notifying us of photo opportunities.
